U.N. Warns Belgium to Quit Congo

But Assembly Fails to Fix Deadline
Or Vote Penalties

Related Story Page B-4

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP)—The U.N. General Assembly demanded anew Saturday night a Belgian exodus from the Congo but refused to fix any deadline or threaten Belgium with penalties.

The 99-nation Assembly took the action as it wound up two weeks of debate on proposals aimed at setting up a broad program to prevent civil war and bring political factions together.

The final session was marked by an overwhelming vote of confidence in Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjöld.

A 21-NATION resolution demanding withdrawal of Belgian military, semi-military personnel and political advisers was approved 61-5, with 33 abstentions.

Provisions calling for a 21-day deadline for the withdrawal failed to win a majority by three votes.

The United States voted against the deadline and threat of penalties, and abstained on the resolution as a whole.

The Assembly went on to approve a U.S.-supported resolution setting forth long-range objectives for the Congo. The vote was 60 in favor, 16 against, 23 abstentions.

A KEY SECTION urged new measures by Hammarskjöld to keep outside military aid from reaching political factions. The vote amounted to a sharp rebuff to Soviet bloc countries.

Other important provisions urged convening of the Congo parliament. The resolution urged also the immediate release of all members of parliament and political leaders now in jail, and the appointment of a seven-member conciliation commission to aid Congolese leaders.

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP)—The United States and 20 other countries proposed Saturday night that the U.N. General Assembly deplore Soviet and Hungarian disregard of its resolutions for freedom in Hungary.

But in a resolution submitted to the Assembly they omitted any suggestion that it continue the assignment of Sir Leslie Munro of New Zealand as U. N. representative on Hungary.

Munro, appointed Dec. 12, 1958, has tried in vain ever since to get officials of Hungary to let him come in and look around.

Gen. Cannon Tells of Army 'Brushfire War' Capability

By GEORGE ERES

For the first time in history, the United States has troops ready to move at full strength and prepared for combat anywhere in the world, Lt. Gen. Robert N. Cannon, commander of the Sixth Army, said here Saturday afternoon.

GENERAL CANNON
Addresses Reservists

Addressing the 24th State Convention of the Reserve Officers Association in Lafayette Hotel, Gen. Cannon said:

Through STRAC (Strategic Army Corps), the "fire brigade" of the Army, the Army can get moving within an hour after being alerted. "The STRAC force is composed of two airborne divisions and an infantry division with the necessary support-type units. It numbers approximately 114,000 men."

GEN. CANNON said the units are tested frequently. "During the past year, elements of this force from Sixth Army have been airlifted to and participated in field exercises in Alaska, Panama, Puerto Rico and the Philippine Islands," he reported.

In support of the Army policy of "forward strategy" (forces in position, on the ground, ready to act with allied ground forces to resist Communist aggression), the U.S. has an Army force of 870,000, 40 per cent of it overseas.

This policy has been successful, said Gen. Cannon. "Of all the millions of square miles which have been lost to the free world since World War II, all have been within range of U.S. air-delivered nuclear weapons, but not one inch of ground has been lost which was within range of a U.S. combat soldier, on the ground, armed with a rifle."

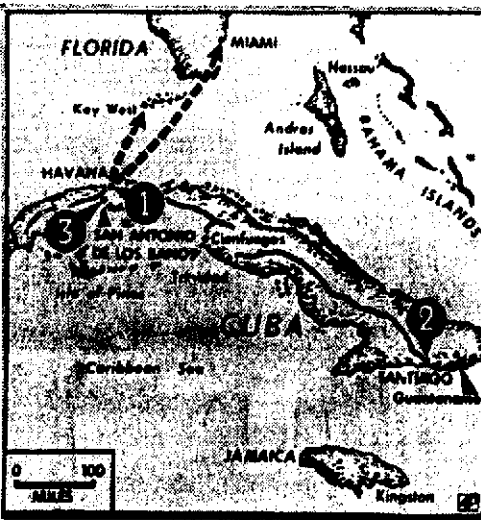

EARLIER IN THE day, Undersecretary of the Army Stephen Ailes told the convention that the cold war is costing the people of the world $14 million an hour.

Ailes said the policy of the United States is to be so capable of retaliatory action that the Soviets will be deterred from starting a hot war, and to increase the "special forces" (troops trained in guerrilla and anti-guerrilla tactics) which can aid friendly nations.

"Ten more Polaris submarines are now scheduled and the construction program is being rushed so that 29 will be in operational readiness two years earlier than previously planned," the Army undersecretary said.

"Additional Minuteman missile squadrons, both fixed-base and mobile, are being developed. The Strategic Air (Continued Page A-2, Col. 6)

Kennedy 'Tests Arms,' Says Che

HAVANA (UPI)—Major Ernesto (Che) Guevara, Cuba's Marxist industrial czar, Saturday denounced "The Catholic Kennedy" for "testing his arms" against Cuba.

The dawn air attack against this little island "came only from one place—bases in the United States, Guevara charged in a nationwide broadcast.

"We know this attack is the prelude to invasion by 5,000 worms plus some internal worms who propose to add to the list of our martyrs," he said.

HE SPOKE TO militia units somewhere in western Pinar del Rio Province. His address was carried over the government-controlled radio network.

Guevara, who is Prime Minister Fidel Castro's top aide, singled out President John F. Kennedy for blame for the attack.

"We are facing the facts of a war against the new Fascists, the new Nazis, who are trying once again to launch a war against defenseless nations," Guevara continued.

"THIS IS THE same manner in which the Nazis, defeated by history, acted. This is the Catholic Kennedy who says he is going to liberate the free world of hateful Communists and now we see him testing his arms against a small nation."

The Argentine-born Cuban leader added sarcastically: "The United States, that very valiant people who... just put a cockroach in space and acclaimed it as a great thing, is responsible for the air attack."

Hunger Strike on Death Row

SAN QUENTIN (UPI)—Twenty-nine condemned prisoners scheduled to die in San Quentin's gas chamber, went on a hunger strike Saturday because they did not like their food.

A prison spokesman said that as a result of previous complaints menu changes had been made and the fare was considered "adequate."

Breakfast Saturday morning, which only five of the 34 prisoners on Death Row were willing to eat, consisted of stewed apricots and milk.

JFK Weighs Drastic Steps on Recovery

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy faces a self-imposed deadline Tuesday for deciding whether more drastic measures are needed to buoy the nation's economy.

The President is known to be considering a new batch of proposals that would involve heavy government costs. But these must be weighed against the inflationary risks in more red ink spending and renewed outflow of gold.

Also, there is the political problem that his initial program has only partly cleared through Congress.

ON FEB. 2, after only two weeks in office, Kennedy sent a special economic measure to Capitol Hill outlining his preliminary program "designed to restore momentum to the American economy."

"I have recommended measures," he said then, "designed to set us firmly on the road to full recovery and sustained growth. But if these measures prove to be inadequate to the task, I shall submit further proposals to the Congress within the next 75 days."

"We will do what needs to be done to fulfill the high promise of the American economy."

With the 75-day deadline running out Tuesday Kennedy has on his desk a sheaf of proposals suggested by his advisers and government departments for use if need be, Kennedy told newsmen

Teacher Let Class Beat Boy, Is Charge

FRESNO (AP)—The Fresno School Board is investigating charges by an eighth grade boy's parents that he was swatted once with a paddle by each of 30 classmates as a disciplinary measure.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Dunn accused Robert W. Pengilly, 37, his teacher, of unprofessional conduct. That is ground for firing under the State Education Code.

They said their 13-year-old son, Bill, was left black and blue by the paddling April 7 at Wawona Junior High School.

PENGILLY said in a statement to the board that he has had a long history of discipline problems with the boy. The Duns said they were never informed their son was a behavior problem.

Classmates said Bill was a behavior problem and had been warned several times.

"I don't think Mr. Pengilly thought it would go that far or that the kids would hit that hard," said one pupil.

PENGILLY said Bill, after the paddling, was quiet and attentive "for the first time I can remember all year."

He said the pupils were not forced to swat the boy and some passed up the opportunity.

Erwin A. Dann, assistant superintendent of education for secondary schools, said the action violated the system's policy on corporal punishment.

Hail, Winds, Rain Strike Southeast

By United Press International

Violent thunderstorms carrying at least two tornadoes buffeted the Southeast Saturday and the Plains states from Texas northward shivered under frost warnings.

A funnel cloud raked through southeast Georgia and high winds unroofed a downtown building at Tunica, Miss. Winds up to 59 miles an hour carried golf-ball-size hail into Birmingham and Bessemer, Ala.

Heavy rain flooded streets, marooned cars and sent water creeping into houses in low-lying areas of Memphis, Tenn. Unseasonable snow fell in southern Illinois, threatening loss of apple and peach crops.

Adlai Denies Roa Charge of 'Piracy'

Planes Castro's, Pilots Defectors,
One of Them Says

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP)—Cuban Foreign Minister Raul Roa charged here Saturday that the United States engineered bomb attacks on Cuban air bases as a prelude to a large-scale invasion.

He described the attacks as "vandalistic aggression" and "an act of imperialistic piracy." He accused President Kennedy of deception in promising nonintervention.

U. S. Chief Delegate Adlai E. Stevenson categorically denied Roa's charge in the U.N. General Assembly's political committee that U. S. bombers made the dawn raids Saturday.

He recalled that President Kennedy had pledged recently that U. S. armed forces never would intervene in Cuba.

BUT ROA SAID Kennedy's statement was just "a smoke-screen hung before and intended to cloak the invasion of my country that is intended to take place at any time."

Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Valerian A. Zorin said Stevenson's statement did not satisfy him. He told the 99-nation committee:

"With one single word from the United States, not one plane would have bombed Cuba. The fact is that this word was never spoken."

Zorin indicated a belief that the U.N. should act to stop what he called "activities hostile to Cuba... on the territory of the United States."

Roa said the raids had caused seven deaths and "mercenaries employed by the United States government have announced that tonight at 10 they will again bomb the Cuban cities."

THE DAWN air strikes left behind smoking munitions dumps and heavy property damage in Havana and two other Cuban cities.

Two light bombers, World War II B26s, landed in Florida a few hours later and one of the pilots said the attack was carried out by him and two fellow fliers defecting from the Castro air force.

Castro officials charged that six planes based in the United States carried out the raids on Havana's Camp Libertad, Santiago's main airfield, and air force headquarters at San Antonio de los Baños.

President Osvaldo Dorticos claimed that no planes or pilots had taken off from Cuba. "We believe these planes left from the United States and returned to bases there," he added.

THE GOVERNMENT, warning that the attack could be a prelude to an invasion, mobilized all troops and militia units, including women's organizations.

Officials said seven persons were killed and 24 wounded (Continued Page A-4, Col. 1)

Taxpayers Ask Larger Refunds

WASHINGTON (AP)—Americans are claiming larger average income tax refunds this year—$117 compared with $108 in 1960.

This was disclosed Saturday by the Internal Revenue Service which said $2.7 billion in refunds had been mailed to 23.2 million taxpayers by April 10. By the same date a year ago, $2.2 billion had been refunded to 20.6 million taxpayers.

IRS expects to pay out about $4.5 billion in refunds this year. Refunds will be claimed by about 7 out of every 12 taxpayers.

The tax agency must distribute all refunds by May 31. If it delays beyond then, it starts paying 6 per cent interest on the amount of the refund.

Because of the recession, IRS has urged early filing of income tax returns by those claiming refunds. It has been trying in this way to push large amounts of money into the economy as quickly as possible.

All tax returns must be filed by midnight Monday. The normal deadline is April 15 but because this fell on the weekend a two-day extension has been granted.

IRS officials offered only one possible explanation for the increase this year in average refunds. They said an agency campaign to encourage withholding of more than the minimum amount of taxes apparently has had some success.

When an employer withholds only the minimum amount, the taxpayer often finds at the end of the year that he must make an additional payment. This sometimes involves real hardship.

L.A.C. Says: Goldwater Platform

Since election day Sen. Barry Goldwater has been called upon to speak more often than any other public figure. He has found a revival of conservatism throughout the nation. He has been especially popular on college campuses. Just what he stands for is therefore of interest to all who are wondering what is ahead for the United States. His platform as outlined in a recent U. S. News issue is as follows:

"Taxes. Tax all incomes at the same rate. Liberalize depreciation allowances. No reduction in taxes until there are surpluses. Spending: Reduce spending by withdrawing the government from social-welfare programs. Welfare: No new programs if they involve increased taxes or deficit spending. Aid to education: Give federal taxpayers a special credit for local school taxes to provide funds for school or other improvements decided upon at local levels.

"Liberation: Actively encourage captive people to revolt against Communist rulers. In case of a major revolt, confront Russia with an ultimatum forbidding intervention. If that is rejected, move U. S. forces into the area. Make it clear that Russian use of long-range bombers or missiles would bring automatic retaliation in kind, leaving Moscow a choice between total destruction and acceptance of local defeat. Aid for the aged: Encourage profit-sharing and pension plans of employers by new and increased tax incentives. Housing: No need is seen for public housing. The Federal Housing Administration's program of insured mortgages is approved.

"Minimum-wage increase: Opposed on the ground that it would result in higher unemployment, higher prices and possible inflation.

"Depressed areas: A problem for the states and cities to solve under modernized ordinances and constitutions. The farmer: End the farm-subsidy program—not at once but on a declining scale that would work the least hardship. Let farm prices be determined on the free market. Farmers unable to compete will move into other lines of work. The result: Reduced agricultural production and higher incomes for those who remain on the farm. Civil rights: Integration is "wise and just," but should not be imposed upon the South or the North by the federal government. Labor: Ban union policies that exclude qualified workers from membership and so deny them jobs. Provide for voluntary union membership. End "indiscriminate" use of union funds for political purposes. Provide new safeguards against violence in labor disputes. Permit secret strike ballots. Encourage passage of state "right-to-work" laws.

"Foreign aid: Confine aid to military and technical assistance to nations committed to the defeat of communism. No help for neutralist or pro-Communist nations. Disarmament: Opposed on the ground that it would leave the U. S. at the mercy of superior Russian and Chinese manpower and equipment for limited wars. Renewal of nuclear testing at once is favored. Campaign strategy: Pitch Republican campaigning to "the forgotten Americans" for whom established pressure groups do not speak. Quit trying to outpromise the Democrats in seeking the votes of Negroes and other minorities. United Nations: Regarded as a debating society. The U. S. is seen too often adjusting its views to conform with a U. N. majority and thus letting U. N. make policy for it. But U. S. withdrawal is "unfeasible."

"Red China: Oppose admission of Red China to the U. N. Cuba: Make it clear that the Communist Castro government will be eliminated. Install an economic blockade supported, if necessary, by a naval blockade to keep out Communist arms. Africa: Hold on to Africa because Western survival there is essential to victory over communism."

One need not agree on all planks of this platform to agree with the over-all principles he presents. We may be sure union leaders will not agree with his attitude—but it is apparent a large portion of union members do agree. He is reaching the people because he is forthright and good-natured, and it is clear where he stands. He admits there must be compromises. But over-all he is appealing to the people who are concerned over the "New Frontier" and the big government concept that is now being accentuated.—L.A.C.

39 Witnesses Ready to Point Finger of Guilt at Eichmann

JERUSALEM (UPI) — It will be mid-summer before Adolf Eichmann will be permitted to take the stand to tell his own story of the Nazi slaughter of Jews, authorities at his trial predicted Saturday.

Whether he takes the stand then in his own defense will be up to Eichmann and his West German lawyer, Robert Servatius of Cologne. Servatius has said he still is undecided.

While the three-judge court spent the weekend recess pondering a ruling on its competency to try the former Nazi SS colonel, Eichmann sat reading quietly and resting in his cell.

THE COURT headed by Judge Moshe Landau said it would rule Monday morning on Servatius' challenge that the court has no legal right to try Eichmann.

Court sources said Israel was determined to hold him up on trial before the world and that a full two months will be needed to hear the 39 prosecution witnesses.

If the court rules that it is competent to try Eichmann, it may also decide to hear testimony from two officials of the Israel state-owned El Al Airlines to reveal details of his kidnapping from Buenos Aires last year.

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (UPI)—Adolf Eichmann's son said Saturday Israel has no right to try his father for the murder of six million Jews during World War II.

"They (the Israelis) lie when they say he should not be tried by an international court," said Klaus Eichmann, 25, in an interview with the newspaper La Prensa.

"They are mistaken. The Nuernberg international court can be reconstituted at any time." This was a reference to the court that conducted the Nuernberg war crimes trials of Nazi leaders.

THE YOUNGER Eichmann said the Israelis have no right to try his father because he never operated in that country.

"If he should be put on trial outside Israel there would be an outcry from the Jews, and maybe the world would get to know things they don't want to know," Klaus said.

Klaus named Joseph Klein, an employee of the Israeli El Al Airlines, as the principal Israeli agent in the kidnapping of his father here last year.

THE YOUNGER Eichmann told La Prensa he was unaware until after the kidnapping that the man seized was his father. Klaus said he had known his father here as Richard Klement and believed he was a distant relative rather than his father.

Klaus Eichmann said he always believed his father had been killed in World War II. Klaus, his wife and a year-old daughter live in a Buenos Aires suburb.

"Neither my mother nor I have any intention of flying to Israel for the trial," Klaus Eichmann said, adding they had received no guarantees of safety in the country.

Five Institute Officers Beaten With Ball Bats

TRACY (AP) — Five vocational officers at Deuel Vocational Institute were injured, one seriously, when they were attacked by five inmates armed with baseball bats Saturday.

Sgt. H. B. Barnhill of Manteca suffered head injuries.

The five inmates, who had been isolated in an adjustment area for "problem prisoners," scaled a 10-foot wall during a baseball game in the recreation area.

They seized the bats and started swinging. Other officers quelled the brawl with tear gas.

Spaceman 'Stampede' on School Aid Hit

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Administration backers pressed Saturday for fast action on school aid as one answer to Russia's cosmonaut. A Republican protested they were hitching their wagon to a Soviet moon and urged lawmakers not to go along.

"The administration is trying to stampede the House membership," charged Rep. Dave Martin, R-Neb., a member of the Education Labor Committee. "I am more firmly opposed than ever to direct federal aid to education. I trust that the House will defeat these measures."

Martin made his statement after committee chairman Adam Clayton Powell, D-N.Y., with approval of President Kennedy, ordered a speed-up in consideration of the President's $4.7 billion education package.

Powell said he was counting on Russia's man-in-space achievement to speed passage of Kennedy's bills to spur education through school construction grants and college scholarships.

Germans Blamed for Permitting Nazis

BADESBURG, Germany (AP)—Mayor Willy Brandt of West Berlin said Saturday the Germans did nothing to prevent Hitler from assuming control of the country.

"I cannot accept collective guilt," the socialist candidate for West German chancellor said in reference to the Eichmann trial. "But there is such a thing as common responsibility and collective default from which nobody in Germany, including those who recognized the Hitler danger in time, can be exonerated."

Brandt, who spent the Nazi years as an exile in Norway, was addressing 200 former Social Democrat inmates of Communist East German prisons, who have fled to the West.

"The reign of terror in whose wake characters such as Eichmann were able to become 'active' could never have occurred, had the adherents of democracy united in determination to protect democracy at all cost against its deadly enemies," Brandt said, adding: "I see no group which I could except and of which I could say that it did everything necessary and possible at the time to hold up Hitler."

Raids Came From U.S., Cuba Charges in U.N.

In the Camp Libertad and San Antonio attacks and that 5 were wounded in Santiago.

The government-controlled Cuban radio charged that one of the attacking planes that landed in Miami was manned by an American pilot. The radio labeled as "another imperialistic trick" claims that the attacking bombers were flown by Cuban pilots who had revolted.

The aviators who landed in Miami asked that his name be withheld because his family still is in Cuba. In a statement issued through the U.S. Immigration office, he said:

"I am one of the 12 B26 pilots who remained in the Castro air force. Three of my fellow pilots and I have planned for months how we could escape from Castro's Cuba."

The flier said one of the four officers, identified as Lt. Alvaro Galo, had been seen talking to an intelligence agent and "we decided that probably Alvaro Galo... had betrayed us. We decided to take action at once."

The aviator said he took off from his base at San Antonio de los Baños and then returned to attack it. The other pilots were to take off from Santiago and Camp Libertad and carry out similar raids on their bases.

"Because I was low on gas, I had to go on into Miami, because I could not reach our agreed destination," the pilot added. He did not name the destination.

THE BOMBER landed at Miami with one prop feathered and what appeared to be bullet holes in the wings and fuselage.

The other bomber, with two men aboard, landed at the Naval Air Station at Key West, Fla. Immigration officials took the airmen into custody and impounded the planes.

Cuban informants claimed that two of the attacking planes took refuge at the U.S. Naval Base at Guantanamo. The base commander denied this.

DENIES CUBAN CHARGE

Adlai Stevenson, U.S. chief delegate to United Nations, Saturday denies charge by Cuba's Foreign Minister Raul Roa that United States engineered bomb attacks on Cuban air bases.—(AP Photo.)

Cardona, president of the exiled Cuban Revolutionary Council, said the attacks were carried out by Cuban air force pilots who struck "an heroic blow for Cuba freedom."

"The council has been in contact with and has encouraged these brave pilots," Cardona said in a statement.

Dorticos insisted that the attackers came from abroad. He laughed at Miami reports that the names of the pilots had been withheld to protect their families.

"IF ANY OF our planes or pilots were missing don't you think we would know who they are?" he asked newsmen.

Dorticos said his information indicated six bombers took part in the raids, two Wednesday these are being considered carefully.

"THESE MATTERS are not easy," he said. "We want to affect this hard core of unemployment, which may continue after we have had a recovery, without providing for inflation, without providing for an outflow of gold."

"We are considering what other measures could be recommended that would assist in this area. But I must say it is one of great complexity."

The country is slowly coming out of the recession. The real question is whether the improvement is only the normal seasonal gain expected in springtime or represents some meaningful degree of recovery.

U.S. Publicity Glare Strains Anti-Castro Conspirators

By WALTER T. RIDDER
Chief of I. P. T. Capital Bureau

WASHINGTON — If it all weren't so tragic and so important, the present situation vis-a-vis Cuba might be funny. There's a kind of opera bouffe quality about the current goings-on which have a distinct atmosphere of unreality. At least one feels they ought not be real, but they are.

Consider the following facts: No revolution or counter-revolution in history has been so carefully publicized in advance. National American magazines are giving full coverage to potential revolutionists during their training period.

American newspapermen are assiduously reporting every development within the ranks of the ununited Cuban revolutionary movement, thereby increasing its already manifold complexities. Cuban revolutionary armies are being formed to the full blast of modern publicity methods, a revolutionary technique utterly at odds with all historic precedents. All of this is, to paraphrase a famous saying, "An awful funny way to run a railroad."

IT IS APPARENTLY perfectly all right for some Cubans to agitate against Castro from United States soil, but not for others, although who decides which groups can and which groups cannot is not entirely clear.

A federal grand jury in Miami, for instance, brought an indictment against one Senor Rolando Maferro Rojas for allegedly conspiring to violate our Neutrality Act. Senor Rojas, it is said, used to be a strong supporter of the ousted Cuban dictator, General Batista. However, while the government is actively prosecuting Rojas, it is, as far as can be ascertained, supporting, at least morally, the efforts of the Cuban Revolutionary Council, headed by one Dr. Jose Miro Cardona.

Senor Cardona is also vis-a-vis conspiring against Castro from U.S. soil, but so far no indictment has been brought against him. Senor Cardona used to be a strong supporter of Fidel Castro.

THE WHOLE Cuban situation poses, of course, a ticklish problem for the administration. The easiest way would simply be to throw American troops at the island and drive out Castro. This generally considered a cure worse than the disease, however, as it would probably alienate almost all of South America and produce a number of other Castros.

Under our own Neutrality Act and under the treaty of the Organization of American States, we're not allowed to mess into the internal affairs of other countries, which precludes our giving visible aid to the various anti-Castro elements. How to solve that dilemma is one of the many problems which the President must ponder.

Meanwhile rumor of revolutions and contemplated revolutions stream out of Havana, Miami and New York, which are the centers of Cuban activities. Everything but the date, place and time have been carried in the public press in a manner which would have horrified conspirators of old.

In the midst of all this Prime Minister Castro, a 150 shooter, challenges President Kennedy, a low 80, high 70 shooter, to a game of golf. Jeeves, my Alice in Wonderland, please.

Sea Water Conversion Spurred

By FRANK CAREY
WASHINGTON (AP)—President John F. Kennedy, an old PT boat commander and sometime yachtsman, wants to use the seas to meet a growing national problem.
The Kennedy Administration has pledged itself to redouble the nation's efforts to achieve a breakthrough in converting the ocean's salt waters to fresh.
Conversion is considered by many experts to be the only ultimate answer to the country's growing water shortages.
Since 1952, the government has had a formal program aimed at economically converting saline water.
Officials of the Interior Department's Office of Saline Water say sensational breakthroughs have yet to be achieved—and that none are foreseen for at least the next few years. They add, that progress is being made "despite a research and development budget which is just about the same as that earmarked for running the Washington Zoo."

VERY FINE WATER

A thin film of salt water is wiped down to a thickness of one-thousandth of an inch in the new salt-water distillation system developed by General Electric, dramatized in this composite photo by Associated Press. The system can extract 42 pounds of fresh water from 100 pounds of sea water and can be used to purify brackish or polluted water.

THE OFFICE soon will put into operation at Freeport, Tex., the first of five big demonstration plants. The plants are to produce the first big-league operating data on the economic potential of several different conversion processes—while at the same time adding nearly three million gallons daily to the country's water supply.
These plants cost about $6 million in all. Still newer and conceivably more promising ideas are cropping up in government and industrial laboratories.
These range from a new distillation process developed by the General Electric Co. to a concept for using radioactive wastes to make water.
But all such ideas need time, manpower and money, says the agency, whose entire staff totals only 25.

It's in this setting that President Kennedy has urged Congress to double appropriations for saline water research and construction. The President has also asked for $23 million for studies of the ocean on which he said our survival may depend.
Existing and impending shortages are such, says a new report by the Senate's Select Committee on National Water Resources, that the nation as a whole may be in real trouble by 1980 unless prompt action is taken. But a report issued by the House Science and Astronautics Committee says the danger may arise by 1970.

THE SENATE committee puts the figures this way:
The United States now uses about 300 billion gallons of

British Convicts Stage Strikes at Two Prisons

LONDON (AP)—Convicts went on strike in two more British jails Saturday and heightened official fears of nationwide mutiny.
At Maidstone, in the south of England, all 441 inmates refused to work after lunch, complaining about the food. Guards marched them back to their jobs. At Shrewsbury, in the north, about 30 men refused work and were locked in their cells.
The protests followed a series of strikes and attacks on guards at London's Wandsworth Prison. Officials feared news of the unrest had spread, inciting similar action.

EXCEPT FOR FISH

Sea Water No Cure

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The way the government sees it, Atlantic Ocean water is no better for you than Pacific Ocean water, and neither is any good as medicine.
Some 20 years ago, the Food and Drug Administration stopped the sale—at $20 a gallon—of water taken from the Pacific and touted as a health restorer. Sales had run up to $30,000 a year before the FDA moved in.
Recently the administration stopped the sale of Atlantic Ocean water at a cutrate price of $3.75 a gallon. An Ohio man had been recommending it as a sort of "fountain of youth" pep drink. It also was supposed to cure arthritis, cancer, diabetes, multiple sclerosis, Parkinson's disease, and leukemia.
The promoter got his product from the ocean near Belmar, N. J. and took it to Ohio in his automobile. Charging "false and misleading therapeutic claims," the government seized a 93-gallon lot valued by the bottler at about $350.

water a day. Out of some 1,100 billion gallons available in stream flow. The demand is expected to nearly double in 20 years and triple by 2000.
The House committee says only about 50 per cent of the water supply is really dependable and usable, so that in 1980, only about 515 billion gallons a day will be available, against at least 600 billion required.

Water experts say the average family of four people uses about 550 gallons a day... a 20-story building uses 120,000... and a 400-bed hospital requires 100,000.
Just to grow the grain for a single slice of bread requires 37 gallons.

An administration-backed legislative program may call for raising from $10 million to $20 million the present ceiling on funds allocated to the Office of Saline Water for building large-scale demonstration plants.

Authority is also sought for the office to build perhaps five more big plants in addition to those already scheduled for Freeport, San Diego, Roswell, N.M., Webster, S.D. and Wrightsville Beach, N.C.

THE NEW PLANT at Freeport, uses a form of distillation. It's expected to produce at least one million gallons of fresh water daily at a cost of $1 per 1,000 gallons.

That cost is far higher than the 25 to 40 cents which most municipalities charge for water from conventional sources.

Officials stress, however,

HORSELOVER TO SPAN U.S. IN PROTEST

FORT LEE, N.J. (UPI)—A grandmother set out on her black steed Ebony today for a 75-day trot to California to point up the "abuse" of horses in the machine age.
Nora Jo O'Brien, of Hollis, N.Y., crossed the George Washington Bridge astride Ebony and set off through the New Jersey countryside to the Pennsylvania border.

Ebony was transported to the bridge in a trailer and then was unloaded and saddled. His five-foot, 109-pound mistress, who was dressed in snappy riding clothes, had trouble controlling the horse while cameramen took pictures.

water supplies get slimmer. Nevertheless, they concede they'd feel much better if they could get the cost down below 40 cents per 1,000 gallons.

THE PLANT being built at San Diego—scheduled for completion this summer—will employ another form of distillation known as the flash process. It's also supposed to turn out one million gallons a day at $1 per 1,000 gallons.

Still another type of distillation plant at Roswell, N.M., will convert brackish water to fresh at an anticipated rate of at least 250,000 gallons a day starting next year.

The fourth plant, being built at Webster, S.D., will also convert brackish water but instead of using distillation, it will employ a combination of thin membranes and electric current to screen out the dissolved salts.

The South Dakota plant is expected to produce fresh water at only 90 cents per 1,000 gallons, because brackish water contains much less salt than does ocean water.

COALINGA, CALIF., the first city in the country to be built at St. Petersburg, provide its residents with plants go up, and natural drinking water converted from brackish well water, at one time had to import all its water in tank cars at $9.35 per 1,000 gallons. Now, it produces 25,000 gallons a day in its electric membrane device for $1.45 per 1,000 gallons.

There are oceans of presently unusable brackish water underlying vast inland areas of the country.

The fifth demonstration plant, at Wrightsville Beach, N.C., will employ a freezing process. The freezing concept is based on the fact that an ice crystal, whether formed in fresh or salt water, is pure. But, when sea water is frozen, the salt crystals are trapped between the ice crystals—so the job is to separate the two.

ALTERNATIVE methods are under development.

One using a secondary refrigerant such as butane cooking gas, converts ocean water to slush which is then washed free of salt. In the same process, the butane remelts the washed ice. The firm that developed it says it might eventually produce fresh water at 38 cents per 1,000 gallons. A 35,000 gallon pilot plant is there appear to be promising possibilities in a recent development by the General Electric Co. in government-aided research.

Top Goal for Science

"If we could ever competitively, at a cheap rate, get fresh water from salt water, that... in the long-range interests of humanity... would really dwarf any other scientific accomplishments."—PRESIDENT JOHN F. KENNEDY.

This involves a novel type of distillation process in which vaporization of the salt water is accomplished without either boiling or bubbling. The water is pressed into a thin film on the sides of a chamber by revolving blades which operate much like an automobile's windshield wipers. The film is so thin that heat circulating outside the chamber causes the film to vaporize.

The company has declined to quote any cost estimates but says it would be "low," especially for shipboard use.

WORLD NEWS BRIEFS

3 Killed, 30 Hurt in Blasts, Fire

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Three firemen were killed Saturday when two rapid explosions spread flaming gas through a quiet neighborhood and leveled a three-story building housing a gas station.

Twenty-eight firemen and two civilians were treated for burns, bruises and cuts caused by flying gas and debris.

Several dozen more firemen were hurt slightly or overcome by smoke, but continued to fight the three-hour blaze.

Bankruptcy Fraud Bars Galvao

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The State Department said Saturday it denied a U. S. entry visa to Henrique Galvao, the Portuguese rebel leader who seized the cruise ship Santa Maria, on the grounds he once was convicted of a crime involving "moral turpitude."

Galvao, now in Brazil, wanted to attend an African Freedom day rally in New York Monday.

Officials said Galvao was convicted in Portugal in 1957 of fraudulent bankruptcy. They said his exclusion was not based on the Santa Maria incident. Officials said they carefully checked to assure themselves his 1957 conviction was not a political one.

Trumpeter Gets 19 Months

LUCCA, Italy (UPI) — An Italian court Saturday sentenced American jazz trumpeter Chet Baker, 32, to 19 months and 10 days in jail and fined him $448 on narcotics charges.

Baker's wife, Halemia, and a third defendant, Chicago-born attorney Joseph Carani, were acquitted.

Bonsal Gets Morocco Post

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Kennedy announced Saturday he would nominate Philip Wilson Bonsal, the last U. S. ambassador to Cuba, to be ambassador to Morocco.

Bonsal, 57, has been in the foreign service since 1938. Before going to Cuba, he served as ambassador to Colombia and Bolivia. He held the same post in Cuba until the United States broke off diplomatic relations last January.

In Morocco Bonsal will succeed Charlie W. Yost, who has been named deputy U. S. representative to the United Nations security council.

Kennedy Meets Africa Envoys

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Kennedy told African diplomats Saturday that he hoped for a "more intimate and closer attachment year by year" between the United States and African nations.

He spoke at an Africa Freedom Day reception at the State Department just before leaving by helicopter for Glen Ora, his country estate in Virginia.

The President told ambassadors and officials of 24 African states that his administration wants to be "intimately associated" with their drive for independence, peace and economic development.

GASOLINE PRICE WAR END SOUGHT

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — "pendents" (independents owned by major firms) and the real independents.

An official of the California Petroleum Marketers Council, in an emergency meeting with dealers from throughout California, set forth a plan Saturday to halt the state's major oil companies sell gas at a penny above what the wildest gas war since World War II.

Prices are down eight cents a gallon in the battle between the major petroleum companies, the "pseudo - independents" (independents owned by major firms) and the real independents. The war started over price of a bill instructing the attorney general to investigate the price battle, offered a similar solution.

Allen suggested there be only a one-cent price difference between gas sold by the major firms and that sold by independents. His plan would lump the independents together, regardless of ownership.

Allen (R-Los Gatos), author of a bill instructing the attorney general to investigate the price battle, offered a similar solution.

ATLAS TO THE RESCUE
Known as the Atlas, the hefty black book they're holding is mighty important, according to Bill Layne (left) and Jack Nowell, emergency service team with Long Beach Water Department. The book is a guide in trouble-shooting crises.

CATALOG OF VALVES Atlas Guides Team To Dribbling Seam

Two prouder names than many of his fellow Olympian Aquarius and Atlas are difficult to find in Greek mythology, but they're just every-day parlance at the Long Beach Water Department. Aquarius, legendary water of the 14,000 valves which are installed here and there in the citywide water distribution system. "This book is the most important tool at the disposal of the emergency service department," says Vance Shaw, chief of the emergency service division. "Not only does it tell where each valve is located," Shaw said, "but it ties in this location with fixed reference points in the immediate vicinity of the valve."

Sailors Held After Hassle and Gunplay

Two sailors from the USS Ashtabula were arrested by Long Beach police Saturday night an hour after one of them fired a shot at another man in an alley. Booked for investigation of assault with a deadly weapon was Daniel Austin Hadley, 19. Arrested with him was Eugene R. Caldwell, 22.

Police said Hadley fired a shot at Robert F. Hamilton, 25, of 32 Elm Ave. The bullet glanced off Hamilton's shoe, then grazed the shoulder of his companion, Joseph H. Mandelau, 37, of 602 Broad St., Wilmington.

Hadley said he fired the shot in an exchange of heated words with Hamilton on Turbine Court south of First Street.

Hadley and Caldwell were riding a motorscooter at Sixth Street and Elm Avenue when they were captured by officers David A. Bauer and Donald E. Moffet. The officers said Hadley was carrying a single-shot, antique, .22-caliber pistol.

T. B. Went New Chief Toastmaster

T. B. Went has been installed president of the Long Beach Toastmasters Club 1201, the organization said Saturday.

Other officers installed are J. David, educational vice president; P. Krause, administrative vice president; F. S. Hylton, secretary; K. Graydon, treasurer; L. Stevenson, sergeant-at-arms, and W. A. Slagle, public relations chairman.

Awards for outstanding speakers were presented to S. B. Capers and L. L. Sailor.

RECOVER DORY Anchor Stolen From Lifeguards

Long Beach police Saturday were looking for a stolen anchor.

Bradbury Will Speak To Students of LTD

Writer Ray Bradbury will discuss "Human Values in the Space Age" at a Long Beach City College, Business and Technology Division, student assembly Wednesday.

Bradbury has authored more than 250 short stories, winning the 1948 O. Henry Prize Stories award; the 1954 National Institute of Arts and Letters $1000 grant; the Benjamin Franklin Award for 1953-1954 and the Commonwealth Club gold medal for the best novel of 1953 by a California writer.

His works include "The Martian Chronicles," "Dandelion Wine," "A Medicine for Melancholy," "The Illustrated Man," and "The October Country."

Worshipful masters of the 17 Masonic Blue Lodges of the city and grand lodge committeemen will be guests of the Lakewood Shrine Club Wednesday at a dinner meeting in the Petroleum Club, 3636 Linden Ave.

The fellowship session will start at 6:30 p.m. with dinner at 7:30. Noble John T. Bond, past master of Hollywood Lodge No. 355, past master of Southern California Research Lodge; past grand marshal; member of the Grand Lodge finance committee, and Masonic chairman of Al Malakah Shrine Temple, will be the speaker. There will be entertainment by a select cast from the Long Beach Civic Light Opera.

Air Reserve Officer to Be Speaker

An Air Force film on U. S. advances in the guided missile field will be shown at the dinner meeting of the Long Beach Chapter, Military Order of the World Wars, at 7 p.m. Tuesday in Allen Center.

The film, "Highlights of 1960," was produced by the Ballistic Missile Division, USAF. Maj. Floyd C. Ethridge, director of training at the 2645th Air Reserve Center, Municipal Airport, will speak.

Rear Adm. George J. McMullin, USN (Ret.) will preside.

Squadron 23 Has New CO

Cmdr. J. L. Wolfe Jr. Saturday relieved Cmdr. J. C. Henderson as commanding officer of Air Antisubmarine Squadron 23 in a ceremony aboard USS Yorktown.

The ceremony was attended by Adm. W. A. Stuart, commander of Carrier Division 19 and Capt. Charles E. Gibson, captain of Yorktown. Cmdr. Henderson is assigned to bureau of weapons in Washington.

Auto Strikes Boy

Six-year-old Roy Epps, of 1465 Warren Ave., suffered minor injuries Saturday when he was struck by a car in an alley behind his home.

Wenke to Address Republican Groups

By BOB HOUSER

Robert A. Wenke, Long Beach attorney and former legislative assistant to Sen. Thomas H. Kuchel, will be guest speaker for two local Republican organizations this week.

He will address the GOP Juniors monthly luncheon meeting at 11:30 a.m. Wednesday in Restaurant Alfred, 700 E. 45th St., on "Inside the U.S. Senate." Mrs. William Norris is taking reservations. Mrs. James P. Thurmond is president.

Wenke will speak also at the Friday luncheon of the Lakewood Federation of Republican Women in the Lakewood YMCA, Centralia Street at Bellflower Boulevard, according to the president, Mrs. Eric Crawford. Mrs. Marion Cushing is taking reservations.

MURRAY CHOTINER, former campaign manager for Richard Nixon, Goodwin Knight and William Knowland, will discuss, "How to Win an Election," at a membership pot-luck supper of the Southern Communities Young Republican Club at 7 p.m. Thursday in the Community Savings & Loan Association clubroom, 3901 Atlantic Ave. Bill Carr, membership chairman, said young adults, 18 to 40 who are interested in Republican politics are invited. He said each person or couple should bring a dish for pot luck and advise social chairman Mrs. Gerald Warner (NE 5-1847) what it is.

UNDERSHERIFF Harold C. Marlowe, of the Los Angeles County Sheriff's Office, will speak on "Crime, Communism and Complacency — the Three Mortal Enemies of the American People" before the Harbor Area (Long Beach) Advisory Board of Republican Associates at 11:55 a.m. Thursday in Victor Hugo Restaurant, 730 E. Broadway.

Marlowe, a Naval aviation reservist, joined the sheriff's department in 1947 and served with the FBI as a special agent 1950-53.

Atty. C. George Doukmejian, chairman of the Harbor group, said reservations may be made by calling GE 4-3435.

Cerritos Boy Heads Future Businessmen

OAKLAND (AP)—Bob Clemens of Cerritos College, Norwalk, Saturday was elected president of the California State Chapter of the Future Business Leaders of America.

He succeeds Alice Frost of Camarillo, the first high school girl elected to the post. Joyce Walker and Rosie Taniguchi, both of Ramona High School Riverside, won the state competition in the high school division of spelling and essays, respectively.

Jim Rofy, Fullerton City College, and Sharon Canfield, American River Junior College, Sacramento, won the college competition.

Officer Due For Talk to Postal Units

James H. Rademacher, national assistant secretary-treasurer of the National Association of Letter Carriers, will be guest speaker at 1:45 p.m. today at the district meeting of the organization.

The meeting will be at Moose Hall, 1200 Atlantic Ave.

Long Beach Branch 945 will be host to representatives from 300 branches in Los Angeles and Orange Counties.

Gore Asked to Give Report on Test Ban

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy has asked Sen. Albert Gore, D-Tenn., to report to him Monday on the stalled Geneva conference on a nuclear weapons test ban.

Gore was a member of the U.S. team that has been meeting with representatives of Russia and Britain.

Girl, 3, Recovering After Gun Accident

A 3-year-old Signal Hill girl is recovering from wounds suffered when her mother accidentally shot her with a 16-gauge shotgun.

The child, Rebecca Ann Fentress, of 2022 E. 19th St., was released from Community Hospital Saturday. She was admitted to the hospital with head wounds after she and her brother, Ralph, 4, were struck by pellets from a shotgun fired by Mrs. Nancy Ann Fentress, 21, Thursday night.

The brother was treated for leg wounds and released from the hospital soon after the accident.

The mother told police she believed a prowler was trying to break into their home. The weapon discharged as she peered out a window, sending the pellets through a wall into a bedroom where the children were sleeping.

Goldwater 'Man to Beat in '64'

WASHINGTON (UPI)—"prominently represents this viewpoint," Proxmire said. "I help him campaign for the U.S. Senate.

Wisconsin but elsewhere in America."

AUSTIN, Tex., April 15 (UPI) — Republican John Tower told a meeting of Texas Republicans that he would accept only the aid of Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona in his bid for the seat.

Tower said Saturday he will vacated by Vice President Lyndon Johnson.

Proxmire, a self-proclaimed liberal, said "the great political phenomenon of today is the onrush of a conservative movement that would repeal many of the Woodrow Wilson and Franklin Roosevelt reforms of the past 50 years."

Goldwater, of all the GOP's present 1964 possibilities,

Boy Falls 100 Feet Off Bridge

BELLE VERNON, Pa. (UP)—An 11-year-old boy fell about 100 feet from a bridge to the ground Saturday. He survived the fall but was critically injured.

Police Chief Charles Hazlett of Speers said John Lahti of Fairhope fell from a catwalk under a bridge spanning the Monongahela River and linking Belle Vernon and Speers.

The child was rushed to Charleroi-Monessen Hospital with pelvic and internal injuries and a possible broken back.

Chief Hazlett said the Lahti youngster and three other Fairhope boys crawled along the catwalk from Belle Vernon to the Speers side to hunt pigeons in the bridge under-structure. Hazlett said the Lahti boy apparently was reaching for a pigeon when he fell.

Now nearly blind, German shepherd received nine citations, including Purple Heart with two clusters, for meritorious service in U.S. Army and Marine Corps in South Pacific. Mistress is Mrs. Jeanne Warner Platt.

Two El Toro Flyers Killed

Two El Toro Marine Corps aviators were killed Saturday when their F9FST Cougar jet crashed in a swamp while making a landing approach at the Pensacola, Fla., Naval Air Station.

The two were identified as Capt. Robert W. Whaling, 31, assistant safety officer for headquarters and headquarters squadron at El Toro, and James J. Brennan, 30, executive officer of the squadron.

Capt. Whaling, who lived at 706 N. Sherry Lane, Santa Ana, is survived by his wife, Carolyn and two children. He was graduated from the U.S. Naval Academy.

Capt. Brennan lived at 1820 Poinsettia Ave., Santa Ana. Surviving him are his wife, Mary Anne and three children. Brennan earned the Silver Star Medal for valor and the Purple Heart while he was a squad leader in a rifle platoon in the Korean conflict. He was commissioned an officer in 1953 and then won his wings.

Their jet trainer had been cleared for landing at the Florida naval station field when radio contact suddenly was lost. Visibility was limited "due to low-hanging clouds," authorities said.

The Navy dispatched search crews and the plane was found in flames about two miles west of the field. In the wreckage were the bodies.

Authorities said the two men, who both were transferred to the local base last November, had taken off from El Toro at 5:45 p.m. Friday on a routine training flight across country.

Whaling's home town, according to El Toro, was Philadelphia, Pa. Brennan was from New York City.

With MALCOLM EPLEY

CITY Engineer Jess Gilkerson got a letter a while back from the district office of the Division of Highways with a little feature that seems to symbolize the whole problem of red tape in public agency operations.

At the top of the letter was a note reading:

"Please refer to File No. 'VII-LA-60-179-1Bch, F 'EWA 7QV1306-R 'PR-VII-478."

And that, you'll agree, is some file number.

EVEN as efficient an operation as the Division of Highways, which is run by a fine group of engineers, gets so exasperatingly bogged down in procedures and channels and reviews and evaluations and re-evaluations and stages, etc., etc., that it moves almost imperceptibly.

And that applies to situations where life and limb are at stake, as I can testify personally.

I've taken an interest in the dangerous traffic situation on E. Seventh St. from Pacific Coast Highway east to Studebaker Road. I'm interested especially because I live out there and it's my neck that's figuratively on the block, along with a lot of others, in attempting to enter busy Seventh St. from side streets.

These side streets include main entranceways to Long Beach State College campus as well as to the burgeoning College Park Estates development on the south side, where my home bailiwick is located.

NOW everybody familiar with the situation there knows that something's got to be done to save lives and property. The highway dept. knows.

The thing has been discussed in the public prints for months, and last week I decided to check up on progress.

I put in a call to the Highway Division district offices in L.A. I talked to several people with pleasant voices who passed me around until at last a man came on who said he was familiar with this particular situation.

And he was. He knew it as well as I did. Yes, he said, the dept. had been studying it. It had been making an investigation. It should be completed soon. Some recommendations would then be prepared. These would have to be reviewed. If found sound, they would then be submitted to higher authority. There they would be evaluated, and a final determination made.

Authority would then be granted for remedial measures. These would then come down through channels and then, if all was in order, somebody would come out to the area and start doing something about it.

"I hope," I told the gentleman, "that I'm still alive to see it."

WE WERE talking about a situation where every day one crisis after another occurs in the traffic. This is of course, just one such situation. Many others no doubt exist throughout the state, and this one, with which I happen to be painfully familiar, is mentioned here as an example.

Incidentally, the remedial measures we were taking about were other than the traffic signal at Margo St. and the State College entrance, which will help solve the problem out there.

That has been authorized and a bid accepted. But it required months to bring that project to this point, and there's not yet a sign of activity on it.

The only speed out there is in the through traffic on Seventh, which is far too fast for such a dangerous area. Don't be surprised if a homemade sign appears out there, reading:

SLOW DOWN, DAMMIT!

MORE POWER TO YOU

Expanding to keep pace with growth of the greater Long Beach area is the Southern California Edison Co. steam-electric generating plant south of the intersection of Seventh St. and Studebaker Road. Costing $38.7 millions and providing 310,000 kilowatts, the expansion will boost total output of the plant to 932,500 kilowatts. This spectacular close-up, taken by I. P-T Chief Photographer Roger Coar, shows residences of College Park Estates in the foreground behind speeding car.

Co-Chairmen Sullivan Drops Proposal to Alter Merit Rating School Week

Otis L. Weaver and Morris S. Brower were named Saturday as co-chairmen of the citizens committee sponsoring the 42nd annual Public Schools Week, April 24-28.

This year's theme is "The Public School Teacher—Builder of Tomorrow's Leaders."

THOUGH SCHOOLS will be open to daytime visitors throughout the week, special evening open house programs are scheduled as follows:

Monday—City College.

Tuesday—Elementary schools.

Wednesday—High schools.

Thursday—Junior highs.

Serving with Weaver and Brower on the citizens committee are 24 members drawn from all sections of the school district.

THEY INCLUDE Perry H. Barrett, Andrew B. Bearse, C. W. Bennett, Melvin R. Berbow, George P. Calderwood, Paul E. Carlyle, William T. Corbusier, John F. Ferguson, Ernest H. Fick, J. Eugene Fulkerson, George M. Hystad, Gordon Jacobson, Joseph M. Kennick.

Violet Show Open Today

Queen of the Show trophy in the African Violet Society flower show Saturday was awarded to Clarence Wilson, 9418 Howard Ave., for his black cherry supreme variety.

The show continues today from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. in Norway Hall, 683 Redondo Ave. Sweepstake trophy, for the most blue ribbons, Saturday went to Mrs. Holmes Harris of Los Angeles.

A move in City Council to preference for employees who adverse effect on morale, return to an employee merit rating system abandoned in 1958 has failed to get off the ground.

Faced by opposition from the Civil Service Board and City Manager John R. Mansell, Councilman Emmet Sullivan gave up on his effort to reinstate the numerical rating method, or some variant of it.

Sullivan, a former member of the Civil Service Board, contended that the present procedure of merely designating an employee as "satisfactory" or "unsatisfactory" doesn't offer enough incentive to the worker who shows more than average initiative.

He argued there should be rewards in promotion, visitors and workers, had an ager.

A LESSON FROM LAURIE

Laurie West, fourth grade student, explains classroom work to Otis L. Weaver (left) and Morris S. Brower and invites them to the elementary school open house scheduled during Public Schools Week, April 24-28. Weaver and Brower are co-chairmen of the citizens committee sponsoring the 42nd annual observance in Long Beach Unified School District.

Elders to Gain Cut in Bus Fare

By GEORGE WEEKS

Registration will begin April 24 for thousands of elderly Long Beach persons eligible for reduced fares on Metropolitan Transit Authority buses.

The sign-up will continue through May 11 at 22 places, including public libraries and recreation centers throughout the city.

Howard Tannehill, director of senior citizen activities for the Municipal Recreation Department, will coordinate the enrollment here. He will be assisted by numerous unpaid workers from the Community Volunteer Office as well as other groups.

MEN 65 OR OLDER and women 62 or older with an earned income of not more than $1,200 annually—pensions, investments and social security benefits not counted—are eligible for a 10-cent reduction in the fare on any MTA line beginning June 1 for a four-month trial period.

The reduced fares apply during offpeak periods—10 a.m. to 3 p.m. and 7 p.m. to midnight on week days; 7 p.m. to midnight Saturdays; all day Sundays and holidays.

Officials predicted a heavy turnout here—possibly as many as 15,000. In Los Angeles, where registration is already in progress, 25,000 enrolled the first day.

Each applicant must bring along proof of age, four full-face photographs of the type that can be obtained from photo machines and a self-addressed stamped envelope. They must attest that their earned income as an individual is not more than $1,200 or as a couple not more than $2,400.

REGISTRATION centers will be open from noon until 4 p.m. To expedite the enrollment, Tannehill has announced a schedule keyed to the surnames of the applicants. The schedule:

April 24, for persons with surnames A through C; April 25, D-G; April 26, H-K; April 27, L-M; May 1, N-R; May 2, S-T; May 3, U-Z.

On May 4 there will be an open registration; May 9, surname A-G; May 10, H-O, and May 11, P-Z.

Registration centers in Long Beach will be at these locations:

Main library, Ocean Boulevard and Pacific Avenue.

Bach Branch, 4055 Bellflower Blvd.

Factory Employment Gains Here in March

Factory employment in the Long Beach-Los Angeles area in March gained 1,500 over February but was down 25,000 as compared with March, 1960, the State Department of Industrial Relations reported Saturday.

BEHIND THE SCENES

"Backstage" worker at Main Library is Margaret Jacobs, an acquisitions clerk, typing yards of orders. National Library Week is being observed with a behind-the-scenes display of photographs showing workaday routines of personnel.

'Wake Up...Read'

Slogan Keynotes Library Week

The "behind the scenes" story of how books get from publisher to patron is told in a picture display in the main library.

The pictorial story, in observance of National Library Week, April 16-22, shows how library staffers find material for order in the various book review publications, how the material is ordered, catalogued, shipped to branches, and put into the hands of patrons.

THE DISPLAY is on the second floor of the building.

The slogan for this year's observance of Library Week is "For a Richer, Fuller Life, WAKE UP AND READ."

In connection with the observance, the library will man a booth at the Hobby Show Thursday through next Sunday in Municipal Auditorium.

A "Book Fair" will be held in the Boys and Girls room in the main library during the entire week. Featured will be exhibits of books for teachers and youngsters.

ALL BRANCHES are setting up special displays for the week, said Florence Powers, head of the literature and history department at the main library, and chairman of the local Library Week Observance. Special lists detailing books and resources of the public libraries are available.

Finch-Thiele Case Carried Assurance for L.B. Citizens

SHOCKING THOUGH IT WAS, the case of James Allen Thiele and Harry P. Finch, Jr.—former Long Beach policemen charged and convicted of extortion solicitation and conspiracy—carried with it a note of assurance to the citizens of Long Beach.

It demonstrated the determination of Police Chief William J. Mooney to operate a clean department.

The exposure of men in his own department required considerable courage. Chief Mooney was painfully aware that this would engender charges and counter-charges which, to the superficial observer, might tend to smirch the entire Police Department.

CHIEF MOONEY NEVER WAVERED. He stated his position simply:

"It is my intention to operate a rigidly-administered department where there is no room for dishonest officers."

It is not easy to bring charges against fellow officers. But to Bill Mooney, that was easier to do than to allow rottenness to exist and perhaps spread in the department for which he is responsible.

To a conscientious officer, it was a question of either rooting out the evil or giving up his job.

Notice has now been served that Long Beach police officers, who have the duty of enforcing the law, must also obey the law.

IN HANDLING THIS EXTREMELY sensitive case, Long Beach authorities had the best possible cooperation from the offices of Sheriff Pete Pitchess and District Attorney William McKesson.

It was important to the case that an outside agency, the Sheriff's office, had a hand in the collection of the evidence that broke the affair wide open.

The district attorney's office handled the prosecution skillfully, and the accused officers were represented by highly competent counsel, a fact which lends assurance that a fair verdict was reached.

There is no room for the slightest suggestion of official complicity, reluctance, or unfairness in the case which ended in the conviction of former inspectors Finch and Thiele.

Tips to JFK Made Laos Note Softer

By WALTER T. RIDDER, ROBERT E. LEE AND BILL BROOM

WASHINGTON—History is bent by a lot of strange forces. Take the recent case of the United States note to Russia on the subject of Laos. Its contents were, to some extent, fashioned by a President's voluminous reading and a newspaperman's lunch with a Russian. This is the story: President Kennedy had written a rather tough message to the Soviet Union. He was about to send it when a newspaperman frantically called him. The reporter said that he had been lunching with a Russian diplomat and the Russian had told him that Khrushchev was inclined to agree to a cease-fire if the U. S. note was not too tough and didn't force Russia on the defensive. "Why, said Kennedy, 'that's precisely what Henry Brandon wrote in the London Sunday Times on Sunday.'" (Brandon is Washington correspondent for the London paper.) Kennedy called Secretary of State Dean Rusk and between them they worked out new phrasing for the note.

What's particularly interesting in the above anecdote is that, in addition to all his official reading, his reading for leisure, his reading of American newspapers, the President still finds time to read foreign publications.

AL HOSTS and hostesses in town are striving mightily to get the President and the First Lady to their dinner tables. Since the inauguration, the Kennedys have occasionally accepted invitations at private homes and therefore everyone hopes the presidential lightning will hit his home. When asked recently if he had received many invitations, the President sighed and replied: "It seems like thousands. And to think, just one year ago, I couldn't find anyone to shake my hand in Wisconsin."

THE PRESIDENT is quite a sportsman. Last Monday, he went out to Griffith Stadium to throw out the first ball of the baseball season. He stayed through to the finish of the game and went back to the White House with motorcade escort. He had been away from his office for some three and a half hours. Did he go directly to his desk? He did not. He rushed to the nearest White House TV set and watched Arnold Palmer play his agonizing last hole in the Masters Golf Tournament. After seeing Palmer take his horrendous 6, the President went back to work feeling, perhaps, that he still was the only man in the world with troubles.

WE HAD A HINT the other day of what Kennedy expects to do when he finishes his stint in the White House. As is his practice, Kennedy was just wandering around the White House, unexpectedly dropping in on his aides, presumably to keep them on their toes and because he likes to chat with them more informally than in his office. On the day in question, Kennedy suddenly popped into the office of Arthur M. Schlesinger, Jr., the noted historian, author of such works as "The Age of Jackson" and "The Age of Roosevelt" and currently toiling as a special assistant to the President. Schlesinger had his desk piled with papers and was busily writing something when Kennedy walked in.

"Stop writing and put all those papers away, Arthur," said the President. "I'm going to write the memoirs of this administration."

Writer Contrasts Ike-JFK Race Relations Approaches

WASHINGTON — One interesting Kennedy-Eisenhower contrast is in their approach to race relations. It was emphasized at Hagerstown, Md., the other day, when William Fitzjohn, charge d'affaires of the new African nation of Sierra Leone, was refused service at a Howard Johnson restaurant.

PEARSON

The State Department immediately jumped in with a letter to Howard D. Johnson himself, head of the restaurant chain, asking for an explanation, while Secretary of the Cabinet Fred Dutton asked the Justice Department to review what legal action could be taken against this and other segregated restaurants. Dutton also went to Annapolis to ask the cooperation of Maryland's Millard Tawes in preventing incidents of this kind.

In contrast, Eisenhower was part owner of a Howard Johnson restaurant at 1412 New York Ave. in Washington. And in September 1952, the night manager of this restaurant, Edward Mooney, was fired, after he served two Negroes.

This was a period when, although Eisenhower was not actually president, he was in the sensitive political position of running for president. However, the press ignored the incident, and Eisenhower did nothing to reinstate the night manager who served two Negroes.

Subsequently, in 1957, the Ghana minister of finance, K. A. Gbedemah, was refused service at a Howard Johnson restaurant in Dover, Del. There was no vigorous move by the White House at that time to prevent the recurrence of incidents humiliating African diplomats as there was last week.

The contrast in the Kennedy and Eisenhower approaches to these segregation incidents probably goes deeper than appears on the surface.

Eisenhower's partner in the Howard Johnson restaurant in Washington was George Allen, also his bridge-playing crony and his partner in the Gettysburg farm. George Allen comes from Mississippi. His approach to racial questions is that of a Mississippian. Furthermore, he is a charming, gregarious gentleman with a contagious way of getting his ideas across.

Republican leaders have been diagnosing last November's election returns to see why they lost the Negro vote. Perhaps they should check with Ike's bridge-playing Howard Johnson partner, the easy-going gentleman from Mississippi, who wrote the book, "Presidents Who Have Known Me."

ONE STRONG NATO LINK—While President Kennedy has been huddling with Macmillan and Adenauer regarding NATO in northern Europe, you don't hear much about NATO in southern Europe. The reason is because southern NATO is doing all right.

In the south, approximately 84,000,000 NATO allies live along a 1,700-mile line extending from the Resia Pass in the Italian Alps to Mount Ararat in Turkey which Noah and his animals made famous. This less-publicized part of NATO is linked together by the U. S. Sixth Fleet plus a U. S. naval officer who is a genius at getting cooperation from heterogeneous, sometimes bickering, populations.

Adm. C. R. Cat Brown, who came up from Tuscaloosa, Ala., to attend the Naval Academy, has a knack of getting the Turks, who don't particularly love them, to work with the Greeks, and of getting the British Navy which once fired on the French in North Africa, to pull with the French as if nothing had ever happened.

Adm. Brown has under him as Mediterranean commander of NATO, powerful units of the U. S., British, Italian, French, Turkish, and Greek navies. But he says: "The real strength of NATO does not lie alone in the number of airplanes, ships, and tanks that we can mobilize. It really lies in the simple unity and confidence that exists among our peoples."

It's because the admiral works hard on people-to-people understanding that you don't hear much about the problems of southern NATO.

One in Space, Millions in Slavery

WASHINGTON—Not by any means the greatest "feat" in world history, but in many respects the biggest disgrace — this is another way to look at the successful launching of a man into outer space by the Soviets.

Millions of human beings in Russia live six to a room in slums and in hovels, while millions of others work in slave-labor camps. Billions of dollars that should be expended to lift the living standards of a nation are spent instead for one of the most spectacular propaganda stunts of all times.

FOR WHAT ELSE is it? Is human life improved because a small vehicle travels in the sky at about the same distance from the earth as New York is from Wilmington or Baltimore? Was human life any further advanced because in 1957 the first "sputnik" sped around the earth in an hour and a half? Today the United States continues to have 22 "sputniks" in orbit around the globe and the Russians have one. Has any human being felt any benefit from such stunts? President Kennedy stated, in a nutshell, at his Wednesday press conference the simple truth about the Soviet's cruel disregard of human welfare as it concentrates on propaganda stunts. He said:

"A dictatorship enjoys advantages in this kind of competition over a short period, by its ability to mobilize its resources for a specific purpose."

This is the real reason for the Soviet achievement in sending the first man into outer space. The United States could have done it even earlier if it had decided to take away from other necessary things the money to spend on space research.

As it is, the people of the Soviet Union are deprived of the benefits of better living. It is significant that one of the big rewards to the new "hero of the Soviet Union" is that he will be permitted to have a four-room apartment for himself, wife and two children, instead of the two rooms he has heretofore been allotted.

ALSO, THIS same dictatorship, by concentrating so much money annually on military weapons, has caused the United States likewise to spend large sums. In the end, people everywhere suffer. Can it be said that a dictatorship which is responsible for such deprivation and such disregard of what is truly human welfare now deserves the plaudits of the world for having sent a man high into space before any other nation could do it?

The President gave credit to the Russian scientists, but he emphasized also the truly sinister aspects of the Soviet concentration on propaganda stunts.

As the President of the United States really sees it, therefore, the sending of a man into space around the earth gets big headlines and is exploited by Nikita Khrushchev throughout the world as a vindication of communism, but, after all, viewed in its true light, the episode only emphasizes what a dictatorship can do with the fruits of the labor of its enslaved citizens.

Solon May Be Unassailable Even When He's Unavailable

AVAILABILITY is one of the considerable virtues in the eyes of Assemblyman Bill Grant (70th District—East Long Beach). When the roll is called up yonder in Sacramento, he'll be there, he insists.

Thus, Mr. Grant was both con- and dumfounded recently when a newspaper story ended with the simple tag, "Assemblyman Grant was unavailable for comment."

Now this is a reporter's tool, sharp on one side, blunt on the other. In sharp usage, the line means "we tried to reach the man but he was determined to dodge our query; he was ducking his responsibility to answer; he was hiding."

The innocent usage—and this is the one intended in Mr. Grant's reference—is simply that the man did not happen to be in when the reporter called for his comment.

Rule of thumb for the reader: "If unavailability" is mentioned, render the man innocent.

HOUSER

LONG BEACH's other assemblyman, Joe Kennick (44th District—West Long Beach), was home for the weekend and reminded Democrats during a Friday night dinner honoring new state California Democratic Council president Thomas B. Carvey Jr., that they had better start stressing the positive accomplishments of the Brown administration.

Brown entered office with a deficit facing the state, he said, and achieved the first balanced budget in 20 years. He said Republicans controlled the legislature for 20 years without solving the narcotics problem and now are blaming Democrats—in charge two years—for state dope evils.

Kennick said he was dismayed at a few letters from his district which advocated "giving away constitutional freedoms" in the rush to fight narcotics; specifically in the matter of broadening search and seizure powers.

"Democracy is not the easiest, nor the cheapest way to solve problems. Giving away constitutional guarantees is not a part of democracy and I'll never vote to give them away if I live to be a thousand."

STATE SENATOR RICHARD RICHARDS gives a box score on 105 administration bills Governor Brown would like passed, including resolutions, proposed constitutional amendments plus 22 items which Brown has not actually endorsed but favors as to general objectives.

Finally enacted, 8; acted on adversely, 3; pending on Senate or Assembly floor, 7; approved by policy committee, 9; set for hearing, 40; not yet set, 38. Statistics also show that 23 of the administration's measures have won approval in one house or the other.

The state legislative session is starting the 16th week of its 24-week duration.

GOODWIN KNIGHT, former governor, used a story here a few days ago to illustrate how he sidesteps queries about whether he will run for the governorship again in 1962.

"A fellow asked me that the other day. I told him, 'I'm afraid anything I might say—any answer I might give to your question would be misunderstood.'"

"The fellow walked away, then turned and came back and said, 'I'm afraid I don't understand what you mean by that, Governor.'"

"See what I mean?" chuckled Knight.

PERSONAL OBSERVATION: If Knight chooses to run, it will be on a platform more conservative than Richard Nixon would go on. He insinuated an antiliberal posture in his speech before the Lions Club in his emphatic statements for the House Un-American Activities Committee, for loyalty oaths, for "fanatic" Americanism.

Leftist Groups 'Control Country'

EDITOR:

At a time when the Supreme Court has demonstrated a tendency to make decisions which strengthen the arm of the Communist organization, and many of the largest electrical companies are undergoing heavy attack from the Attorney General's Office, one cannot help but feel that there are powerful leftist groups in control of the government of this country. The feeling is augmented by heavy opposition on the part of the newspapers and other persuasive organizations to the anti-Communist activities of the John Birch Society.

About the time one feels that the country is in the hands of dedicated Communists, we read that German General Friedrich Foertsch, a convicted Nazi war criminal who is charged as being personally guilty of many atrocities, has been appointed by the western allies as inspector general of the West German military forces.

I think that it is time for each true American to take a more active part in government and to act to stop both the Communists and the Nazis from seizing any more power. Each true American should be more alert to the activities of their governing officials and to the actions of persons in position to affect the opinion and destiny of this country. Frequent communication with our congressmen is often a good way of keeping abreast of the "inside" activities of power-seeking persons and I recommend this to all.

Life Dedicated to Our Survival

EDITOR:

In the past two weeks I have had the privilege of seeing film and reading very informative articles put out by our state and central government on what communism is doing to cause the collapse of our system of government.

I have gone beyond the point of return. I have dedicated my very life to the battle of our survival. I am not a member of the John Birch Society. I am only one person who has lived in freedom for almost 40 years. I have four children to whom I am trying to impart what was handed down to me: Freedom.

If we as individuals sit by and don't arouse ourselves and become informed through the proper sources and then do what we can do in our own little circle, we shall surely be enslaved by a group of people who are lacking in every good virtue that has been bestowed on man from the beginning.

The founders of our country were not wrong in their belief that all men are created equal and should be allowed to be free to think and act and do as he wishes. Under communism we will not have our freedom in any sense of the word.

My earnest prayer is that the people from the top down will re-dedicate themselves this day to the cause of freedom. Become informed and go to work!

Union Is Agent for the Employe

EDITOR:

Mr. R. J. Smith of Anaheim has made it quite apparent in past years that he is unreasonably prejudiced against unions.

What is a union? When you as an employe sign an agreement to belong to a union, all you are doing is designating the union as your agent to contract with the employer for your services. This agent (union) shall represent you in all matters pertaining to the work involved—hourly wages, working rules and conditions, insurance, pensions. And in the case of disputes the union will represent you through the various stages of grievance, including costly arbitration.

For this you pay a small monthly retainer, 50 per cent of which is returned to your local union for local welfare programs, donations and any other worthy programs that the majority of members vote for.

Mr. Smith pays several hundred dollars a year for an insurance agent to represent him; he has paid many dollars for agents in past years to represent him in transactions; yet he ignores his most valuable possession of all his job and livelihood, and chooses to gather the fruits of others and go it alone.

There are a lot of Mr. Smiths in this country and their concepts of a union's reasons and functions are amazingly ignorant. This is due largely to the anti-union press who have ballooned every union scandal and completely ignored the many great things unions have done for America and all of its people.

Pipe and Cigar Increase Risk

By BEN ZINSER

Smoking and drinking—and even tobacco chewing—may lead to cancer of the esophagus (gullet), say Dr. Ernest L. Wynder and Irwin J. Bross, Ph.D., of Sloan Kettering Institute for Cancer Research in New York.

New research shows that the cancer risk is somewhat greater for pipe and cigar smokers than it is for cigarette smokers.

Heavy drinking appears to speed cancer development if one smokes, the researchers find. A heavy whisky drinker is 25 times more likely to contract cancer of the gullet than is a non-smoker. A heavy beer drinker is 10 times more apt to get it.

If smoking, chewing and heavy drinking could be eliminated, the incidence of this type of cancer could be reduced by at least 80 per cent, the researchers contend in the journal Cancer.

Eating hot and spicy foods has no bearing on development of this type of cancer, they say. But certain dietary inadequacies appear to play a role in esophageal cancer.

THERE'S MORE to the strange disease of narcolepsy than just an overwhelming desire to sleep.

An analysis of 75 narcoleptics treated at Cleveland Clinic in the last nine years shows that many of the victims suffer one or more of the following symptoms:

● Cataplexy—A momentary muscular weakness induced by laughter, anger, surprise or other emotion. The weakness may be so pronounced that the patient falls to the floor.

● Sleep paralysis—Transient paralysis at beginning or end of sleep, usually lasting less than one minute. The patient is awake but unable to move. A light touch may bring him out of it, but other times vigorous shaking may be necessary.

● Hallucinations—Vivid auditory or visual hallucinations during drowsiness. May be either pleasant or unpleasant. Some patients see scenes from horror movies.

Cause of narcolepsy still is not known. The disease develops gradually. It is also known as Gelineau's disease, Gelineau-Redlich syndrome, paroxysmal sleep, sleep epilepsy.

Amphetamine drugs (Dexedrine, Desoxyn, Benzedrine) can reduce the sleepiness or muscular weakness of narcolepsy, but have no effect on sleep paralysis or hallucinations.

EVIDENCE THAT promiscuous sex activity increases the likelihood of cervical cancer has been found in a study of prisoners in the California Institution for Women Hospital in Corona.

The study, reported in the journal Obstetrics and Gynecology, reveals that cervical cancer is about six times more prevalent among women in the Corona institution than among the average female population.

Dr. Armand J. Perciya says that the women prisoners in the study reported a history of promiscuity. He surveyed 601 inmates—349 white women and 252 Negroes and Mexican-Indians. They ranged in age from 18 to 90. Medical examination disclosed 15 cases of cancer of the cervix (neck of the womb).

This is statistically equivalent to 28.3 cases of cervical cancer per 1,000 women. A 1957 study of a normal mixed racial population in Floyd County, Ga., showed an incidence of only 4.7 per 1,000.

Cervical cancer claims 15,000 lives annually in the United States alone. Dr. Perciya stresses that indiscriminate sex activity is not the only factor in the cause of this type of cancer.

SLOW AND NOISY

DC4 Didn't Know Own Strength With Cargo

By ROBERT J. SERLING

WASHINGTON (UPI) — It was just a routine story.

There was nothing earth-shaking about Northwest Orient Airlines announcing the other day it had retired the last of its DC4 airliners. You couldn't blame passengers for not shedding any tears. The DC4 was slow, noisy and unpressurized.

But they say the captain who flew Northwest's last DC4 trip a few weeks ago was seen to covertly pat the worn instrument panel as he cut the engines for the last time. If that's true, he was saying a pilot's farewell to a gallant old airplane that had reached the end of the line. And he was expressing the affection of the thousands of airmen who have wrestled DC4s since the first one was built in 1938.

THE DOUGLAS DC4 was America's first four-engine airliner. It was designed to succeed the DC3 as the backbone of the commercial air fleet. But the DC4 had something in common with thousands of Americans who had potentially successful careers interrupted and then spoiled cargo DC4 accidentally was by World War II. Instead of leading role in California for the Far East commercial aviation, the DC4 went to war. By the time the war ended, Douglas was ready with its pressurized DC6 and Lockheed with its sleek Constellations. The DC4 was just another transport plane, outmoded and ungainly.

It was the cold war that brought the DC4 its only measure of fame. It provided the bulk of the Berlin airlift and no one was surprised. The DC4 was the best cargo plane ever built. It apparently was impossible to overload this airborne elephant. During the Korean War, a interrupted and then spoiled cargo DC4 accidentally was by World War II. Instead of leading role in California for the Far East commercial aviation, the DC4 went to war. By the time the war ended, Douglas was

S. Africans Join Katanga's Army

By MILTON BESSER

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP)—A U. N. report declared Saturday that a Belgian adviser to Katanga province officials is recruiting mercenaries in South Africa for Katanga military forces.

The report was made available as the U. N. General Assembly sought to reach agreement on resolutions in which withdrawal of Belgians from the Congo is the chief controversial issue.

Frederick H. Boland of Ire- land, Assembly president, insisted on morning, afternoon and night sessions of the 99-nation assembly in order to reach a showdown on four Congo resolutions.

But the vote was delayed by a series of tributes to Maj. Yuri Gagarin, the Soviet spaceman, at the morning session. The tributes were voiced after Boland read out a telegram of congratulations from Minister Valerian A. Zorin to Gagarin's space flight.

THE UNITED States threw its support behind a 16-nation Asian-African call for reconvening of the Congolese parliament and the establishment of a national government. Another resolution set a 21-day deadline for an exodus of Belgian political advisers and military and semi-military personnel from the Congo. The United States opposed the fixing of any definite deadline. Many African and Soviet bloc nations were demanding new Assembly action aimed at the Belgians, and the latest U. N. report from the Congo was seen as giving them new ammunition for their arguments.

Everyone 65 or over can join either or both health insurance plans!

- Regardless of past or present health
- No health questions asked
- No physical exam to qualify
- Sons and daughters can enroll parents

Right now, many of you senior citizens are UNPROTECTED because you do not have health insurance of any kind or may never become eligible as a "needy" person for government aid. That's why this is such a vitally important opportunity for you.

65-PLUS was the FIRST hospital-surgical insurance of its kind for senior citizens. Today, hundreds of thousands of men and women just like you have this needed protection. Over 13 million dollars have been paid out in benefits to policyholders. 65-PLUS has proven to be the finest, most economical plan of its kind. You can join with complete confidence.

Following the 65-PLUS plan, Continental created the 5000-RESERVE plan to meet the desperate need of senior citizens for protection against the REALITY BIG hospital bills and long hospital stays. The plan was called 5000-RESERVE because it is almost the same as setting aside a cash reserve of FIVE THOUSAND DOLLARS to help pay big hospital expenses.

To make such a plan possible, 5000-RESERVE has a "deductible" feature that works very much the same as the kind used in auto collision insurance. After you, or any other hospital plan you may own, have paid the first $500 of eligible hospital expenses, the 5000-RESERVE plan goes into effect and starts paying and continues to pay hospital expenses all the way up to $5,000 for as long as TWO YEARS.

This means the 5000-RESERVE plan in no way conflicts with any "standard" plan you may already have.

the basic hospital-surgical protection for ordinary expenses and short-term hospital stays!

65-Plus gives you all this for only $6.50 a month

1. Pays the actual cost of room and board up to $10.00 a day for as long as 31 days for each day of hospital confinement at the hospital of your choice, anywhere in the world.
2. Pays the actual cost of hospital extras up to $100.00 maximum — for X-rays, lab tests, operating room, anesthetics, dressings, drugs, medicines, ambulance, prosthetic devices.
3. Pays for surgery of every type in or out of the hospital on a schedule from $5.00 to $200.00. (Example: $1.00 for removal of toenail; $75.00 for broken thigh bone; $200.00 for removal of prostate.)
4. The Company cannot cancel your 65-PLUS policy or raise the premium or make any change unless it does so to all 65-PLUS policies in your state (O.A. series).
5. Pays you these benefits in addition to any other insurance you may have but only one 65-PLUS policy can be in force for any one person.
6. You are immediately protected on accidents which occur or sickness which originates after the issue date of your policy.
7. You are also protected for conditions you had before your policy was issued, provided the hospital confinement begins (or surgical operation is performed) — after your policy has been in force six months.
8. Your 65-PLUS policy protects you wherever you move or travel, anywhere in the world.

Covers you against all kinds of injuries or illness except those caused by war, or covered by Workmen's Compensation or Occupational Disease Law, except in West Virginia; confinement in federal government hospitals, except in California; confinement in Veterans' Administration hospitals; confinement in local government mental or tuberculosis hospitals; and, in Louisiana, Texas and Tennessee, treatment or service for mental illness or tuberculosis.

Everybody 65 or over accepted!

All enrollments must be postmarked no later than Midnight, April 18.

(Protection begins April 28, 1961)

Applications will also be accepted from any insurance broker or any Continental Casualty Agent

GENERAL AGENT
NATIONAL AGENCIES, INC.
3663 W. 6th St., Los Angeles 5

Continental Casualty Company
CHICAGO, ILLINOIS
A member of the Continental-National Group

It is the perfect "companion" policy. It offers protection for the "big bills." Understand, you do NOT have to join 65-PLUS in order to join 5000-RESERVE. Guarantee: After you receive your policy, or policies, if you are not 100% satisfied in every way, return it within ten days and your first month's premium will be refunded.

Important Notice to Everyone under 65

From now on, enrollment in either or both of these great plans is ALWAYS OPEN to men and women who apply within 30 days of their 65th birthday. If you are under 65 now, write to us. We will tell you how you can join when you reach the age of 65.

5,000 reserve
the hospitalization plan designed to pay for really big hospital costs and long-term hospital stays!

5,000-Reserve gives you all this for only $7.00 a month

1. Pays the actual cost of room and board up to $25.00 a day for each day of hospital confinement at the hospital of your choice, anywhere in the world.
2. Pays the actual cost of all necessary hospital expenses while hospitalized, such as X-rays, lab tests, operating room, anesthetics, drugs, dressings, medicines and prosthetic devices.
3. Benefits are payable for as long as two years for any one accident or illness.
4. The Company cannot cancel your 5000-RESERVE policy or raise the premium or make any changes unless it does so to all 5000-RESERVE policies in your state (O.C. series).
5. You are eligible for full benefits each time you go to the hospital for a different cause—even if confinements are separated by only a few days.
6. Confinements for the same or related causes will be considered as new claims, subject to full policy benefits, as long as they are separated by at least six months.
7. You are immediately protected for any accident that occurs or sickness that commences after the effective date of your policy.
8. You are also protected for conditions you had before your policy was issued, provided your hospital confinement begins after your policy has been in force six months.
9. Pays you these benefits in addition to any other insurance you may have, but only one 5000-RESERVE policy can be in force for any one person.
10. Your 5000-RESERVE policy protects you wherever you move or travel, anywhere in the world.

Covers you against all kinds of injuries or illness except those caused by war; mental disorders; or covered by Workmen's Compensation or Occupational Disease Law, except in West Virginia; confinement in federal government hospitals, except in California; confinement in Veterans' Administration hospitals; confinement in local government tuberculosis hospitals; and, in Louisiana, Texas and Tennessee, treatment or service for tuberculosis.

65-Plus and 5000-Reserve are not available in North Carolina, Missouri and Georgia.

Race Bias in Housing

SACRAMENTO (AP)—California's governor and attorney general joined Saturday in urging an end to racial discrimination in housing.

"We must have equality for all men and women and children—in schools, on the job, at the polls and in the real estate agencies," said Gov.
Brown.

Atty. Gen. Stanley Mosk said: "This generation will either create desirable neighborhoods with races and cultures integrated, or we will permit separation and the attendant evils for generations ahead."

BROWN AND Mosk addressed their messages to some 350 delegates to the legislative conference of the California Committee for Fair Practices.

Both officials endorsed pending legislation to outlaw racial discrimination in all sales, leases or rentals of housing.

"So far as I am able, I intend to put the full power of government behind the effort to eliminate discrimination in the field of housing," Brown said.

MOSK SAID segregated housing "spawns a myriad of other social ills."

"Clearly, then, the accomplishment of adequate, safe, sanitary and desegregated housing is a goal which every one of us has a stake in securing," he said.

BECQUER HAS PROBLEMS—CUBAN ONES

BOSTON — Angel infielder Julio Becquer went to the movies Saturday night, but his mind was thousands of miles away.

A native of Havana, Cuba, which was rocked by land and air attack by anti-Castro forces Saturday, Becquer said he is worried sick.

"I've got my wife, four brothers, two sisters, mother and father, grandparents, five uncles, one aunt and about 25 cousins in Havana. All I can do is get down on my knees and pray."

PIRATE CLUBHOUSE COOLEST SPOT IN TOWN!

Jolly Bucs Confident: 'We Know We Can Win'

By GEORGE LEDERER

Pressure? The world champion Pittsburgh Pirates don't know the meaning of the word. Individually and collectively they're as relaxed as a jellyfish with a tranquilizer.

The Beat 'em Bucs survived a full winter banquet schedule by gaining confidence instead of weight and are determined to show the world that last year was not a fluke.

"We know we can win," said Bill Mazeroski, who became the heroes' hero of the World Series with his clinching home run. "But it won't be easy," cautioned Maz. "We'll have to beat down all the way."

"We'll have to beat the Dodgers, the Giants, Milwaukee and St. Louis. Even Cincinnati could figure in the race if they get some pitching."

While Mazeroski was serious for a moment, the rest of the Pirate clubhouse resembled a kindergarten class at recess.

Bob Friend challenged all comers to a strange game, a finger version of liar's poker. The object, to match the number of fingers flashed by the opponent, appeared simple enough. But it was complicated by the calling of the numbers in Spanish, Italian and pig Latin.

In another corner of the clubhouse, Harvey Haddix, all 5-9 and 160 pounds, stripped to his shorts and led a half dozen other lightweights in what must have been a rehearsal for a Vic Tanny's commercial.

Haddix inflated his chest, hoping to match coach Sam Narmon, who outweighs him by 60 pounds.

Rocky Nelson, Smokey Burgess and Mazeroski stuffed first their mouths and then their pockets with enough chewing tobacco to last through a tripleheader.

Dick Stuart addressed Hal Smith as "Mr. Coliseum," a title Smith earned by hitting seven of his 11 home runs there last season.

Stuart's reply to an introductory question, "did you have a good spring?" was, "I made the club, didn't I?"

As if we hadn't guessed, Gino Cimoli volunteered the information, "we have a bunch of clowns on this club. We have 24 of 'em. The only guy who doesn't say too much is (Joe) Gibbon."

But Gibbon managed to join in the fun after winning Friday night's opener.

At home, Roy Face and Hal Smith are the featured attraction. "They do their act after every game we win at home and all the guys join in and harmonize," said Cimoli.

FACE AND SMITH HAVE become troubadours of national renown. They sing and play the guitar as well as they pitch and hit. They opened their act at a Pittsburgh nightclub shortly after the World Series and were in demand all winter.

"We had only one slack period in December," said Face. "From Jan. 9 to Feb. 11 we had only three days off. We were so busy that we even turned down an offer from the Sands Hotel in Las Vegas."

The singing battery recorded an album on the Robb label, called "Two Bucs at the Holiday House" and Face recently did a single, "Cross Your Heart With Love."

The baritone Face specializes in westerns, while Smith, described by Face as "a deeper baritone," prefers ballads. Among his album numbers are "Bouquet of Roses," "Because of You," "Blue Moon," and "Just Because."

Bing Crosby flew to the Pirates' spring training headquarters at Ft. Myers, Fla., just to hear the duet. Face was taken by surprise when he met Crosby and cracked, "I'll be glad to cut a record with you if your ratings are down."

There's harmony in the Pirate ranks for sure.

BROWN ROMPS FOR 2 TDS IN TROY'S SCRUM

Halfbacks Willie Brown and Alan Shields stole the offensive show in a two-hour scrimmage that completed the first week of spring practice for the University of Southern California football team.

Brown, a sophomore from Long Beach, carried the ball 13 times for a 9.1 average and scored two touchdowns on runs of 3 and 60 yards. Shields, a senior two-year letterman, carried the ball 10 times for 107 yards and scampered for a 56-yard TD.

46,667 View 9 Twin Kills

By GEORGE LEDERER

Don Drysdale was the losing pitcher Saturday night, but it was Don Hoak of the winners who threw the Coliseum's all-time temper tantrum as the Pittsburgh Pirates handed the Dodgers their third straight loss, 4-1.

Hoak was fit to be tied, and probably had to be, when he reached the Pirate clubhouse following a rhubarb in the eighth inning. Hoak, a tough ex-leatherneck with a reputation for hand-to-hand combat, turned into a maniac when umpire Ken Burkhardt called Dodger Jim Gilliam safe at third with a triple. It was a close play, but not that close.

A half-dozen Pirates failed to restrain Hoak, who wanted to fight all five umpires, tag-team style or otherwise. While Hoak succeeded in shoving, humping and verbally abusing Burkhardt and left field umpire Chris Pelcoudas, no blows were struck.

The five-minute disturbance finally ended when umpire Jocko Conlan succeeded in leading Hoak off the field, Hoak jawing all the way.

NEAL said at the time, "You better not try that again." Stuart's comment could not be interpreted. Except for the eighth-inning excitement, the ladies night turnout of 46,667 had little to cheer.

The Dodgers were behind all the way as Bill Virdon led off with a home run off Drysdale and added one against Larry Sherry in the seventh inning.

Hoak drove in the other two runs with a bases-loaded double in the sixth inning.

DRYSDALE was lifted for a hitter in the sixth, while Bob Friend restricted the Dodgers to eight hits in pitching one of his rare complete games at the Coliseum. Friend had made 11 consecutive complete starts here since April 29, 1958.

Each side turned in four double plays in the first five innings.

Drysdale escaped trouble in the second round when Hal Smith rapped into a double play after leadoff singles by Bob Clemente and Hoak. Bob Skinner was doubled in the third after a single by Dick Groat, and Hoak met the same fate in the fourth after Clemente's second hit.

The Dodgers had runners aboard in each of the first five innings, but Willie Davis, Drysdale, Wally Moon and John Roseboro hit into double plays.

THE DODGERS run came on Moon's double, his third hit of the evening, following Gilliam's triple and the rhubarb in the eighth.

When Drysdale would have welcomed a double play in the sixth, he couldn't get it. He filled the bases on a single by Virdon, a ground

Battle Red Sox Today in Double

By ROSS NEWHAN
L. F. T. Staff Writer

BOSTON—Unable to feed power to a kindling fire in the first inning, the Angels fell to the four-hit pitching of Boston pitcher Ike Delock, 3-0, this bitterly cold Saturday afternoon.

Thus since striking for seven runs in two innings at Baltimore Tuesday, the Angels have gone 16 innings without a run and have hit safely only six times.

Providing the 30 degree temperature does not bring snow, Ron Kline and Eli Grba will duel Tom Brewer and Billy Muffett in a double-header today.

Out of defeat often comes victory, and for Angel pitcher Jerry Casale Saturday he seemed to regain some of the poise and confidence which

ANGEL OF THE DAY

JERRY CASALE — Lost to Red Sox, but allowed only three runs and eight hits in 5 2/3 innings. He fanned eight and walked only three.

CASALE

CASALE toiled five and two-thirds innings, gave up eight hits, all three runs, walked three and fanned eight. Despite the loss, it was a step forward.

"I was real spotty," said Casale, "I think the long lay-off (he had not pitched for 10 days) messed me up a little. I was pitching better in Arizona."

"Because of the cold, I couldn't get a good grip on the ball. I had a good breaking ball, but the fast ball was going up. If I can get the ball down I'll have a few laughs this year."

THERE SEEMS to be little question that Casale has the talents to be a big winner. The Angels have been working to restore his confidence and Casale says it's returning.

"It felt great to start a game, but I also felt strange out there. I don't think I started a game after mid-season last year."

"I want to pitch and I want to get a few wins behind me so I'll get a regular turn."

"I know I'm going to lose and I'll take my medicine, but I watched enough baseball last year. I can't win on the bench. I just hope Rig (manager Bill Rigney) stays with me."

RIGNEY thought Casale looked good except for a little control trouble. "Out pitching (Ron Moeller and Tex Cleveland) did not allow a hit in relief of Casale wasn't bad," said Rigney. "If we can hold them to two or three runs we figure to score more than that."

"We let them off the hook in the first inning and we might have had something going in the second had Hunt (Ken) not been picked off."

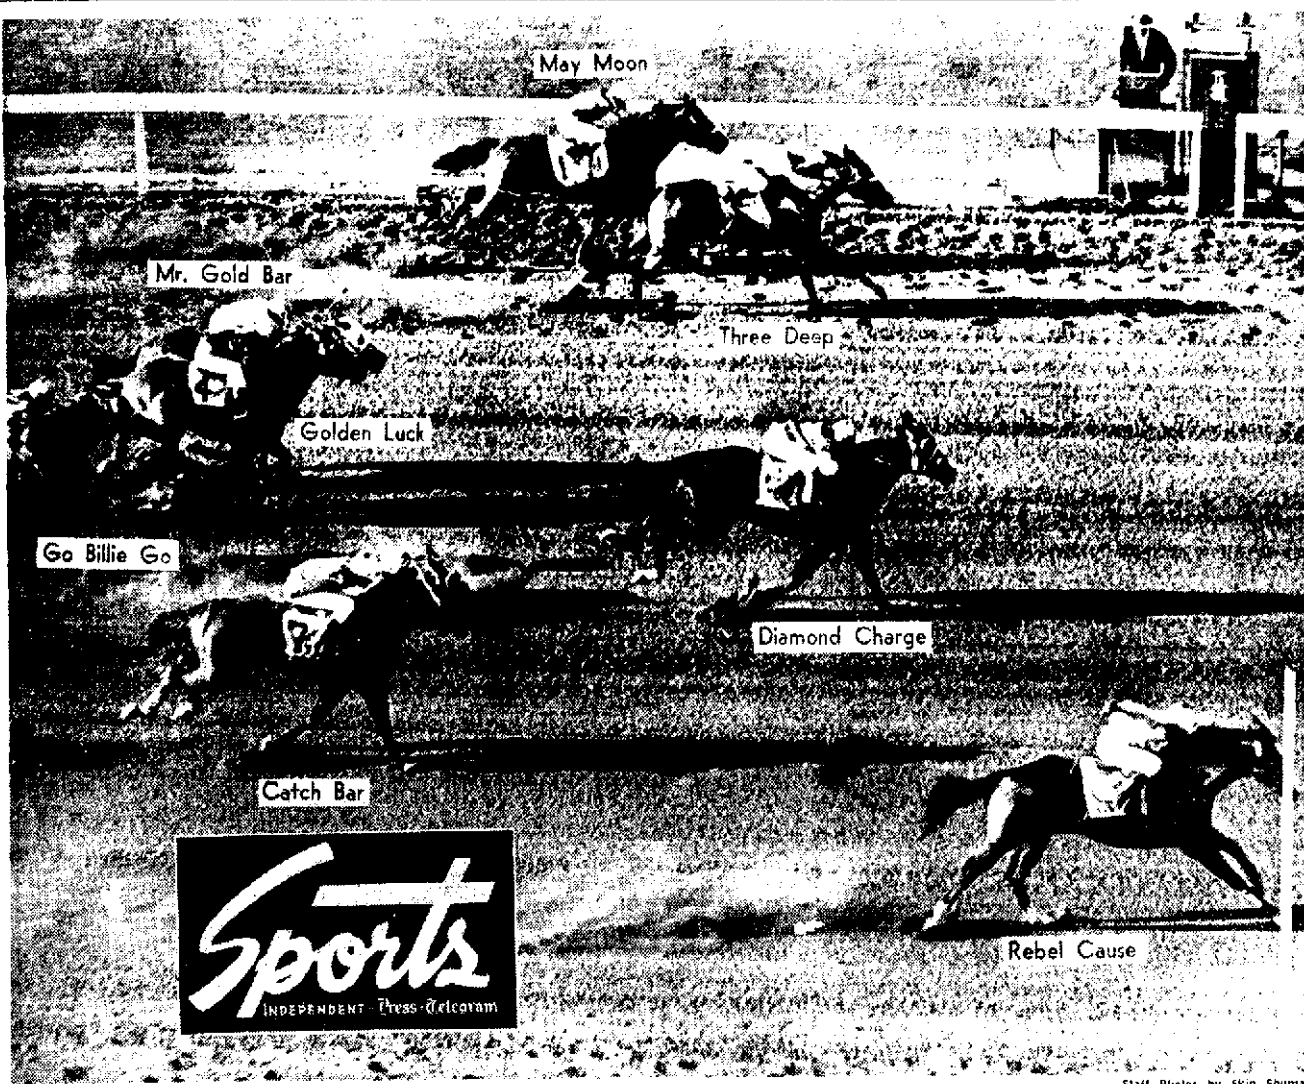

Hunt led off the second with a single, but with Fritz Brickell at bat was picked

Record 14,712 at Alamitos

By MAC MCGUIRE

Heavy favorites Tonto Bars Hank and Rebel Cause won their heats of the PCQHRA Derby Trials Saturday by identical length margins and in identical times before a record crowd of 14,712 at Los Alamitos Race Course.

The huge throng chunked $839,820 through the mutual machines for another record. The old attendance mark was $790,640, both April 18, 1959.

The 10 fastest of the 17 colts and fillies in the two heat trials qualify for next Saturday's $25,500 Derby finals.

In the second heat, Tonto Bars Hank, the richest quarter horse of all time with $95,407 in the bank, gave the fans who backed him down to 1-5 cause for concern when he balked at the starting gate and had to be wrestled into his stall. When the gates flew open, he bobbled at the start, but jockey Curtis Perner quickly got him in front of Rock Bar, the Calbred champion owned by Gladys Flattie and Hugh Clingmann. John D. Askew's Miss Vanity made a late charge to get up for second, a neck ahead of Rock Bar.

The time for the 440-yard sprint was :21.9, two tenths of a second off the world record set by Vandy's Flash. The Milo and C. G. Whitcomb colt returned the lowest price of the meeting — $2.60, $2.80 and $2.20. Miss Vanity returned $9.60, $4.40 and Rock Bar, the second, wagering choice, paid $2.80.

Like Tonto Bars Hank, Rebel Cause also had difficulty at the break, but just as his arch rival, the Dale Robertson colt quickly took command in the first heat to also win by a length in :21.9.

The 21.9 seconds was the swiftest ever clocked by a 3-year old in the history of the PCQHRA Derby Trials or Derby itself. The horses were aided somewhat by a tailwind.

Reb, the 4.3 choice in the outside eighth position, broke outside at the start but jockey Herman Moore quickly straightened him out.

In the final 100 yards John D. Askew's Diamond Charge turned on the juice and got in for second ahead of Three Deep, owned by Franklin B. Cox.

Rebel Cause returned $3.80, $3.00 and $2.40. Diamond Charge paid $3.80, $2.80 and Three Deep $2.80.

The identical victories by the two great youngsters set up a tremendous duel for next Saturday's feature race. In five meetings between the two, Tonto Bars Hank has won three and Rebel Cause two.

"Luck" Tag Angers Pirates

Let's try this syrup on those Sunday morning pancakes:

The Pittsburgh Pirates will rise up on their collective heels to protest any writer's assertion that they were "lucky" to win the 1960 world championship. Don

VERN LAW
Grashes Teeth

Hoak and Dick Groat, in particular, will aim a knockout glare at the scrivener who dares to infer Lady Luck kissed the lips of the '60 Pirates.

"We had guts comin' out our ears," snapped the third baseman as he idled alongside the Coliseum batting cage Friday night. "Not only that, but we had great pitching and hitting. Luck, shmuck and phooey!"

"I got sick and tired of hearing that word 'luck' tossed around all winter," snorted team captain Groat. "You newspaper guys said the same thing about the Dodgers a year ago. Our infield and pitching was as good as any club's in baseball . . . and our outfield came through when the chips were on the line. There's a certain amount of luck in this game, but it even out over a 154-game season. The club that wins is the best team—and I've got no more to say."

The Buccos are snorting over their pair of one-run losses to the Giants in the opening '61 series at Candlestick Park. "Wednesday's game was the toughest one I ever can remember losing," sighed pitcher Vern Law, victim of a 2-1 defeat. "We had a hot rally going in the sixth inning when I couldn't get out of the way of a sure hit near first base by Bill Virdon. The bases were loaded, but I was the third out on that play. The roof really blew off when I hit Cepeda (Orlando) to force in the winning run. He could have got out of the way, but he just stood there and won the ball game for 'em."

"Yeh, there's something in the rule book that says a batter's got to make an effort to get out the way of a pitch," smarted catcher Smokey Burgess. "How's a guy making an effort to avoid getting hit when he doesn't even move?"

Maybe Don Drysdale can give Smokey an answer. Big "D" has paralyzed enough frightened batters in his career.

MORE SYRUP, PLEASE:

History was made last Sunday at Blair Field when George Lederer and yours truly underestimated the turnout for the Dodger-Dallas game. Sports writers never, never estimate under an actual crowd figure; they're always too high. Yet, our estimate of 4,250 fans was somewhat short of the actual ticket turnout of 4,525!

Thanks to the Dodgers, 11 boys' baseball leagues in Long Beach each received $342.66 with which to purchase equipment. After expenses and a $2,195 check went to Dallas, the remaining $3,769 was divided among the 11 leagues. The Dodgers took not a penny from the game.

The Rams feel they may have signed the NFL's 1961 "sleeper" when they nabbed free agent Dick Kellar of Long Beach State. Both Bob Waterfield and Elroy Hirsch are more impressed with Keeler every time they review his game films. Keeler himself constantly is studying films of Duane Putnam, whom most football men consider once the NFL's finest offensive guard.

NOW A CUP OF COFFEE:

A new L. B. volleyball team, the Breakers, is set to enter the national women's championships May 10-13 in Duluth, Minn., IF it can scrape up another $1,000. The Century Club already contributed $300, but the girls need more. (Jo Rae Turner will be glad to accept contributions via GE 9-0706, after 7 p. m.)

After his tremendous opening game with the Angels, Ted Kluszewski received 25 telegrams from all over the nation. Klus's only comment about the wires, when asked by newsmen travelling with the Angels: "Not bad for a castoff, eh, boys?" Not bad for Mantle, Williams or Musial, either, Muscles!

Nut-of-the-year nominee: The character in the Associated Press poll who tabbed the Yanks to finish 10th in the AL. (The gent should be barred from the Baseball Writers Assn. before his trolley wires really snap!)

14,403 See Trotters Win

The Harlem Globetrotters, leading scorer in the nation, was held to three points, Americans, 75-64, in the Sports Arena Saturday night before 14,403 fans, the third largest crowd to attend a basketball game in the Arena.

The series now stands 8-6 in favor of the Globetrotters with the two teams scheduled to play in Las Vegas tonight. Frank Burgess of Gonzaga

Heist Hits Slam in Ninth, 9-5

CHICAGO (AP) — Al Heist hit the first grand slam home run of his major league career in the ninth, breaking up a 5-5 tie, and giving the Chicago Cubs a 9-5 victory over the Milwaukee Braves Saturday.

It was the second successive day a home run in the ninth enabled the Cubs to whip the Braves. Friday, Sammy Taylor hit a three-two pitch with two out for a 3-2 Cub triumph.

Heist's clout off Don Nottebart came with darkness settling on Wrigley Field and the umpires apparently determined to call the game after the inning if the score remained tied.

Don Zimmer, who scored four Cub runs, led off the decisive ninth, being hit by a pitched ball. He advanced on a sacrifice. Ron Santo, who had slammed a two-run homer in the fifth, bounced a hit to third. Ernie Banks then walked to fill the bases and Ed Douchee fled out for the second out. Then Heist cleared the bases.

THE WINNER was Don Elston, who also was credited for a relief win Friday. He succeeded Cub starter Glen Hobbie in the ninth.

Milwaukee's Carl Willey dissipated leads of 4-1 and 5-2 and was chased in the fifth after Santo's homer and Banks' triple.

Reds' Pilot Protests Abbreviated 4-0 Loss

ST. LOUIS (UPI) — Right-hander Ernie Broglio hurled a two-hit shutout for the St. Louis Cardinals Saturday to stop Cincinnati, 4-0, in an abbreviated 5-1/2 inning game which brought a bitter protest from Reds' manager Fred Hutchinson.

It was the first loss of the season for Cincinnati, which had a 3-0 mark going into the game.

Play was halted in the sixth due to a steady drizzle with the mercury reading 40 degrees. Manager Hutchinson bounded from the visitors' dugout and announced to first base umpire Dusty Boggs and home plate umpire

Wildness, Error Help Yankees, 5-3

NEW YORK (AP)—The New York Yankees capitalized on a Kansas City error, three walks, a hit batsman and a sacrifice fly to score four runs in a wild second inning and went on to defeat the Athletics Saturday, 5-3, for their first victory of the baseball season.

Bob Turley made his first start for New York a winning one but he needed help from Bob Stafford in the eighth when the Athletics rocked him for three runs.

Bud Daley was the Kansas City starter and loser. The left-hander failed to survive the second inning, giving way to Ken Johnson.

BILL SKOWRON, who collected two of the Yankees' six hits, opened the weird second with a single. After Roger Maris walked, Skowron was caught off second but he managed to reach third safely when Andy Carey dropped Jerry Lumpe's throw. Daley then hit Elston Howard with a pitch and walked Cletis Boyer to force in the first run.

Turley's fly brought in run No. 2 and, after another walk to Tony Kubek had filled the bases, Bobby Richardson singled in two more runs.

Tigers Cash in on Homer by Bruton

DETROIT (UPI)—Billy Bruton's three-run homer and a two-run triple by Norm Cash powered the Detroit Tigers to a 6-2 victory over the Chicago White Sox Saturday.

It was the second straight triumph for the Tigers who pushed across all of their runs in the early innings.

Southpaw Don Mossi, who picked up the victory, held Chicago to one run and four hits through the first five innings.

Five-Hitter With Jinx 13 on Back, 8-0

BALTIMORE (UPI)—Southpaw Steve Barber pitched a brilliant five-hitter Saturday to blank the Minnesota Twins and carry the Baltimore Orioles to their first victory of the season, 8-0, after two straight losses.

The defeat was the first for the Twins after two triumphs in their new colors.

Barber, wearing No. 13 on his back in direct defiance of the "sophomore jinx," did not permit an extra base hit and fanned four. He walked six but was helped along by four double plays, one of which he started himself.

THE ORIOLES, who collected only 11 hits in their first two games, banged starter and loser Chuck Stobbs and three other Twins' hurlers for 12 Saturday, including a two-run homer by Dick Williams, first of the year by an Oriole.

Three Twin errors made things easier for the Birds. Baltimore scored three unearned tallies in the third at the expense of Ted Sadowski, who followed Stobbs. Paul Giel yielded Williams' homer in the sixth. Lee Strange, who got out of a bases-loaded situation in the ninth, was the only Minnesota pitcher not scored upon.

Fishin' Around

By DONNELL GULPEPPER

The Strange Lure of Lures

Never underestimate a fishing lure, no matter how crazy it looks. Hanging in a fish net on the wall of my den—purely for decor—are two or three dozen lures of all colors, shapes and sizes. Some rattle on the surface; some spin through the water like outboards. One large one has an enclosed flashlight that glows at night.

But all of these lures have caught fish. They are now retired from active service and are mere conversation pieces because there are many other ones that have taken their places in the tackle box.

Ready to join those on the wall after a few more tries is the Squirm, one of the goofiest artificial lures ever devised. A picture of it appears in this column.

There's an interesting story about the Squirm. Dick Machom, manufacturer's representative of DeLong Lures, 4026 Princeton Blvd., Cleveland 21, Ohio, gave it to me on my recent trip to Clear Lake. He said: "Try it in the ocean; also give it a whirl in Lake Mead when you go there."

While camping with the Southern California Tuna Club near Iceberg Canyon on Mead, most of us found artificial lures were being ignored by the bass in favor of mudsuckers, but there were a few of us who never stopped trying with the artificials. I was one.

Topping off a day in which I had just about cast away my right arm with few results, I finally dug deep into the tackle box and found the Squirm. I said to Don Graves, my fishing companion: "I promised to use this, so here goes."

ONE CAST NEAR SHORE did nothing; a second was short. Then a third put the Squirm on a sandy beach. I jerked it off, it landed about four feet from shore and a two-pound bass virtually exploded under it, going into the air and then into all sorts of gymnastics.

I was fishing with a 4½-foot, 2-ounce Mitchell rod, 3-pound-test mono and a Mitchell 308 reel. With such equipment, a two-pound bass gave a real battle. The fish won the artificial-lure jackpot for that particular day, but I must admit that all entrants in the pool protested when they saw the Squirm. "Unfair!" they exclaimed.

Actually, the Squirm looks like a baby octopus at first sight. It also appears to be a glob of worms tied around a small gang hook. It is intended to be fished on the bottom like a black eel jig. In my opinion there's no reason why ocean kelp bass, bonito and barracuda won't tear it apart. Any way that's where the Squirm will be tried next. If it lasts, it will join the assortment on my den wall. But I'll guarantee that I'll replace it with a duplicate when I return to Lake Mead or some other bass-fishing spot.

OAKLAND'S CASTING CLUB will be host to the Western Association of Angling and Casting Clubs on June 23, 24 and 25, announces Al Iverson, president of the Long Beach Casting Club. Several local casters are planning to take part.

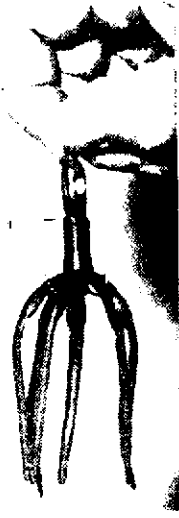

The Western is preliminary to the National, which takes places in Long Beach this year in August.

The LBCC also is planning to participate in the Long Beach Hobby Show at the Municipal Auditorium this week, with Roger Brown and Ed Caldwell in charge of the booth. They and other members expect to demonstrate the art of fly-tying throughout the show period.

Chairman Fred Metzger of the nominating committee says that his group has picked the following slate of officers:

Ed Willans, president; V. O. Bradley, first vice president; Ingui Egge, second vice president; Earle H. Thomas, corresponding secretary; Donovan L. Reed, recording secretary; John W. Simpson, treasurer; Donald G. McGavin, captain; Harold McKinsey, cocaptain; Alton A. Iverson, junior director, and William T. Waters, senior director.

Nomination in the CC is tantamount to election. The installation date has been set for April 29 at the Petroleum Club.

Eye Drag Mark at Stadium

By DAVE TAYLOR

Bob Ellis' 121.45 mph world record for 1/4-mile acceleration run hangs in the balance today as Long Beach Boat and Ski Club wraps up its second spring-season drag race event at Marine Stadium.

If he can pick out some bugs that developed Saturday in Rudy Ramos' big Ryerson-Craft-X-P with blown fuel Chrysler, Ellis will be reaching for 130 to top his own world high mark set at Long Beach's last drag run in February.

Ellis could only squeeze 103.80 out of her in Saturday's qualifier, but reports she's been making 120 and over consistently in unofficial time tests since the February meet, and claims 130 is within reach if conditions are right.

TOP TIME money for 117.64 mph in the Saturday qualifying heat went to Richard Johnson, of Long Beach, driving a Hydroboat powered by blown fuel Pontiac. Jack Pettijon, of Phoenix, Ariz., hit 109.22 in his Biesmeyer with Chrysler-blown fuel, and Dewey Eickson, of Culver City, driving D&H Marine hull with blown gas Chrysler made 108.30 mph.

More than 100 boats in the 65 mph and over classes are expected on the starting line when the gun sounds for today's final heat at noon. Seven boats are already approved for the 100 mph and over elim with more expected to qualify today.

Of 118 entries in the opener Saturday, 87 boats ran eliminations in 30-65 mph classes. Winners were announced as follows:

Class 30-35—Jerrv Rubright, Arcadia—Merc outboard.
Class 35-40—Bud Malor, Torrance—Calmor outboard.
Class 40-45—Hal Hase, Arcadia—Mark 78 with Merc.
Class 45-50—Dale Whitney, Whittier—Sovereign with Chev inboard.
Class 50-55—Howard Davis, Gardena—Custom hull with Dodge inboard.
Class 55-60—B. J. Thompson, Grover—Custom hull with Chev inboard.
Class 60-65—Diane Grey, Arcadia—Holt with Chev.

TOP OUTBOARD money went to George Morris of Norwalk, driving a Bower Cat with twin Mercs. Morris made 57.50 in the qualifying heat, but could only push it to 57.43 in elimination. That was good enough.

Three-Way Battle for Yacht Crown

Kamalii, owned by Larry Doheny of the sponsoring Los Angeles Yacht Club, was the first boat to finish the Mazatlan Yacht Race Saturday. Kamalii completed the race at 3:01 p.m.

Corrected times indicated the winner will probably be Jinker, Holiday or Windspun. The three vessels were expected in by today.

The Coast Guard escort vessel Alert was rushing from Mazatlan at full speed over a distance of 370 miles late Saturday night for a point seven miles north of Cape Lazaro, Baja, California, to lend assistance to the Gamin.

Owned by Dick Lerner of Lido Isle Yacht Club, the Gamin ran aground. It is dismantled and sitting high and dry. The six-man crew reportedly hiked 16 miles to a Mexican army camp to summon assistance.

Sports Beat

Three men badly burned in a boat accident during a fishing trip for the University of Florida football coaching staff were listed in improved condition at a hospital Saturday. They are coaches Pepper Rodgers and Jim Powell and businessman Ray Ellis.

RED AUERBACH of the Celtics and Carl Braun of the Knicks are among other coaches predicting financial trouble for the new American Basketball League. They said option contracts held by NBA clubs and the lack of top stars will seriously hamper the ABL at the gate.

TWELVE more entries have been received for this year's Indianapolis "500." Californians entered are Danny Jones of Long Beach, A. J. Shepherd of Garden Grove, Bob Sorenson of Montebello and Ernie Ruiz of Modesto.

LARRY JACKSON'S fractured jaw is "healing well" and the wires will probably be removed April 24, according to the St. Louis Cardinals' team physician. The hurler's weight has returned to normal.

DAL WARD, former Colorado football coach, said Saturday he is definitely interested in the Nebraska athletic director's job, a post being vacated by Bill Orwig.

JOSEPH BARONE said he would make a decision in a few days on heavy-weight contender Sonny Liston's demand that Barone step out as the fighter's manager. He indicated he might oblige Liston.

JOHNNY KERR, 6-9 center who has never missed a regular season or playoff game since he joined the Syracuse club in 1954, has become the first Nats player to sign for the 1961-62 season.

SOME OBSERVERS are claiming today that a home run hit by Wally Post of Cincinnati against St. Louis Friday night would have traveled 600 feet had it not hit the scoreboard.

IT HAPPENED LAST NIGHT

Earl Catches Yul on the Fly

By EARL WILSON

PARIS—"I'm not a pretty boy... I'm not exactly a clean-cut All-American type," Yul Brynner remarked the other day.

As Cecil B. DeMille said once when I had my nose torn off, "Thank God, nothing can happen to your face that hasn't happened to it already."

"And so," he said, "I play a lot of strange characters in a lot of strange lands."

He was explaining why it is necessary for him to live abroad—and he was sitting in a hotel across the Rue de Rivoli from the Garden of Tuilleries, as he spoke. It seemed to be in order now that there has been an outcry against movie stars running off to Europe to escape taxes.

"Really," he said, sipping some tea, "all my life has been here. I speak French better than I do English... at 12, I was earning my living here in Paris as a guitarist..."

AND "MR. BRINE-RRR" (as the hotel people pronounced his name) reeled off places he's visited lately in his peripatetic career as actor and unsalaried special consultant to the UN's High Commissioner for Refugees.

"Greece, Spain, Mexico, Hong Kong... I jumped over to Damascus for a day to look at some oil land... My wife and I have an apartment in Lausanne, and I see my son Rocky every week-end... oh yes, I flew to the States for a couple of days."

"For a couple of days?" I asked.

"I love flying," Brynner nodded. "It's phenomenal what you can do now."

"I leave London at 11 a.m., arrive in New York at 1:30 and have lunch with my business manager, who's come out to Idlewild to meet me, take off at 3:30 and am in California in time for drinks at the Beverly Hilton Hotel."

Furthermore, he says, "I feel very secure flying. All you have to do is look at the statistics and you feel secure!"

Brynner said it's very simple why so many pictures are done abroad—"people have traveled too much to accept fake backgrounds."

Mike Todd's "Around the World in 80 Days" had something to do with that, and Brynner said Todd is still missed by showmen.

"When he did his picture, it was like a man going on a binge. There was something contagious about his enthusiasm."

"In Vienna when they were paying a tribute to him, I was in charge and I told the crowd, 'Mike never liked silence. He wouldn't like you to be silent for a minute. I'd like you all to stand and applaud him for one minute.'"

Forty-five now, Brynner, who was born in Japan to a Swiss-Mongolian father and a Central European mother, was reared in Peking. Just a year ago, after splitting up with Virginia Gilmore, he married Doris Kleiner, a Paris fashion director. And as we were talking, she arrived after quite enough time for our talk, and said, "Darling, it's time to go..."

Quite a well organized couple, I'd say.

New Restaurant in Buffums' Will Be Outstanding Place

By KEN CHILCOTE
Business Editor

An outstanding restaurant in which fine sculpture, crystal and bronze chandeliers and lush plantings will be featured, is being constructed on the sixth floor of Buffums' downtown Long Beach department store.

V. G. Young, Buffums' president, said the luxurious restaurant, to be known as Buffums' Terrace of the Four Seasons, will be opened about June 1.

The restaurant will occupy 80 per cent of the space on the sixth floor. It will seat approximately 200 diners, all at tables. Offices, which occupied the sixth floor, have been moved to other floors. The IBM bookkeeping department was moved temporarily to the store's autoport and will be returned when the big remodeling program at the store is complete.

COST OF THE NEW restaurant addition was estimated at $150,000 and it will be equipped with a kitchen that is virtually all-electric. Diners will be served just during store hours, which will include dinners on Monday and Friday nights.

Edward Killingsworth of the architectural firm of Killingsworth, Brady, Smith and Associates, said the theme of the restaurant will be that of a classic garden terrace with fine sculpture, crystal and bronze chandeliers, mirrors and lush planting.

PUREX BUILDING PROGRESSES

Due to be completed July 1 is this first unit of the Purex International Building in Lakewood Center. Steel structure has been completed by Apex Steel Corp., and huge precast concrete slabs are being hung on the steel frames as shown here. This unit is 62,000 square feet and will house 250 employees. The complete project will be 169,000 square feet to house over 800 employees.

"The sculpture is Italian and depicts the four seasons of the year," he added. "Each of the traditional figures represents a season. All were carved in a small village in Italy on the outskirts of Venice. Winter and spring are being set in alcoves at each end of the formal foyer."

"SUMMER and autumn will be located on either side of the elevator doors which provide access to the restaurant. All are backed by gold-veined mirrors and banked in lush groupings of Kentia palms.

"From the foyer across the dining room a fine panoramic view of the city may be seen. The colors in the rooms will be muted gold and white with accents and upholstery in soft greens.

"Antique bronze and crystal chandeliers will provide soft lighting for the foyer, dining room, the gold flocked wallpapers, and gold veined mirrors. The total atmosphere is being developed in the ageless beauty of classic form and detail."

A four-story office building is to be erected at 224-238 E. Fourth St., at a cost of from $750,000 to $1 million.

David Kreedman of Los Angeles, who already has obtained a building permit for the initial construction, said details of the structure will be announced in a few days.

It will contain 60 office suites, he reported.

Kreedman, whose office is at 5519 Wilshire Blvd., Los Angeles, said the architectural firm of Rossine & Schwartz are completing the working plans so construction can be started within a short time.

Real Estate and BUSINESS DEPARTMENT

L.B. Man Develops Trailer Tire Sales

Little tires mean big business to Long Beach tire dealer, Ole Pedersen.

While most tire dealers were striving for sales to major trucks and fleet operations to increase business, the Pedersen Tire Co., 2735 E. Artesia Ave., saw a great future in tiny tires needed for boat trailers.

An ardent boatman, Pedersen began stocking and selling tires for boat trailers. Keeping a comprehensive stock of pneumatic industrial tires to service and replace tires on boat trailers soon resulted in Pedersen's becoming a well known ready source for these tires.

The Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co., in a national publication this month is calling attention of other dealers how the Long Beach firm has developed little tires into big business.

Of course, little tires aren't all Pedersen sells. He has a fleet of 13 service trucks in constant use handling business for his firm. Starting as a service station in 1948 with small quarters, Pedersen saw business steadily grow until he has expanded into his present major firm. He is a firm believer in promotion and advertising as keys to success and his big business in small tires shows the results of such advertising.

Facilities at Pedersen's include wheel and brake service for cars and trucks and recapping for tires ranging from 13 inches to huge off-the-road sizes.

Pedersen is president of the Long Beach Tire Dealers & Retreaders Association and vice president of the Southern California Association.

STANLEY L. SCHULTZ, general manager of Aaron Schultz & Sons, Inc., prominent Long Beach furniture store, flatly declares that "business is great." And, he has plenty of facts to prove it.

Always a strong believer in advertising and promotion, the Schultz firm recently staged a warehouse sale offering substantial bargains.

SO GREAT was the turnout that the crowd overflowed and could not all get into the sale. So Schultz prevailed on sources to open their warehouses and let them repeat the offer Thursday, Friday and Saturday. And, the big sales area at 52nd and Atlantic was thronged again.

"Don't let the prophets of gloom and doom tell you business is bad," said Schultz. "People have money and will buy if true values are presented. We've proved it."

Builders, Officials to Hear Urban Renewal Plans at Meet

Two hundred builders will meet with officials of many Southern California cities at a conference on urban renewal and development to be held Tuesday evening at the Lafayette Hotel with the Harbor Area Chapter of the Building Contractors Association and the Builder-Developer Council of B.C.A. as co-hosts.

Objectives of the meeting will include pointing the way toward greater progress in eliminating and preventing deterioration of older sections of Southland cities, closer cooperation between cities and the construction industry, and showing the place that the average size builder can share in the renewal of run-down sections of the communities.

DWIGHT HARPER, president of the builder-developer council of B.C.A. and Gerald Alder, Harbor area chapter head, announced details of the program which is intended to acquaint the widest possible number of city officials with the basic workings of urban renewal and redevelopment.

More than 100 will attend from southland cities. City Manager John R. Mansell and Mayor Edwin Wade will be among those attending from Long Beach.

Other leases have gone to a laundromat operator, Schuetz Barber Shop, Seabright Cleaners, Williams Hair Styling, Walker & Lee Realty Co., for a division office. Leases are being negotiated with an auto supply firm and a food specialty store.

William A. Lockett, architect, has prepared the plans for the building.

Plush Country Club for Palm Springs

PALM SPRINGS (UPI)—Plans for a multi-million-dollar country club and a new hotel to be built in Agua Caliente Indian land have been announced here.

The plans were revealed following approval of a 99-year and a 70-year lease of the Indian lands by the Bureau of Indian Affairs in Washington, D.C.

THE 99-YEAR lease covers land now occupied by the Desert Spa, a mineral bath resort. Spa president Samuel W. Banowitz said plans would go on the drawing boards within the next two weeks for a new 150-room hotel adjacent to the existing facilities. The new structure, scheduled for completion by February or March of 1962, will include clinical facilities, and dietary kitchens under medical supervision.

The First National Construction Co. of New York plans to start the multimillion-dollar development of the Palm Canyon Country Club within the next few days. The project will include an 18-hole golf course, a four-story hotel, an apartment house development and residential homes along the fairway. Related facilities such as man-made lakes, a club house, a pro shop and parking also will be included.

INFLUENTIAL HOMES POPULAR

Two fast-selling Influential interior square footage runs over 1,600. Priced fully from $18,550 to $22,250, second unit homes accounted for over $4 million in home sales, it was revealed by Jean Harding, director of sales for Walker & Lee for the Blue Ribbon award-winning developments.

At Anaheim, large crowds visited the preview of the second unit last week. The four furnished model homes are located on Sunkist just below La Palma. They display the four plans, which offer four and three bedrooms and family room, two and two and one-half luxurious baths. In-stylings, is a center patio home featuring three large bedrooms, the middle one ample for two children. The beamed but ceilingless "atrium" with redwood-stripped concrete, is the home's focal point.

The development by the Butler-Harbour Construction Co. is located near the North American Aviation Autonetics plant and other employment centers. A 14-acre site has been set aside for a community park. An elementary school is already open within the area.

Several miles away, the "twin" development, Influential-La Mirada, offers its final group of homes for immediate occupancy as it nears a sellout. It is located south of Rosecrans along Mercado.

Will Address L. B. Ad Club
W. Clark Graves, Southern California advertising sales representative for the Saturday Evening Post, Los Angeles office, will be the guest speaker at the meeting of the Advertising Club of Long Beach, Thursday noon at the Lafayette Hotel.

Newest Dutch Haven Is On Display Today

AN AMERICAN HOME
On public view today will be the American Home, the newest unit of Dutch Haven communities. They are located on Bolsa Chica near Huntington Beach. Here is an exterior view of one home.

The American home, new-est of the Dutch Haven communities, opens today for public viewing. These popular new homes offer a completely new concept in comfortable suburban California living, and to substantiate their public acceptance, claim sales in excess of a half million dollars, prior to formal showing. Ed Boyd, sales manager said.

The American Home series, offers many innovations with efficient award-winning floor plans. The spacious rooms are planned with the utmost convenience, and materials to ease home-making chores. These three and four bedroom, family room, and up to two full-bath homes, are priced from $14,950 with $95 move-in costs to vets, VA, FHA, and Cal-Vet financing.

SIXTEEN different exterior elevations are offered in the Ranch Home, the Colonial, the Hawaiian Modern, and the Dutch Provincial. Authentic architectural styling adds individuality and lasting value to this completely planned community, the 17 Dutch Haven Community in Southern California.

Custom styled fireplaces, forced air heating, colored built-in range and oven, marble pullmans, custom cabinets and paneling, are a few of the many extras found here. Complete front yard landscaping is furnished to immediately enhance the properties.

IDEALLY LOCATED in the heart of the Orange County beach resort area, Huntington Beach, where popular beaches and bays beckon a host of outdoor family activities. World famous tourist attractions and shopping districts are in the area nearby.

Proposed Improvement Loans on Old Homes Awaits Action

By EDWARD COWAN
WASHINGTON (UPI)—Of most interest to home owners in President Kennedy's housing program is a proposal for 25-year home improvement loans up to $10,000, to be insured by the government.

If approved by Congress, they would be available to the individual home owner as well as to the professional developer renovating a group of houses.

As proposed, interest on the loans would run no higher than 6 per cent—it could be less—and they would be insured by the Federal Housing Administration.

FHA CHIEF Neal J. Hardy sees the loans as a new, potentially powerful way to improve run-down neighborhoods and prevent new blight.

The idea is to restore to excellent condition, comfortable and appearance houses which are basically sound but deteriorating because of age and inattention.

Officials, dissatisfied with the slow pace, expense and other problems of slum-razing and rebuilding, are looking more and more to refurbishing of existing dwellings.

Hardy and Housing Administrator Robert C. Weaver call the 25-year loan idea an experiment—but one they think will prove its merits quickly. They feel that more experimentation with new ideas in urban renewal is necessary if decay in the older, central cities is to be arrested and they are to become again attractive places to live.

THE PROPOSAL for up to $10,000 in FHA-insured home improvement borrowing is a radical departure from the present FHA home improvement loan program. Under the latter, loans are limited to $3500, repayment to five years and the borrowing cost is about 9½ per cent. These loans are not secured by property.

The new loans, backed by mortgages, would be administered separately. The present program finances such things as storm windows, a patio or finishing of a basement. The new program would be for such major overhauls as a new roof, new plumbing, shoring up of walls or other things which add to the life of the building.

Such major improvements could be financed through a separate mortgage—a second mortgage. Second mortgages were taboo under the Eisenhower administration. Former FHA boss Norman P. Mason felt they tended to draw people into financial obligations they could not afford.

HARDY INSISTS his agency will be vigilant in approving only loans which the borrowers can afford to repay. In fact, one of his problems may be overcaution by FHA field offices which tend to be conservative in valuing property and calculating how much a family can safely borrow.

Officials also are talking about the possibility of open-end FHA mortgages—loans which could be expanded from time to time as the home owner borrowed to improve his property.

As in the past, FHA itself will lend no money. It will insure private loans. Will they be forthcoming for the new program?

Only slowly at first, in all probability. Lenders, a conservative breed, are not likely to jump into the new kind of financing—especially because it will be on older properties.

ONE REASON is the difficulty of assessing how much will be added to the value of the house by the renovations. Hardy has said that FHA would not insure a loan not justified by the potential value of the property. But figuring potential value is tricky—one which has caused FHA much head-scratching in urban renewal areas.

Even if leaders warm up only slowly to the new improvement loans, it is safe to say that home owners will find it easier to get such loans with FHA in than they would without government backing.

Fine Valley Ranch Land Is on Sale

Beautiful ranch land, dotted with trees, is now being sold in acreage just north of Tehachapi.

Known as Walker Basin Ranches, the price starts at $395 per acre and they are available in 2½, 5, 10 and 20 acre ranches. The valley land is between the Breckenridge and Piute Mountains in Kern County.

The developers are maintaining as much of the Old West atmosphere as possible, such as ranch country roads, quiet seclusion and only a small area will be used for development of a shopping area.

Wild life is abundant in the area and good fishing grounds are close. Just three hours from metropolitan areas, many of the acreages already sold will provide week end homes for business executives.

To reach the W-B Ranches drive U. S. 466 from Los Angeles to Caliente, midway between Bakersfield and Tehachapi and turn north. Signs will direct to the area.

Additional information may be received from Walker Basin Land & Water Co., 4421 Riverside Drive, Burbank, Calif.

No Political Plums Involved in Kennedy's Housing Choices

By EDWARD COWAN

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Kennedy has filled the government's top housing posts with four professionals who had no political claims on federal office.

They were brought into the new administration because of their wide experience and expert knowledge in the housing field—not because they held political "IOU's."

While the merits of having agency chiefs with a wealth of expert knowledge are obvious, it is sometimes said that a successful agency boss needs a solid political base. He has to deal with Congress and with other members of the administration—and sometimes finds hostility to his programs in both places. In such situations it helps to have close political ties with the White House.

RUNNING THE HOUSING show for Kennedy is Robert C. Weaver, 53, administrator of the housing and home finance agency. A Harvard Ph.D. in economics, Weaver came to Washington from New York City, where he was vice chairman of the housing and redevelopment board.

He played no role in the 1960 campaign. He did not seek his $21,000-a-year Washington post and in accepting it took a salary cut of $1,500.

If politics entered into Weaver's appointment, it was not his own doing. He is a Negro and it was important politically for Kennedy to give a Negro a high federal post. Weaver's job is the highest federal position ever held by a Negro. If he becomes secretary of the proposed department of housing and urban affairs he will be the first Negro cabinet member. But Kennedy is reported to have pulled away from this.

THE OTHER THREE housing professionals are two men and a woman heading or picked to lead the three most important arms of the housing agency, each at $20,000 a year.

At the helm of the Federal Housing Administration, the mortgage insuring agency, is Neal J. Hardy, 46, who describes himself as "a careerist in housing since graduation" from the University of Kansas in 1936, where he made Phi Beta Kappa.

To New Post

Jack Parker, branch manager for the Rex L. Hodges Realty Co. has been promoted to director of real estate sales training, according to President Robert Westmyer. Parker's new duties will consist of full time class room and field on-the-job training of new sales associates joining the Hodges Co.

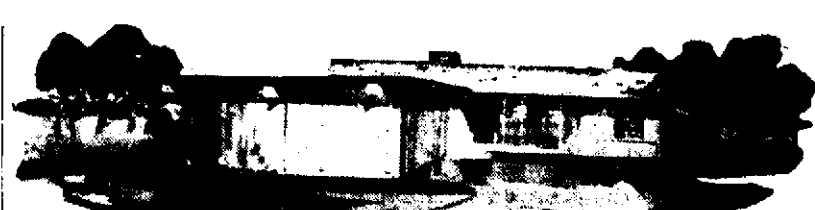

A Democrat who has not mixed in politics, Hardy has been assistant housing administrator, staff assistant to former President Dwight D. Eisenhower's committee on government housing policies.

RUNNING THE Urban Re-newal Administration, in charge of the federal slum clearance program, is William L. Slayton, 44, holder of a master's degree in public administration from the University of Chicago. A registered Democrat, Slayton ran for county councilman in a Maryland primary in 1954 and lost.

Slayton has drawn up urban renewal plans for Milwaukee, Washington, Philadelphia, Chicago, Pittsburgh, St. Louis, Cincinnati and San Francisco.

To take charge of the low-rent public housing program, Weaver has selected Marie C. McGuire, attractive, personable executive director of the San Antonio Housing Authority since 1949.

One reason Weaver picked Mrs. McGuire is that she has unique experience in low-rent housing of elderly persons.

LOS ALAMITOS HOME

Pictured is one of the exterior models being featured today at the grand opening of Rossmoor Highlands. Located in nearby Los Alamitos, these homes are priced from $19,200 and veterans may move in with no down payment.

'Ric' Owen Wins Contest

Winner in the monthly contest of sales of multiple listings was "Ric" Owen, it was announced by Isabel Patterson, chairman of the multiple listing committee of the Long Beach Board of Realtors. Owen also tied in the number of listings provided.

Owen has been with the "Ric" Owen Real Estate Co., 408 East First St., over 10 years. He has a record of over $10 million in sales.

Mildred Stanley and Jim Lesh tied with Owen in the number of listings.

Rossmoor Highlands Has Grand Opening

Today marks the formal grand opening of Rossmoor Highlands in nearby Los Alamitos.

According to Stan Bell, sales agent, the preview showing acceptance of these homes has far exceeded expectation as evidenced by the tremendous pre-sale volume.

Only five minutes from Long Beach State College, these homes offer 12 exteriors.

AN OUTSTANDING feature of Rossmoor Highlands is the attractive financing program available to veterans. To the builder's knowledge, Rossmoor Highlands is one of the few developments where veterans may move into a $20,000 home for nothing down. Also available are very attractive conventional terms.

MODERATELY priced from $19,200 to $20,700, Rossmoor Highlands features lasting construction and includes many features such as: Heavy shake or rock roofs, natural finish cabinets, Formica kitchen sink tops, custom designed fireplace and Tappan built-in range and oven.

The location is proving very popular to buyers. These

Lakewood Sunshine Homes Selling Fast

Sales continue at high volume at Lakewood East Sunshine Homes according to Stan Rossi, sales manager for S. V. Hunsaker and Sons, builders. Rossi stated that 73 sales had been made in the first four weeks. He further stated that they are anticipating a continuation of sales activity at this development.

Quality features not usually found in homes of this price range are wall-to-wall carpet, forced air heat, disposal, vinyl tile, Formica counter tops, hood and exhaust fan over built-in oven and range, and ample closet space.

LAKEWOOD EAST Sunshine homes have three bedrooms, two full baths, and two-car garage. They are priced at $16,595 and the home owner may move in immediately with a low down payment of only $195.

They are ideally located close to the prime metropolitan industrial area and within easy driving distance to all of the Southlands major resort and recreational spots, which has been a prime factor in the sales activity, according to Rossi.

"REAL ESTATE IS THE REASON I'LL BE ABLE TO RETIRE EARLY," Says MR. BENNETT

"A number of years ago," recalls Mr. Bennett, "I decided to place my future in California real estate. Friends had told me about increasing property values throughout the state. They said that purchasing unimproved land for development was a good sound investment—one that can earn early retirement and financial security."

"An investment in real estate was something I certainly didn't want to jump into. So I spent a lot of time reading and studying about property. After deciding on an area, I went to a realtor. I explained what type of property I wanted, told him of my financial requirements."

"A few days later, the seller and I 'opened an escrow.' The escrow officer, too, was very helpful, and made every effort to get the sale through escrow as easily and quickly as possible. And she liked my choice of T.I.—said that she recommended a T.I. policy to all her clients."

If you're going to invest—look into California property. You'll naturally want to deal only with reliable real estate and escrow services. And the same care should be taken in the selection of a title insurance company

That's why, for 67 years, millions of Californians have turned to Title Insurance and Trust Company for fast, dependable, low-cost title protection. A T.I. policy is backed by the company with complete land records of every county it serves and America's largest staff of title experts.

Ask your escrow officer to have your title searched and insured by Title Insurance and Trust Company—the best protection of your ownership rights to your property.

"The realtor had several listings that fitted my needs. We started looking. He didn't waste my time—showed me only what would really interest me. He was very helpful—explained all the advantages and disadvantages of every piece of property. He wanted me to be completely satisfied."

"That was my first investment in real estate for development. Since then, I've purchased more. Now, I can retire much earlier than I planned. And my investment is protected forever through a T.I. policy—my best safeguard and assurance that the property is really mine."

Quality Features Appealing to Buyers

BUILT BY HUNSAKER

Santa Ana Sunshine Homes, one of which is shown here, have many outstanding features, including an ultra-modern kitchen and wall-to-wall carpeting.

Santa Ana Sunshine Homes of S. V. Hunsaker & Sons, finish cabinets. Specifications are currently attracting home buyers because of an unusual array of quality features offered at this Sunshine Home development, according to Richard Hunsaker, executive vice president.

Ultra-modern kitchens are equipped with built-in range and oven with hood and exhaust fan over range, disposal unit, Formica counter tops, and plenty of natural light. Also include wall-to-wall carpeting. Santa Ana Sunshine Homes offer three bedrooms, two full baths and large two-car garage and may be purchased for as low as $195,000, with monthly payments like rent. Full price is $15,995.

IN WEST ANAHEIM

Various exterior styling will be available when the new section of Anawood Homes unveils in a preview today. The homes, such as the one shown, are in West Anaheim.

New Anawood Unit Is Opening Today

With delivery set for early summer, the first showing of the new unit of West Anaheim's Anawood Homes will be held today with a furnished model home on display.

Priced from $21,650, the new Anawood Homes offer both three and four-bedroom plans with family rooms as well as a three-bedroom home with formal dining room or convertible den.

The new Anawood community will feature traditional designs, colonial, contemporary and Far West. The individualized designs blend with the curved streets and oversized lots.

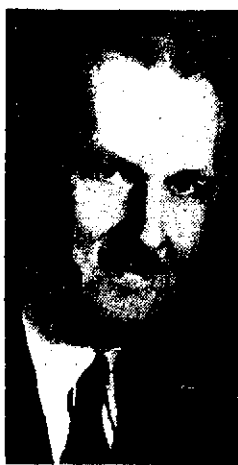

AS IN THE INITIAL Anawood homes, the interior details of the new plans are carefully executed and include a score of built-ins. The all-gas kitchens stress the latest O'Keefe and Merritt oven with rotisserie, dishwasher, in mosaic eating bars and rich Double entry ways, stone fireplaces, custom wallpapers, built-in bath scales, sliding doors from living area and master bedroom are also Anawood features.

Built by George M. Hollinsworth & Sons, the new unit of Anawood is located on Euclid Ave. in West Anaheim just south of Ball Road and north of Katella. Long Beach visitors may go out Seventh Street to Euclid and turn left or go out Lincoln (Carson) to Euclid and turn right. The homes are one of the final to be built in the almost "built-up" residential West Anaheim location.

They Talk About Cheap Home Loan Money but Where Is It?

By EDWARD COWAN
WASHINGTON (UPI) — A reader has taken us to task for reporting that home loan money is loosening up.

He says maybe it's loosening up in theory but you find a different story when you go out to see about a loan for a house you want to buy. Our critic, a young executive with a growing family, made the rounds of the lenders in Washington.

"You still get the frosty-faced, indifferent attitude," he lamented in a complaint which probably draws "amens" from millions of other breadwinners who would like to borrow to buy a house.

"They want new property, a high downpayment and 6 per cent," the young executive reported.

Small Mart Makes Good Over State

Seemingly doomed a few years ago, the family-operated grocery store is making a good comeback in California.

Of course, it has under gone a change and resembles a miniature supermarket but its operation under the name of Speedee Mart has shown that "Ma and Pa" markets have a place in today's economy.

Speedee Mart Inc., has no stores in operation itself, but it does the business management for each of the individual owner-operated stores. It does the buying, supplies a suggested price book and weekly changes, does the accounting, banking and advertising, supervision and other management duties.

EACH STORE is operated independently and is owned by a man and wife team. The company derives its income through a franchise charge, real estate development and fixture rental.

Organized in 1956 by Henry A. Boney and Theodore E. Glover the first store was opened Sept. 15, 1956. Year by year they have grown until today there are 75 in California, including two in Long Beach. Others are being constructed.

Speedee Mart, Inc., completed its first public stock issue Feb. 1 of this year with issue of 90,000 shares of common stock at $6 per share. The stock has been climbing rapidly and the past week saw it advance over 3 points.

CONVENIENCE of location and being open from 7 a.m. to 11 p.m. are two popular points for the markets which carry about 3,000 items.

"We expect our customers to be customers of supermarkets, too," says Boney, the president. He added that the average customer spends $1.40 a week in Speedee Marts and about $20 in supermarkets. The average Speedee sale is 92 cents.

Dairy products and bakery goods make up a big percentage of the sales.

The company leases the land and building, equips the store with fixtures and sub-leases to a franchise, whose initial investment runs about $12,500. Most of the franchises go to a husband and wife team.

Tobacco Industry Will Celebrate
JAMESTOWN, Va. (AP) — Pocahontas may have saved the life of Captain John Smith, but she married an Englishman named John Rolfe.

The romance of Rolfe and the Indian princess will play an important part in next year's commemoration here of the 350th anniversary of the American tobacco industry.

Rolfe planted and sold the first successful crop of tobacco at Jamestown in 1612, saving the colony from economic collapse. From the beginning, tobacco has grown into a $7 billion industry.

The anniversary will be staged by the Jamestown Foundation.

Another complaint often obstacle to a large expansion of home building. Consequently, it has launched a campaign to beat down mortgage interest rates.

What all of this seems to suggest is that while mortgage money may be easier to get and cheaper than it was last year, prospective home buyers still don't think it is success. Following a visit to California, where interest rates are higher than elsewhere for two reasons: where, McMurray told a Washington audience that the savings and loan industry is well aware of this and believes it is one major reason why rates are going to stay down, if in the next two or three months they go down. They would rather lend later at a higher rate than now at a lower bottom; that the slide is over.

McMurray, new chairman of the Federal Home Loan Bank, cited rate reductions in Miami, Washington, San Diego and elsewhere as proof that the administration drive is producing results.

BUT MANY LENDERS are nationally-known lender companies. They doubt interest rates what happens to the economy "dragging along the bottom" The company and its subsidiary are engaged in the growing of cotton, barley and other crops, and cattle and April 18.

A Day at the Races !

"YOUR SUPPORT makes everyone a winner"—so say members of St. Mary's Hospital Guild, who invite you to scintillating annual "Day at the Races" benefit at Los Alamitos Race Track Wednesday. Post time is 1:30 p. m. Guild ticket holders will enjoy watching races from vantage point of elaborate new clubhouse . . . later will join in a cocktail and dancing party with music by Roger Bacon. Tickets now available at St. Mary's Hospital office. Wednesday they may be purchased from guild members at track gate.

MRS. RUSSELL JOHNSON, guild member, and John Beekman, public relations man for Los Alamitos track, give preview showing of annual trophy to be awarded winner of St. Mary's Handicap.

LONG BEACH 12, CALIF., SUNDAY, APRIL 16, 1961 SECTION W

STARTING GATE, from which swift quarter horses at Los Alamitos begin their "fastest races in the world," is used by (from left) Mmes. Fred Crow, Richard H. Schug and Frank Vessels Jr., as a photographic suggestion that you start week right; plan to attend gala event with them. Delicious refreshments will be served from rolling carts during cocktail party following the races.

MRS. LOGAN JACKSON, general chairman, poses for "photo finish" with jockey Curtis Perner and horse, Rebel Cause. Assisting Mrs. Jackson will be Mmes. Bobbie Carlson, Fred Lowry, John Arkush, S. H. Statman, Fred Looney, Charles K. Jones, Herman Weissker, Fred Crow. All guild members will act as hostesses at clubhouse.

AFTER A FASHION

From Sacks to Pants...

Today, as if women didn't have enough to ponder over with divided skirts, the Jackie Kennedy look and liquid diets, along comes Paris haute couture with a flap over the flapper.

Many fashion conscious femmes on the local scene are asking: Is the sack making a comeback?

Our guess is that American designers wouldn't dare. You can bet your tizzy they won't soon forget the wolf calls from the grass roots—OR the thousands upon thousands of dollars they lost on the sudden demise of the chemise.

Here's what New York designer Anne Fogarty has to say about the American relaxed look of '61:

"The sack definitely is not coming back. What you're seeing is a more relaxed line which still conforms to the curves of the body."

"The sack simply ignored body contours. In other words, the new clothes (including my own designs) do fit. But they fit along gentle lines. The new clothes do not look as if you'd been poured into them."

NORMAN NORELL, who created excitement last year with women's high fashion suits featuring knee-length pants, has a couple of new shockeroos in store for milady's wardrobe.

At a swank fashion show sponsored by the Los Angeles Fashion Group, Norell (appearing in person) presented a sheath dress, armored in bugle beads and "pantsed" at the skirt.

And we don't mean harem pants. Not a concealed pants look, either. Instead, a straight-lined, two-legged skirt that in no way conceals its pants identity!

In fact he has all manner of "fancy pants," designed to take milady to dinner parties and out dancing. And he has two-legged dresses and suits for shoppers and globe-trotters.

Says he: "If women are going to wear the pants, they should do it like ladies." He's definitely out to give pants the feminine touch.

His biggest shockeroo: A full-length coat that's featherweight—literally. It's made of rows and rows of ostrich feathers!

The price? "I'm not sure," said Norell. "I think it retails for around a thousand dollars."

MALE TALK from Tailor & Cutter, Britain's arbiter of he-man fashions, is that Englishmen are taking up the custom of wearing false beards!

In a recent editorial, T & C stated: "An outward sexual show in masculine fashion has increased enormously since the end of the war."

"It may be that, along with bright colors and exaggerated shapes—to which we are returning—that we may find a parallel virility symbol in a wardrobe full of false beards."

Of course, it can also disguise the fact that a man needs a shave!

DEAR ABBY

Books Are Out of Balance

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: My husband had not been acting like himself for about six months. I finally got it out of him. He said it all started when he gave his bookkeeper a few kisses occasionally because he couldn't afford to give her a raise. He says now she isn't satisfied with kisses, and keeps pestering him to meet her somewhere after work. He swears he doesn't want to get involved with her, but he can't let her go because she is the best bookkeeper he has ever had, and he couldn't run the business without her.

I told my husband I would forgive him for the past, but I wouldn't tolerate anything he does in the future. He promised to give her the cold shoulder. Do you think I should insist he fire her? —MOTHER OF THREE.

DEAR MOTHER: It is pretty hard to give a girl the "cold shoulder" after she's been given the hot lips. Your husband should get another bookkeeper. What does it profit a man to keep his business in the black when his marriage is in the red?

DEAR ABBY: I read with interest your advice that men who work around machinery should not wear a

By MARY NETH

The wise owl probably is not much wiser than his other feathered friends—he just looks it.

For down-to-earth, two-legged homeowners looking wise isn't enough. It takes more than that to win the reputation.

Patio owners can earn the term by looking ahead to summer and furnishing their patios now.

What could be wiser? When hot weather strikes they can relax while the less prepared spend their time shopping.

The following items all might find their place in outdoor decorating and entertaining.

Under $1

For luau or just plain barbecue fare, new roomy individual serving trays are delight. Of unbreakable plastic, green trays are patterned after bird of paradise leaf.

Men can add to mood of outdoor summer fun by decorating their straw hats with tapa hands from Hawaiian Islands.

Fluttering, colorful Japanese paper kites make attractive patio decorations. Designed to resemble fish, they are available in two sizes.

Under $2

Beach bags should be bright and gay. This one is just that. Polynesian imports bags are woven in gayest color combinations, are sturdy and roomy.

A patio set of 10-ounce tumblers and a shatterproof pitcher is must, especially for those with a young, lively crew inclined rough-house. No danger here. The drink may spill but no glass will break.

All-in-one decoration kit for poolside, den or patio use features attractive large fisherman's net, star fish, abalone shell and two leis.

ring because it could catch in the machinery and they could lose a finger. How about a ring that is so tight I can't get it off?—WORKS AROUND MACHINERY.

DEAR WORKS: Better to have the ring cut off now than after you lose your finger.

DEAR ABBY: I would like to have your help, or the help of someone who has had to face this problem, because I don't know what to do. My children are 14, 13 and 11. Their father has been in prison for nine years. He was sentenced to serve for a life term, so I don't think he will ever be a free man.

We are now living in a different state, but there is always a chance of someone telling the children about their father. Of course I would rather they never be told. (They think he is sick in a hospital far away.) Do you think they are old enough to know? Or should I keep silent?—NEEDS ADVICE.

DEAR NEEDS: Your chances of keeping the whereabouts of their father a secret for long are very small. Tell them. The news, coming from you, will be less of a blow.

Yes, Abby will answer your letter personally if you write to ABBY, Box 3365, Beverly Hills, Calif., and enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

COUNTER ACTION

For Sun: Be Wise, Accessorize

Straw serving trays in several sizes nest together for easy storage. Can be used in number of ways—from serving canapes to displaying fruit.

Dad will like this. Gay hammock for one, can be placed out of the sun to sway in the breeze. Nothing like it for lazy summer comfort.

Getas, Japanese wooden soled shoes, make fun patio wear. Pool splash won't bother them and they are handsome as well as quite comfortable and cool.

Under $5

There are a number of little and big outdoor clean-up jobs that call for water and brush. Revolving, washing brush fills the bill. Brush fits on hose, has telescopic handle that extends, and locks, up to four feet. Its jet action includes hydraulic sudser, too. Tops for washing windows, cars or boats.

Tiki items are in style. Smart, carved tiki masks dress up patio wall. Tiki fire fish light pool. Fish floats on water, won't rust, cast romantic light and repels insects, too.

Under $6

Another decorative item

keyed from sea is handsome net, cork and ball ensemble for walls. Looks tops when combined with islander and fisherman decorations.

Dressing up to entertain outside is inner delight when outfit is smart little summer rice boy set. Tailored, trim capri pants in black are topped by sleeveless Chinese overblouse in black and white figures.

IT'LL BE TEA TIME Tuesday afternoon for these six women who have accepted invitation of Assistance League of Long Beach for traditional year of provisional training and membership. They

Parties Fete Miss Fisher

Prior to her wedding on April 21 to Keith V. Gahan at Wayfarer's Chapel, Miss Kathleen M. Fisher has been the recipient of numerous courtesies. An Oriental theme was employed in decor and refreshments when Mrs. Bob Gibson feted Kathleen at a shower in her home, 2918 Pacific Ave.

LBSC classmates were guests at a party for the bride-elect given by Miss Sandra Turner, 341 Ximeno Ave. Since most are home economic majors, clever "household" games were played. A neighborhood surprise party was given by Mrs. Frank Hollister, 803 Lees Ave., and a shower for 30 relatives and friends was hosted by Mrs. Frank Fisher, aunt of the honoree, and Miss Joanne Fisher at 1329 E. 57th St.

Assistance League Fetes Provisionals, Rick Rackers

New provisionals of Assistance League of Long Beach will be formally introduced at a delightfully appointed tea Tuesday, 2 to 4 p.m., in the home of Mrs. W. Ward Johnson, 4225 Country Club Drive.

Given by life members of the League, the tea also will honor Rick Rackers graduating into the league from membership in the junior auxiliary.

Incoming Rick Rackers are Mmes. Decatur Mitchell,

Sam E. Peck, Gerard Rastello, Richard Walker, George Green Jr. and Julius Moline.

MRS. WARD G. DE WITT, chairman of life members, has appointed Mrs. Lavern Brinkman chairman of arrangements. Her committee includes Mmes. William H. Cree, Dwight McFadyen, Freeland C. Putnam, Lynn Hosson, Edwin Quinn, Harold Beckley, John Davis and Don C. Wallace.

Comprising the receiving line will be Mmes. Copeland Green, president of Assistance League; Melvin Campbell, founder; James Baker, chairman of Las Hermanas; Signey Exley, president-elect; John Brennan, president of Rick Rackers; and Don Murphy, first vice president in charge of provisionals.

FOLLOWING their formal introduction, provisionals will begin a year of training to qualify for full membership in the league.

During the year they will become acquainted with league aims and work. Training will start in May with the Community Volunteer Office's training program.

Honor Scout Leader

Long Beach Girl Scout Council this week announced selection of Mrs. Tex L. Western, Lakewood, as one of 12 leaders from throughout the United States to take part in an international workshop.

The workshop, to be attended by the 12 United States representatives and 12 foreign Girl Scout leaders, will take place from Aug. 1 to 10 at the Edith Macy Training School, National Adult Girl Scout Training Center, Pleasantville, N. Y.

MRS. WESTERN qualified for the honor by virtue of an outstanding background in Girl Scouting. She is credited with organizing the first Girl Scout troop on Guam, and also served scouting in Japan. Active in many councils throughout the United States, she currently is leader of a seventh grade troop locally, and is chairman of the Mariner Gam roundup committee this year.

wedding vows with Charles L. McClain Jr. The bride is a teacher at Charles A. Bufum School, and is the daughter of Karl L. Fowler of Eunice, N. M., and the late Mrs. Fowler. For her nuptials, the bride chose a white silk linen sheath with portrait neckline and a small white straw hat with short veil. She carried white roses on a white Bible. Maggie Jean Cleg-horn, her only attendant, was in blue linen.

BRIDEGROOM, son of Dr. and Mrs. Charles L. McClain Sr., 2230 San Anselme Ave., chose his brother-in-law, as best man. Dr. McClain officiated at the double ring ceremony.

The new Mrs. McClain attended North Texas State College in Denton and was affiliated with Alpha Phi sorority. She formerly taught in Odessa, Tex. Her husband was graduated from Baylor U., Waco, Tex.

PCH CAMPUS SLATES OPEN HOUSE APRIL 24

Business, Technology

The Business and Technology Division of Long Beach City College will welcome thousands of visitors to its annual Public Schools Week open house on Monday evening, April 24, when all classrooms, laboratories and shops will be open for inspection.

In addition to many demonstrations and displays scheduled for that evening, the special 16-page, 10,000-copy issue of the Explorer, student newspaper, will be distributed to all comers.

CHARLES Faulkner won first place in the annual campus talent show last week with an inspired piano rendition of "Blue Moon." Second place went to the medical office assistants, who sang an original song by Pam Hartely. Debbie Hamilton took third with her Grecian free ballet.

Fourth place went to the Order of Kibab for its hilarious "beauty contest." Participants in this act, which won the biggest laugh of the show, were Chuck Laraway, Larry Denning, Bill Freed, Tom Brown, Jim Hall, Ron Sheehy and Dave Mettier. There will be an 8 p.m. assembly at BTD this Wednesday featuring the Colombian dance group and orchestra.—PAT BALL

Liberal Arts

Busiest group on the LBCC Liberal Arts Division campus the next few weeks will be the Viking Band, under the baton of faculty director Richard L. Jones and student assistant Gary Francisco.

Today at noon the Viking Band will take part in Lakewood's festive Pan American Festival parade. Next Sunday the members compete at the Orange Show parade in San Bernardino, and April 29-30 they will be the featured band for the "Buccaneer Days" weekend on Catalina Island.

CURRENT officers of the 130-voice Schola Cantorum, which presents its annual "Choral Pops" concert this Saturday evening, are Paul Plattenberger, president; Betty Wylder, secretary; Kathryn Young, publicity; Wayne Meisker, equipment and Mildred Leaman, Evening Liberal Arts Division student body representative.

Officers of the ELAD student body this semester are Bob Hanson, president; Ignacio Torre, vice president; Dick Brinkshaw, treasurer; Alice Johnson, recording secretary; and Dorothy Cohen, corresponding secretary.

Beethoven Sonatas on Concert Bill

Three Beethoven sonatas will be performed in an evening of chamber music by pianist Julien Musafia and violinist Israel Baker at Long Beach State College Friday.

The concert at 8:30 p.m. in the LBSC theater is free of charge.

Musafia, assistant professor of music at LBSC, is well known for his solo recitals and concerts. Last year he appeared with the Roth Quartet in a three-concert Beethoven Festival at LBSC.

Baker has recently completed recordings for SPA, Music Library and Contemporary Records. He was in the All-American Youth Orchestra under Leopold Stokowski, then became one of the youngest members of the NBC Symphony under Toscanini. He has appeared as soloist with such orchestras as Chicago Grant Park, Dayton, Phoenix, Indianapolis La Jolla and Hollywood Bowl.

NATIONAL ROLE

Pat Brown, former managing director of Magnolia Theatre, has never-ending duties as new field director of Ford Foundation's Theater Communications Group. Her headquarters are in New York.

Pat Brown 'Big Sister' to U.S. Little Theaters

"Big sister" to community theaters of the nation.

That's the unofficial title of Pat Brown, for 7½ years managing director of the Magnolia Theatre in Long Beach, who March 20 was named field director of the new Theater Communications Group established by the Ford Foundation.

Interviewed by telephone in her busy New York office Saturday, Pat told the Independent, Press-Telegram: "I'm deluged with calls, with telegrams, with letters. I've been interviewed by reporters from prominent newspapers, magazines and theatrical journals."

"My first task will be a survey trip of several weeks visiting and gathering information from university, community, professional and non-professional theaters from coast to coast. They must be non-profit, charitable or educational theaters, Magnolia Theatre and others in the Long Beach area fall into this category."

THE THEATER Communications Group, with a $244,000 cash grant to finance a four-year project to aid 24 theaters, including Magnolia, is designed to improve co-operation among professional, community and university theaters in the United States. Others will be added to the original 24 as plans expand and money is made available.

Specifically, the plan is to help regional theaters so that actors, directors and technical personnel may have a place to work other than New York which cannot handle the abundance of talent that already exists and that pours from schools and colleges year after year.

W. McNEIL LOWRY, director of the arts and humanities division of the Ford Foundation in New York, announced Pat's appointment to the position. The story was carried by major news services to newspapers over the nation, focussing a theatrical spotlight on Long Beach.

Two years ago Pat was nominated by the Ford Foundation for a director's grant. Then she was appointed to search for new authors. A few months ago she was appointed to the Theater Advisory Board of the arts and humanities division.

Pat's husband, Gerald L. Brown, business manager of Magnolia Theatre, last week unanimously was named managing director of Magnolia Theatre. He has been co-producer of the 55 shows produced by Magnolia.

Auxiliary Board Approves Action on Solti Resignation

At the final meeting of the 1960-61 board of Long Beach Auxiliary of the Southern California Symphony Association Wednesday, members endorsed acceptance of Georg Solti's resignation as conductor of Los Angeles Philharmonic Orchestra.

Although some dissenting opinion was voiced, the motion was passed by a considerable majority and outgoing president Mrs. Leroy Carlisle was instructed to send a letter of approval to Mrs. Norman Chandler, president of Southern California Symphony Association.

MRS. CHANDLER has been charged with dictatorial methods in insisting on the hiring of Zubin Mehta to conduct the Los Angeles Philharmonic for eight weeks next season. Solti, considering this a violation of his contract, resigned in protest. Announcement was made

Film Society Speeds Tempo in New Season

First footnote to the brief history of Long Beach Film Society is a hopeful comment on community cooperation.

For its spring season, which opens April 23, the society moves to Long Beach State College's Little Theatre and offers an updated series of art films.

The fall—and first—season attracted nearly 300 subscribers and total attendance of 500 to six feature length films at Hill Junior High School. The new series has been integrated with LBSC's "Evenings on Campus" and, in return, the Film Society is buying and installing 35 mm. motion picture projection equipment for the privilege of meeting in the campus theater.

BECAUSE of the increased demand for membership, two showings, at 7 and 9 p.m., will be programmed for each of the five bills; all are on Sunday nights.

First film will be "A Man Escaped," directed by Robert Bresson. Made in France, it won Best Director Prize at the 1957 Cannes Film Festival.

Others scheduled are: May 14, "A Lesson in Love," directed by Ingmar Bergman, Sweden, 1953.

May 28, "A Girl in Black," directed by Michael Cacoyannis, Greece, 1956.

June 11, "Nights of Cabiria," directed by Federico Fellini, Italy, 1957.

June 25, "Mexican Bus Ride," directed by Luis Bunuel, Mexico, 1952.

PRICE for the series is $5; ticket orders may be mailed to Long Beach Film Society, P.O. Box 8091, Long Beach 8.

The organization, which originated with a small group of school teachers and now is endorsed by the Teachers Association of Long Beach, has ambitious plans for the future.

In keeping with the city's International theme, it hopes to blaze the way for an International Film Festival. With further community co-operation the dream could come true.

Thursday that he has joined the Dallas Symphony Orchestra as conductor.

"At no time was any decision reached in regard to Solti's contract by one person alone," said Mrs. Carlisle.

"After consultation with legal counsel by George A. Kuyper, general director of the Symphony Association, Mrs. Chandler, and Henry Duque, chairman of the board, the matter was presented to the executive board and then to the general board which ratified acceptance of the resignation April 3."

THE 70 MEMBERS of the general board represent 14 affiliated auxiliaries in the Southern California area from Santa Barbara to San Diego. Each auxiliary conducts a fund-raising drive for support of the orchestra, which in turn plays a series of concerts in local communities.

The Long Beach Auxiliary currently is conducting its Continuance Fund campaign with a goal of $9,000. The City of Long Beach also traditionally contributes $1,500 to the annual drive.

"The controversy has had no effect on our campaign so far," Mrs. Carlisle said. "People still feel confidence in the organization. We expect an announcement regarding a new conductor in the very near future."

Art Rental Gallery Expands

By ELISE EMERY
Art Page Editor

Art Rental Gallery at Long Beach Museum of Art—which has yet to celebrate its first birthday—has moved out of its "nursery" and into larger quarters.

When Friends of the Museum were planning their rental project last spring, only space the museum could offer for storing paintings was an unused bathroom. "All right," said the 20 Friends cheerfully, "we'll make it do."

The program burgeoned as members of the community became aware that they could rent original art for fees of from $5 to $12 for three months and could apply this on the purchase price if they decided to buy. So far, an estimated 200 patrons have rented paintings and sculpture. Artists are delighted that a number of their works have sold.

"Many doctors, dentists, lawyers, all sorts of professional and business men are running in during their lunch hour on Fridays choosing something for the office or place of business," reports Mrs. Garland S. Snow, Art Rental Gallery chairman. "They range from one doctor who rents six pictures each three months for his office to a bar owner who selects three paintings for his cocktail lounge."

THE ORIGINAL rental collection numbered 65; it has grown to 150 and membership in the Friends has increased to 50.

When the museum library recently became available, the volunteers joyfully set about preparing it as a place where visitors can browse through pictures as well as art literature. Tiered stacks were built along one entire wall, making it easy to slip paintings in and out.

The rental gallery initially was open only on Fridays from noon to 3 p.m. In response to demand, it is now open also on Saturdays from 1 to 3 p.m. and on Sunday afternoons if receptions are scheduled.

A LIVELY afternoon for all-comers next Sunday is promised by Boutique Club.

Members will stage their annual Spring Fiesta at the corner of Appleton St. and Gaviota Ave., from 11:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. There will be a clothesline sale—without the clothesline—, gifts for the first 50 women attending, a grab basket and refreshments.

Demonstrations by local artists will include pastel portraits by Betty Garner, watercolors by Edith Hopkins Ellis, collages by Fauntella McKelvy and oils by Virginia Garner. On display will be works by such artists as Paul Connor, Carl Rubin Walline and Russell Combs.

The public is invited; there is no charge.

THREE WELL-KNOWN artists, whose works frequently have been displayed in Long Beach, are represented in the exhibit at Pacific Coast Club which opens today with a public reception from 2 to 5 p.m. They are painters Ben Messick and Velma Hay, and sculptor Robert Ortleib. All have exhibited widely in leading galleries and museums.

LESTER D. LONGMAN, head of UCLA art department and considered an authority on contemporary art, will speak on "The Significance of Form in Painting" before Long Beach Art Association Tuesday at 8 p.m. in Museum of Art.

Officers will be elected during a business session conducted by Eugene Wallin.

Hitchcock Exhibition Guide to Collectors

By VIRGINIA LADDEY

Private collectors and would-be collectors will find the current showing at the Long Beach City College Art Gallery of great interest. With no great personal fortune, and a modest income derived from substitute teaching, Elwood and Ruth Hitchcock have assembled in the last 12 years a good representation of the important art trends of this century, and have taken a strong position on local artist Hans Burkhardt.

Among European artists represented by graphics are Picasso, Chagall, Roualt, and Toulouse-Lautrec from France; and Kandinsky, Feininger, Grosz, Klee, Schmidt-Rottluff, and Beckmann from Germany.

Prominent American painters include the seascapist watercolorist John Marin and Arthur B. Davies of the "ashcan" school.

CALIFORNIA painters are currently receiving more attention from the Hitchcocks with three classic abstractions by Jules Engel, creator of "Mr. Magoo" and others, a litho and two drawings of Rico LeBrun, and 10 works from Hans Burkhardt.

Possibly the Hitchcocks began their collecting with the "masters" and as they become, thus, surer of their taste and convictions, began selecting from local offerings. Hitchcock explains their strong position on Burkhardt: "We feel that he's so inventive, has such wide range, and is so substantial. He shows us something new every time we visit him." The couple feels Burkhardt will receive even wider recognition as time passes.

And, as a note of encouragement to the amateur collector, the Hitchcocks have found in insuring their collection that it has tripled in value.

16-Voice Ensemble to Debut

A new musical group, Camerata dei Musici, will bring its 16-voice solo ensemble to Lakewood First Presbyterian Church today at 7 p.m. for the church's third in a series of Sunday Evening Receptions.

The group is made up of expert soloists and choral directors in the Long Beach area; their purpose is to perform difficult, advanced and rarely-heard classics. For this evening they will use music of Bach, Hindemith, Brahms and selections from the opera "Acis and Galatea" by Handel. Robert L. Collins, director of choral music at Polytechnic High School is conductor.

The audience will be seated in chairs arranged in the Greek theater half-circle pattern. Overhead, paintings by Fran Soldini will be suspended from arches in the church ceiling.

String Quartet to Play Concert

A string quartet composed of Mrs. Edwina Smith and Robert Gibson, violinists; Gordon Groves, violist; and Robert MacKenzie, cellist, will be featured on Museum of Art's concert series Friday at 8 p.m. They will play compositions by Haydn, Beethoven and Turina.

The public is invited without charge.

Major & Minor Notes LONG BEACH SINGER ACCLAIMED IN OPERA

By RACHEL MORTON

A year ago almost to the day, I wrote in this column of a young singer with a gorgeous bass voice, whose home is in Long Beach. At that time he had just come back from eight years of study and performance in the east. After graduation from the Curtis School of Music in Philadelphia he had appeared with Eugene Ormandy and the Philadelphia Orchestra on several occasions and had sung leading roles in "La Boheme," "Gianni Schicchi," "The Magic Flute," "Rigoletto" and "Il Trovatore" with the Philadelphia Opera Company. An "arrived" artist, Francesco Sorianello was casting about for opportunities to be heard here on the West Coast.

I quoted him as saying, "I could have gone to Europe or stayed in New York, but California is my home and I love it. Also, I feel there is a great future for music in Southern California, what with the great plans for a music hall and an opera house. But what am I to do in the meantime?"

RECOGNIZING an exceptional talent I took it upon myself to introduce Francesco to the general director of the Los Angeles Opera Company, Francesco Pace. It was as I had thought—after an audition last spring Pace at once engaged Sorianello for two performances with his company. The first was as one of the Conspirators in Verdi's "Masked Ball," and the other as Don Alfonso in Mozart's "Così fan Tutte." The reviews from the metropolitan press were glowing: "Destined for the heights," "Covered himself with honor," "A polished acting technique."

Francesco came to see me the other day—a handsome, dark cavalier, 6 feet, 2 inches tall with the same sparkling personality he exudes on the stage.

"How has it been going with you, aside from your operatic triumphs?" I asked him.

"VERY WELL INDEED," he replied. "I have been entertaining in such night clubs as the Riviera in Las Vegas, the Moulin Rouge and Ciro's in Hollywood. I was the featured soloist with Gordon Jenkins and his orchestra, I sang 10 or 12 solo numbers an evening and narrated his 'Manhattan Towers' at the Riviera. We did four shows a night, the last one ending at 4:15 a.m. In Hollywood we did two shows a night."

Known in nightclubs as Frank Sorrell, he is now working up his own act for performances in Las Vegas and Hollywood. But, best of all, he has been re-engaged with the Los Angeles Opera Company for next year. The company is anticipating giving more operas in a longer season.

LBCC Schola Cantorum Sets 'Springtime Singsong'

"Springtime Singsong," fourth annual Choral Pops concert of Long Beach City College Schola Cantorum, will be presented at 8:15 p.m. Saturday in LBCC auditorium. Tickets will be available at the box office.

Under direction of Royal Stanton, the 130-voice choral group will open with Jean Berger's "Brazilian Psalm." Following will be groups of songs variously labeled "Sonorous, swinging, sentimental, sad, silly, soothing and spectacular."

Among soloists will be Paul Plattenberger, baritone; Jean Balfour, soprano; Iris

TWO SMALLER choral groups, made up of Schola members, also will take part in the concert. These are the Camerata Chorale, directed by Robert L. Collins, and the Improvisers.

The Schola Cantorum will next appear with the Long Beach Symphony Orchestra on May 21, opening night of the Long Beach Music Festival.

No Cause for Double

Today's crime is easy to spot. It was East's double of South's three no-trump contract. The punishment was severe indeed.

West opened the six of hearts. East's double had called for that lead and South had no trouble gathering in 10 tricks for a point score of 400 below the line and 250 above the line, instead of the mere 100 and 30 he would have made without the help of the double.

OF COURSE, East had a reason for his double. Most criminals do have a reason for their actions.

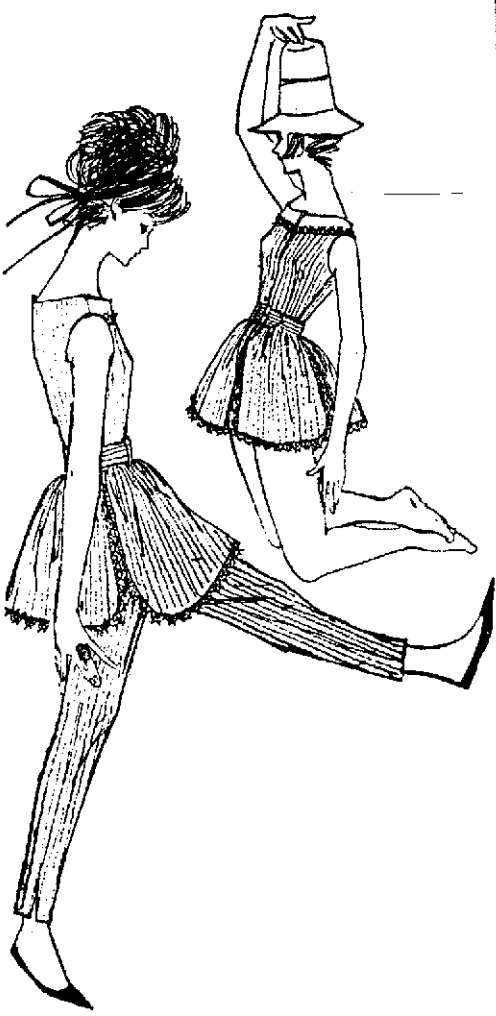

East wanted a heart lead and conceivably a heart lead might have upset South's apple cart.

I say conceivably because almost any result is possible in bridge, but East did not have the right holding to demand a heart lead.

Furthermore, East had one very bad card in his

MALE COUNTER ATTACK

Pop Brings Home the Bacon - - IF He Can!

By MARY FLUUS

For years we've been hearing about women's infiltration into male domains—but men are staging a counter attack. They're invading the supermarkets!

According to a recent survey, 42 per cent of today's husbands bring home the bacon—also the bread, the milk and the cucumbers.

But this growing army of male shoppers seems to have one complaint in common: women grocery shoppers.

A few Long Beach men have climbed up on their soapboxes to tell why!

ALTHOUGH admitting undying love for the fair sex (outside the grocery store, that is), they complain that a lady-turned-shopper is an aisle-blocker, a counter-monopolizer, a bottleneck at the checkstand.

According to one local male shopper: "If lanes at the supermarkets were freeways, we'd all be killed by women grocery cart drivers."

"Men would be impaled with wire (from baskets), crushed at the cracker counter—even mashed with the potatoes!"

Although in general they're not so vociferous in their female-directed complaints, most male marketers have a beef of one kind or another.

TAKE LES BARLOW, 3715 Ocala Ave., for instance. His beef has to do with lady bacon hunters.

"Why do they have to hog the bacon counter?" he queries. "They completely take it over, rummaging through every pound, completely wrecking the display."

"What in the world are they looking for?" "For the leanest pound, perhaps?" I ventured, remembering the times I'd carefully looked through every package of bacon.

"But that's not a good reason," he countered, with the authority of a pro. "Ask any butcher—the leanest bacon isn't necessarily the best."

"I ENJOY buying the groceries," says this usually amiable gent, father of two and salesman for Chicle chewing gum.

He makes a game of shopping (even when forging his way to the bacon counter), studies the ads and buys specials. He likes the highly organized precision of today's supermarkets, the air-conditioning, the piped-in music and—especially—the lady demonstrators who give away tasty tidbits.

Although he enjoys his role as self-appointed buyer of the family food supply, he calls it "a serious business" and systematically writes checks (before he gets to checkstand) to cover each bill.

"That way I can tell how much I put out for food," says he, summing up food expenditures for his four-member family at an average of $25 a week—perhaps $35 for weeks with holidays.

He does the grocery buying, he said, because his wife works (she's a stenographer at Douglas Aircraft) but, mostly, because he figures he does a better job.

BESIDES the bacon routine, Barlow's pet peeve is female shoppers who block the aisles.

"Women seem to be in a trance when browsing through groceries," he notes. "They stop their carts, completely block aisles, then go off somewhere else."

'Relax' Not in His Dictionary

By MILDRED K. FLANARY
I. P. T. Food Editor

To relax isn't in his book of rules for living. If things don't move—he moves 'em! Today's Chef of the Week, William J. Crawford, has REALLY been a participant in life—not just a spectator. He has climbed every rung of the ladder to his present position as president and director of the Belmont Savings Bank. He came to Long Beach three years ago in June to start that institution.

Born in Columbus, Ohio, Crawford was graduated from Ohio State University with a degree in accounting. To that he added a year in business college at Vocational Art Center, Columbus.

ALL THESE degrees were made possible by courage, vision and much hard work. From midnight until 8 a.m. he operated a chemistry laboratory—testing vegetable and salad oils. He attended classes during the day, and studied at night.

Up until now, Crawford might have been known as the "three-year-man." He came to California in 1948 as examiner for the Home Loan Bank Board. He served three years. For the next three years he managed the office of an oil well testing company.

About this time the oil company moved its headquarters to Texas, and Crawford returned to the job of examining. One of his customers was Prudential Savings & Loan Association. After three months P. S. & L. officers asked him to join their company. He did, with the rank of vice president in charge of the Loan Department. He remained three years. Today, the "three year" theme has been broken, we assure you!

A director of the International Beauty Pageant and the Long Beach Chamber of Commerce, he is also a member of the Belmont Shore Optimists Club and serves on its board of directors.

An avid gardener, he's also a past-master at hanging paper, swinging a paint brush and installing sprinkling systems. He gives his devoted best efforts to collecting antiques, and has just recently returned from an antique junket to New Orleans.

HIS REPUTATION for scrambled eggs is gaining renown. He started scrambling 'em for the monthly communion breakfast in 1952 in his North Hollywood parish. Now he whips up a batch each month for some 200 men at the St. Hedwig's Church in Rossmore. The other three weekends he treats his wife and two sons, 14 and 5, to a platter. He makes use of all interesting variations. Here's his recipe:

SCRAMBLED EGGS

- 2 tbsps. butter or margarine
- 6 eggs
- 1/2 cup milk or light cream
- 1/2 tsp. salt
- 1/4 tsp. pepper
- 1/4 tsp. Worcestershire (if desired)

Preheat skillet to 310 degrees F. Melt butter.

Beat remaining ingredients together lightly. Pour into skillet. Stir lightly until set but still moist. Yield 3 to 4 servings.

SAUTE' one of the following in the 2 tablespoons butter for 5 minutes. Add egg mixture and proceed as above:

- 1/2 cup shredded dried beef—1/2 cup chopped cooked ham—1/2 to 1 cup mushrooms, drained—1 can tuna (1 cup), drained, plus 2 tablespoons chopped green pepper, or 1 teaspoon minced onion.

To any of the above, add 3/4 cup finely grated raw carrots to egg mixture before cooking.

Dana Branch Shows Staff Art

Paintings by members of the Long Beach Public Library staff are being shown in the auditorium of Dana Branch Library, 3680 Atlantic Avenue, through the month of April.

Four artists are represented: Ruth A. Kramer, Trudie Jones Mullen, Dorothy Tegledi, and Frank Capadona. Each has specialized in his particular media: oils, watercolor, or casein. None has had formal art training.

Days of Forty Niners

ASB ELECTIONS ON TAP

Let's start this week's account of happenings at Long Beach State with a reminder on the Interfraternity Picnic at noon today in Recreation Park.

An old-fashioned type event is on tap, complete with greased porker, tug-of-wars, and sack races.

Fraternity alums, friends, parents, LBSC independents, and the general public are invited. Soft drinks and ice cream will be furnished, and a catering service will be on hand for those too lazy to pack their own picnic lunches.

Proceeds go to Interfraternity Council's scholarship fund and to World University Service.

In another get-together next Saturday forenoon on campus, Girls League representatives from 30 nearby high schools will be here for a "High School Day" hosted by AWS.

The program begins at 10 a.m. with a coffee-and-donut hour, and continues with a tour of the campus, orientation talks by AWS VIPs, and entertainment. Judy Brown, AWS special programs committee chairman, is in charge.

About the time you're reading this, Teke president Paul Tonkovich should be winging in from San Jose where he represented Long Beach State at the Western Regional IF Conference.

Seems the San Jose meeting was especially interested in hearing LBSC's IF tell how its program won first place honors at the recent national Interfraternity Conference in Los Angeles.

STUDENT BODY OFFICERS for the coming school year will be elected this week. As this is written there has been almost a total absence of issues, controversial or otherwise, but with three fellows, Neil Malmberg, Dick Ross, and Doug Lounsbury, all wanting to be AS president in 1961-62, there should be some verbal fireworks soon.

Three programs of interest are scheduled in the week coming up. Wednesday at 8 p.m. in the Little Theater it is "Albert Schweitzer," an 80-minute color movie biography of the Nobel Prize winner as part of the LBSC Film Series.

Friday night you have a choice. At 8 p.m. in LH 151, Dr. Lars Ahnabrink lectures on "Scandinavian Music—Two Swedish Troubadours." At 8:30 in the Little Theater, pianist Julian Musafia and violinist Israel Baker play three Beethoven concertos.

Film Lecture to Explore Indonesia

Film-lecturer Phil Walker will present "Exotic Indonesia" at five high school auditoriums this week in the concluding program of the Long Beach City College General Adult Division's 1960-61 series.

Admission will be by season subscription or special tickets available at the door each night. Showings are scheduled at 8 p.m. Monday at Wilson, Tuesday at Jordan, Wednesday at Millikan, Thursday at Poly and Friday at Lakewood High School.

Walker's film presents a nation whose more than 3,000 islands cover a vast area in the Southwest Pacific and whose 85 million people represent a multiplicity of cultures and languages. Major islands explored in the film are Bali, Java, Sumatra, Celebes, Timor and Borneo.

WHY GROW OLD?

Rules Will Help You
'Hold the Line' After Diet

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Today I will give you a few suggestions to help you "hold the line" after you finish my 9-Day Reducing Diet.

1. Take moderate helpings and no seconds.
2. Substitute fresh fruit for desserts as a regular habit.
3. Drink powdered, fat-free milk or skim milk.
4. Bake or broil instead of frying foods as a general rule.
5. Avoid in-between meal snacks.
6. Watch for hidden calories in the "trimmings."

Just these few rules will go a long way toward solving the weight problem.

Menus for Monday:

Lady Lions Style Fete

NOW...RIGHT NOW IS THE TIME TO BUY YOUR NEW CAR!

4
Solid reasons...

Get your Buyer's Dividends
FREE
at any of these dealers

1. LONG BEACH AREA DEALERS HAVE AMPLE STOCKS - HENCE MUST GIVE YOU A BETTER DEAL

Due to recent uncertain economic conditions, the automobile industry found itself with a new-car inventory of a million unsold cars. Naturally local dealers have their share of this stockpile and they must be sold. It stands to reason... dealers now are making out-of-the-ordinary deals. NOW IS THE TIME TO BUY YOUR NEW CAR!

2. DEALERS NEED YOUR USED CAR... TODAY, YOUR TRADE-IN IS AT TOP VALUE

With a decline in new car sales, fewer used cars have been taken in trade. Now with the Spring sales upturn and used cars again in demand, your dealer will give you a higher trade-in price so he will have an ample used car stock to sell. NOW IS THE TIME TO BUY YOUR NEW CAR!

3. OUR ECONOMY IS AT AN ALL-TIME HIGH BUSINESS IS ON THE WAY UP... TIME TO BUY!

The stock market is at a record high. More persons are working than at any time in history. Savings are at an all-time high. This means our economy is solid, again on the rise after a slight recession. As the economy goes up farther, prices will rise and your new car will cost you more. Very soon auto factories must renegotiate wage contracts which will certainly add to the cost of new models. NOW IS THE TIME TO BUY YOUR NEW CAR!

4. FREE BUYERS DIVIDENDS BEING OFFERED— GET SIZABLE DISCOUNTS ON BRAND MERCHANDISE

As an added incentive to Buy Now, local dealers are offering FREE Buyers' Dividends worth $150 which are given with every appraisal of your present car. They entitle you to substantial discounts when buying a variety of nationally advertised products. They're FREE! There is no obligation. NOW IS THE TIME TO BUY YOUR NEW CAR!

THESE MIGRANTS LAY CLAIM TO AREAS WHICH WILL FURNISH THEM AND THEIR FUTURE MATES WITH PLENTIFUL FOOD AND NEST SITES

LIKE PROSPECTORS IN THE GOLD RUSH DAYS, MALE BIRDS HURRY TO THEIR SUMMER HABITATS TO STAKE OUT A TERRITORY

TO PROCLAIM OWNERSHIP OF A PLOT, THE BIRD SINGS REPEATEDLY THROUGHOUT THE DAY...

AND HIS SONG IS BOTH A WARNING TO CLAIM JUMPERS AND AN INVITATION TO THE FAIRER SEX.

OUR COVER

Long one of Hollywood's top stars, Greer Garson is one of five current Academy Award nominees as Best Actress of the Year (full details on Page 7) for her portrayal of Eleanor Roosevelt in Dore Schary's "Sunrise at Campobello" during the years 1921 through 1924 when her devotion gave such strength to Franklin Delano Roosevelt in his courageous battle against polio. Miss Garson achieved initial fame as a motion picture actress in "Goodbye, Mr. Chips" with Robert Donat. Married to E. E. (Buddy) Fogelson, Dallas oil executive, she enjoys fishing, riding horseback and skeet-shooting. She also raises white French poodles, one of which, Pasco, is a constant traveling companion.

Calling a swimming party to lunch, Barbara Riehls sounds trumpet made of conch shell.

Make a Shell Trumpet

By Edna Hicks

FOR CENTURIES, the conch shell has been used for many purposes, including a trumpet.

The conch is a marine mollusk, with a spiral valve, found on the sandy bottoms of the sea in various locales.

Small, West Indian fighting conches are three to four inches long and can be made into trumpets with very little grinding, as explained later.

In mythology and art

Triton used the conch trumpet as an instrument of call.

FISHERMEN STILL use the large conch trumpet as an emergency call on their boats. At times the sound can be heard for three or four miles at sea.

Now to make your own conch trumpet:

All you need to do to make a shell trumpet is to cut off a generous amount of the pointed tip of the shell, then a little chipping with a screw driver or a sharp pointed spike.

You can grind off the tip with an electric grinding stone, or if you are patient, you can file it off on a rough sidewalk.

After you have filed away approximately an inch from a large conch, or about three-fourths of an inch off the small fighting conch shell point, you will see a flat area that looks like a small, one-circle coil. This center coiled spiral is then chipped out, or broken off with a screw driver or a large spike, or a tack hammer claw. Then you will have a cone shaped mouthpiece, resembling a musician's brass trumpet or cornet mouthpiece.

A fighting conch shell is harder to blow by the inexperienced trumpeter than the large conch because of the mouthpiece being smaller; therefore one will need to press the lips tighter to the shell. Thus, children can blow the large conch easier than a small one. The shell being smaller gives a shrill tone, like a factory "noontime-whistle."

IF THE MOUTHPIECE and inside of the spirals deep in the shell are sandy, and brown from sea life stain and growth, soak the shell in a strong solution of household bleach for several hours, then shake out any collection of sand and debris.

Now blow your trumpet. Probably you will need to practice a little: Tighten your lips to the mouthpiece. Now with same firm lip pressure against the teeth, take a big breath and blow an imaginary eyelash off the tip of your tongue. Try to imagine you are spitting the eyelash off the tip of your tongue clear through the shell. Continue to blow in this manner and in less than five minutes you'll make a neat, clear tone. Don't blow like you were blowing up a toy balloon because it will be impossible to make a sound. It really doesn't take much force to blow the trumpet, its mostly all lip and tongue treatment, as described. You blow it exactly like the brass-wind instruments in an orchestra (the cornet or trumpet with a cupped mouthpiece) only you won't have any valves to change tones.

THE PERFORMER will have rigid limitations of tone on his shell instrument, but the sounds of the big conch shell are sad and haunting tones with the voluminous quality of a fog horn that can be heard for several city blocks.

To improve the rough lip of the mouthpiece you can glue a round plastic curtain ring on the edge, if it fits the circle of the flat rim of the shell.

WHAT YOUR NAME MEANS

DEAR MISS RULE: Please give the origin of McBRIDE.—E. C., Seal Beach; L. M., Long Beach.

E. C., L. M.: McBRIDE is from the great Irish clan Mac-Giolla-Brighid that translates as "Sons of the adherent of St. Bridget." The clan founders considered this great Irish saint as their patron. St. Bridget's name meant "Strength and virtue." The McBrides were natives of north Ireland. Their coat-of-arms has three silver chevrons between three silver sea shells on a red shield.

Charles, James, David, Caleb and John McBride were mid-18th century settlers of south Pennsylvania.

DEAR MISS RULE: Would you inform us on HUEPPE or HUPPE.—Mrs. P. D., Long Beach.

P.D.: HUEPPE or HUPPE is German. Extensive research reveals that Huppe may have either a French or German source word. In medieval Germany Huppe was a dialect nickname from Hugu, meaning "brilliant intellect." In the French-German border area Huppe was also taken from a shop sign depicting a "huppe" or "hoopoe bird." The Huppe coat-of-arms, granted in Westphalia, has a symbolic hoopoe bird on a gold mound, its right claw lifted, centered on a silver shield.

DEAR MISS RULE: Please publish data on GARRETT.—M. G., Downey; A. G., J. G., Long Beach.

M.G., A.G., J.G.: GARRETT is based on the French warrior name Gerard translated as "Spearbrave." Gerard became Garrett in 12th century England. Oxford records of 1511 list Thomas Garard, also known as Thomas Garrett, showing that the early source names were used interchangeably. The Garrett coat-of-arms has a standing silver lion on a black stripe across a silver shield.

In impostor role, the author acquired certificates as a "faith healer," but drew no sympathy from a physician who gave him a "shot" for a cold.

By William Jones

"SEE THIS big firecracker? On Fourth of July, it goes bang!" Even today, I recall in nightmarish vividness the huge, empty red cylinder and rope—the firecracker—that I held that day as I made my stage debut at Brooklyn Elementary School in East Los Angeles.

Years later, I was to discover that it took more than just two sentences to explain why I was a Russian colonel, a clown for Ringling Bros. Circus, an ordained minister, a skid row bum, the Romeo of the Long Beach Pike or the obsessed lover in the Lonely Hearts Clubs.

Yet those roles as a newspaperman during the past year-and-a-half can be traced to those two sentences delivered by the trembling first-grader who was dressed in Chinese costume, a flimsy material that seems to be the scourge of all first graders. I recall the thunderous applause from my mother and sisters in the audience. But little else.

THE FEELING of revenge grew upon me as day after day in grammar school my teacher refused to have me read even Chicken Little and Ducky Wacky to the classroom of restless children. I was never invited to return to the stage.

Ah, so, when the City Editor said to me—these so many years later—that I was to masquerade as a wino on Beacon Street in San Pedro, well I took it to heart. The wine later was to dampen that effect.

The immediate effect was the clothing. There were socks with holes. There were shoes with holes. There was a charity organization's outfit of clothes—vest included—that had well-cultured spots from a forgotten dinner instead of holes. And, too, there was the impostor's presentation that was full of holes.

My first misgiving came from wine. I never realized that a skid row resident could be generous. Yet, I had to drink, or at least sufficiently to impress my new friends. Even today, I recall with repulsion those morning hangovers while I tried to decipher my notes of the previous night while sitting on the edge of a bed in a flophouse. I would have preferred—please, fellows—chilled glasses of beer.

Altogether, I spent three days on skid row. My expense account amounted to $21. There was $1 for meals, $2 for lodging and $18 for wine. It took a lot more than two sentences to explain that to the company cashier.

THE NEXT assignment was a little more high-toned. I was to join the crowds on the Nu-Pike in Long Beach. Actually, it came about because so many persons had objected to the idea of attacking a spot in San Pedro. They also wanted to see if Long Beach had a place that could go down the drain.

For this masquerade, I applied extra hair oil to my head, placed a pair of spit 'n' polish cordovan shoes on my feet and wore a sports coat that appeared to have been cut from a horse blanket.

It was somewhat more dangerous—more dangerous than carrying an artificial firecracker—when the young lady, for whom I was buying drinks, had the courtesy to tell me she was under age. I believe that even the thick oil on my hair did not contain my fright.

It has always been a secret shame

I, P-T reporter who posed as a Russian colonel, a minister and a lover tells

How It Feels to Be an Impostor

to me that the company paid for a violation of law after I submitted my expense account. But, even deeper, it remains a shame that I could never be a good Romeo even while trying to be legal about it.

Shortly thereafter, the circus came into town. One hot afternoon, I was outfitted in shoes twice the normal size, a flaming red wig and a baggy costume. Then, a makeup artist drew huge circles of red, black and white around my face so that I ended up with a permanent smile. It was a fortunate thing he did. I was very sad.

THE MOTHERS in the audience berated me for not paying sufficient attention to each child in that mammoth crowd. The other clowns in the act berated me for not memorizing the acts swiftly. And my son—who was brought to the circus to see me—berated me for claiming to be his father, instead of Bozo.

But the most terrifying experience for a clown is to squeeze into a small auto along with 17 other jokers. The passageways into the trunk and virtually into the carburetor on the engine are open. But even that extra space does not help. I wound up with two midgets seated on my lap and the giant of the clowns perched on my red wig. It was no wonder that the crowd applauded when I was the 17th human to emerge.

Yet, there was no tea and sympathy—not even sympathy with a beer—on completion of the assignment. I now became Lt. Col. Gregor Ivanovitch, artillery officer in the Russian army. My only offensive weapons were an authentic Russian uniform and the words—which a Russian language student drummed into me—"Poyne myush Paroski?" Anyhow, it sounded like that. The student told me that it means, "Do you speak Russian?" Thank heaven, no one did.

THE MARINE guard at the Long Beach Naval Base didn't speak Russian. The members of the Spit 'n' Argue Club didn't speak Russian. The girl that wanted to kiss me as a sort of welcome to Long Beach didn't speak Russian. I don't speak Russian. It's a good thing, too. The sign language was bad enough. Especially when I tried to tell the accompanying photographer while the girl was kissing me that his services no longer were required. That was one newspaper assignment that I almost flunked.

I imagine that because of this incident, my next assignment was to infiltrate the religious rackets. In penance, I remained on that job for three months. During that time, I was ordained a minister, graduated to a faith healer in another sect and was awarded a master's degree in Bible Interpretation.

It was with consternation, however, that I developed a severe cold after becoming a healer. With acid eye, my physician looked at me while he jabbed a needle into my arm and exclaimed: "Faith Healer, heal thyself!"

Nevertheless, it was the most (Continued on Page 17)

In officer's uniform and equipped with a mouthful of words that sounded like talking while eating mush, Jones played role of a Russian colonel.

Art Helps Your Child to Grow

There's an unpredictable factor in human make-up that Long Beach schools encourage

By George Eres

THE GRADE SCHOOL teacher has finished her discussion of the subject for art study.

Drawing materials are at hand.

The lesson: boats.

The class gets to work and, in time, finishes.

There are big boats and small boats, sailboats and power boats.

And one member of the class has finished a drawing of two airplanes in the sky.

This sort of thing crops up every so often in the art lesson. But the teacher doesn't get discouraged. The teacher has been forewarned in the instructional material on art:

"WHAT A CHILD wants to draw does not matter so much. The thing that is important is that there is something that is vital enough to him, and about which he has enough information, to make him want to express himself."

This doesn't mean that teacher will let Joe go on indefinitely drawing airplanes while the rest of the class is hard at drawing houses, trees or cabbages. Teacher will have to wean him gently away from airplanes so he won't get in the rut of drawing the one thing he has been successful at.

School administrators, aware that school days are not an end in themselves, know that art is big business today.

"Each year," says Isabel Connor, supervisor of art for the Long Beach Unified School District, "the money spent on advertising, architecture, city planning and purchases for individual consumption of art objects increases. A desirable background of understanding the arts cannot suddenly be gained late in adult life like a new suit of clothing. The earlier it is developed the better it is assimilated, the more it is used, and the greater confidence it gives. Each student has a right to a knowledge and understanding of the old masters, as well as of new schools of art."

BUT TO THE educator, art is more than a means to a better paying job or a tool that adds to social graces. Running like a thread through the school art program is the philosophy expressed by Miss Connor:

"The major aims are to increase the child's observations and to develop creative expression of what he sees and feels. The most important consideration is continued growth of the child, not whether he is in the manipulative, symbolic or realistic stage. Growth should be evident in the child's personality as well as in the objects he creates."

The art program in the public schools has changed somewhat since the system's first art supervisor, Margaret A. Waite held the post from 1912 to 1936. At that time each of the schools had an art instructor. Today in the elementary schools each teacher is also an art instructor.

The change is fine as far as Miss Connor is concerned.

"What can be more desirable in an elementary classroom than to find a teacher who plans experiences for motivation, who plans adequate time and supplies for the students' needs, and who appreciates both effort and accomplishment?"

AT THE JUNIOR high school level, students get a chance to sample as many kinds of art as possible:

drawing, painting, printing, sculpture, ceramics, jewelry. A semester of art is required at the 7th grade, but art classes are offered throughout the junior and senior high school years.

"Art is in no sense a thing apart," says Theron Freese, assistant superintendent of instruction. Art education in the public schools has played an important role in bringing about this awareness and in making art an area of interest for the many rather than the few."

The importance of art for the adolescent is stressed by Victor Lowenfeld, author of "Creative and Mental Growth," who points out:

"During the crisis of adolescence, the individual has to battle for many far-reaching decisions. He stands on the threshold of adulthood, reached under circumstances which often affect his life very definitely. . . . Art education during this important period should be by no means offered to only a selected group, but should be a natural means of expression for everyone."

MISS CONNOR, who quotes from Carolyn S. Howlett, head of art education at the Chicago Art Institute, notes that "development of skills in the arts multiplies the adolescent's opportunities to speak up, to be himself, to offer new solutions to time-worn problems, to plan schematically, to create a sense of order and to find opportunity for significant action using symbolic expression to apply this skill to the realization of ideals.

Introducing art to the kindergarten set at Minnie Gant Elementary School is like relaxing in a mud bath. For calming the nerves there's nothing like putting on a smock and doing some finger painting.

CALIFORNIA YESTERDAYS

They Built the Gold Rush Walls

By Betty Hardesty

ROCK WALLS throughout the Mother Lode foothills of California remain picturesque monuments to the patient industry of Chinese who gladly built them along property lines for one cent per running foot during the gold rush period.

Of native schist, these weathered and often moss-covered walls keep their 3-foot height intact for the most part although they are stacked without mortar or supports. The one encircling the 4,000 acre Quick Ranch at the southern end of the "Golden Chain" Highway 49, near Ben Hur, was constructed by Chinese who lost their jobs and were paid nothing if they completed less than 25-feet each day.

Along Route 49 and by-roads, corrals and fields are divided by the rock fences which march endlessly up and down the rolling hills. When built, no one thought of these rock boundaries as significant nor the Chinese population worthy of consideration. In January 1960, however, a granite marker with plaque was placed at the ferred to them as "some of our most worthy of newly adopted citizens."

But the Chinamen's popularity declined as gold became scarcer. Disappointed gold-seekers turned against all "foreigners" when rich surface claims were exhausted and soon drove out the Frenchmen, Mexicans and Chileno. The Chinese didn't go, instead others continued to come from China until 1876. Then there were 116,000 in California, a big jump from the 47 queued individuals at the start of 1849.

IN SPITE of anti-foreign laws and taxes, plus widespread unemployment, which site of gold's first discovery "dedicated to the diligent Chinese of gold rush days."

TREES OF HEAVEN, other reminders of the Chinese who brought them, still flourish wherever planted in the gold area. These trees, resembling the locust brought by American pioneers, continue to add variety of interest as do remaining Chinese buildings and effects preserved in museums of gold rush days.

When the Chinese mass immigration began in 1849 they were welcome because they did the drudgery tasks for a reasonable wage when every other man wanted only to find gold. The Chinamen soon became indispensable as servants, cooks, laundrymen, carpenters and as agricultural laborers. Gov. McDougal re-began in 1853 with the decline of the placers, the Chinese continued to work patiently. They had come from a land of poverty and ruin caused by the Taiping Rebellion, enticed by the maps and placards placed by American ship masters in China ports to get paying passengers. They believed exaggerated accounts of California's golden hills.

To the Chinese, California was golden. They liked work and earned more than enough for their standards. There was even money to send home to China and to ship the bones of their dead to their birthplace according to Chinese custom.

These were the forerunners of the Chinese who today have achieved high educational standards and a permanent place in the business and agricultural economy of the state.

Face-Lifting Your House

You don't have to buy a new house to catch up with the 20th Century. You can face-lift the one you have, transforming it into a modern match for the latest in model houses.

To help you see opportunities for improving your house, Southland starts a new feature in this issue called "Architect's Sketch-book."

Each week, a registered architect will sketch in words and pictures his suggestion for solving some common ailment of an inadequate house.

By following the feature, you'll see how a professional architect deals with problems similar to yours, and from his suggestions be helped toward that bright inspiration that makes the difference between the mediocre and the most up-to-date.

Turn to Page 20 for the first of these features.

COY. — H.B., Fullerton; Mr. M., Mrs. J.M., Long Beach.

H.B., M., J.M.: McCOY was given to descendants of the great Scotch chief called Aodh whose name meant "Firebrand." His Scotch sons formed Clan MacAodh while those who migrated to Ireland used McCoy. The McCoy's first settled in north Irish Ulster but moved to the banks of the River Shannon in the 1500s. Their coat-of-arms has two black bars between six black heraldic birds on a silver shield. McCoy's migrated to the Cumberland Valley of Pennsylvania in the early 1700s.

DEAR MISS RULE: Please publish the analysis of BOURNE. — M.C., Garden Grove; N.B., Long Beach.

M.C., N.B.: BOURNE originated as the old English word for "small stream." The family who lived "by the bourne" left descendants who called themselves Bourn. The Bourn coat-of-arms, granted in London in 1570, has two silver lions placed one above the other on a blue shield. Thomas Bourne, born in Kent, England, about 1582, was among the founding settlers of Massachusetts.

DEAR MISS RULE: Kindly give the source of ADAMSON.—Mrs. R.A., W.A., J.A., Compton.

R.A., W.A., J.A.: ADAMSON or "Son of Adam" is from the ancient Biblical Adam, meaning "Man of the red earth." Adamson is both Scotch and English. Yorkshire tax records for 1379 list John Adamson, one of the English ancestors. The Adamsons of Scotland were a sept or division of Clan Mackintosh. The coat-of-arms of the Scotch Adamsons has a red star between three blue crosses on a silver shield.

PERIOD pieces, selected with care and ornamented with treasured items acquired from many points around the world, distinguish the apartment of Mrs. Wilma Hastings, 3511 E. 1st St. In size, the apartment's five-room area is as functional as a large-sized home, withal retaining the conveniences of apartment living.

A winding, interesting stairway leads to the second-story home. An antique coat rack stands in the entry and, to the right, is a powder room; to the left, the living room with a view of the dining room beyond.

The living room has a graciously formal, but very interesting atmosphere, giving the feeling that everything is simply perfect because it is perfectly simple. The painting behind the couch looks goods because it belongs there—a matter of simple good taste, evident throughout the apartment.

Long and rectangular, the living room has a fireplace on one side, with bookcases flanking one end, and windows on the other. On the window side, a silk embossed couch faces a marble-topped coffee table. On either end of the couch are lamps with shades of the palest green silk.

A DRESDEN china candleholder ornaments the mantel, with its twin on the dining room table. A 17th century, inlaid walnut silver holder rests on a table near the window. A black rocker sits invitingly near a 15th century bras trivet by the fireplace.

Carpeting throughout is a soft shell or petal pink, walls are of a similar shade. This subdued color lends itself well as a background for fine period furnishings, neither taking away from nor competing with rose, blue, mauve, beige or other tones used elsewhere. One senses the color, but isn't actually aware of it.

By Stella George

Central point of interest in the dining room is a Venetian bouquet-of-flowers chandelier which was purchased in a little antique shop in Madrid. Amber and crystal and gold reflect the lights therein, enhancing the room. Dining room furniture is Duncan Phyfe.

THE MASTER bedroom is a symphony in blue. The color is carried through to the shutters on the windows and the bedspread. Closets are larger than those found in many homes.

The second bedroom is done in Philippine mahogany with Provincial styling in shades of dusty rose with turquoise blue accents. A marble-topped Victorian table in the bedroom is about 100 years old. Adjoining the second bedroom is a small hallway with huge closets lining the walls and providing ample storage space.

The bathroom is large and spacious, with rose carpeting and every functional appointment. It is conveniently located in the center hall of the home, and its large size is a luxury note in itself.

Mrs. Hastings' kitchen is long and spacious, with sunny yellow the color theme. It is the type of kitchen usually found only in custom homes. Yellow tile runs along each end of the sink, affording more than ample work space. A delightful contrast to the period furnishings elsewhere in the home are the curved cupboards and the use of glass brick above the sink. Eleven 12-inch squares of glass brick decorate the sink and accompanying work space, adding light (and a modern touch) but affording privacy.

Curving architectural lines and winding stairway lend interest to entrance of this second-floor apartment.

Central point of interest in the dining room is a Venetian bouquet-of-flowers chandelier, an antique item.

AT THE entrance to the kitchen there is a small built-in desk, with telephone, handy for everyday use. Opposite is the dinette with its curved counter and seat. At the far end of the kitchen is a large service porch with plenty of room in which to keep an ironing board standing ready for use as well as other service equipment.

Painstaking care was taken in the selection of the smallest item in Mrs. Hastings' home. Perhaps this accounts for the fact that her interior decorating so cleverly combines a formal elegance with a truly homey feeling.

Glass brick above the sink is interesting and functional installation, giving light but yielding privacy.

Why Missiles are Shipped by Air

Atlas Intercontinental Ballistic Missile is loaded on a 28 1/2-ton Douglas C-133. The big cargo carrier can carry 26 tons a distance of 4,000 miles at more than 323 mph.

By Richard LaCoste

THROUGHOUT the country Americans become increasingly conscious of giant air transports as they shuttle intercontinental ballistic missiles to 11 ICBM bases at strategic locations. All of Soviet lands are within reach of the ICBM's 6,300-mile range capability. Because Europe and the Latin American countries lack truck facilities large enough to accommodate the 75-foot missiles, all ICBM transportation will be by air. Intermediate range ballistic missiles already are in place in England and Germany and, perhaps, in other European areas still labeled secret by the U.S. Department of Defense. AND WHEN anti-missile missiles are perfected, few military men doubt that the Latin American countries will refuse to protect themselves with the new weapon. One logical reason is that missiles do go off course. And should a Soviet-launched missile go astray, certainly Latin American countries would want the

Titan Bases

In addition to five Titan ICBM bases in varying stages of construction, 11 Atlas bases are scheduled to be built in the following areas:

Altus AFB, Altus, Okla.; Dyess AFB, Abilene, Texas; Walker AFB, Roswell, N.M.; Plattsburgh AFB, Watertown, N.Y.; Vandenberg AFB, Lompoc, Calif.; Offutt AFB, Omaha, Neb.; Fairchild AFB, Spokane, Wash.; Forbes AFB, Topeka, Kan.; Schilling AFB, Salina, Kan.; Lincoln AFB, Lincoln, Neb.; Warren AFB, Cheyenne, Wyo.

capability of blowing up the missile before it strikes target.

Meanwhile, behind present plans for the airlifting of ICBM's stands a $1-billion boner pulled by Department of Defense officials.

Although U.S. trucking firms can transport the giant missiles, 6,000 bridges already built won't permit that type of transport. The reason is at once simple and startling. Some time ago, bridge-building officials were told that a clearance of 14 feet would be sufficient for any type of military transport. Now, the U.S. trucking industry has been told that a vertical clearance of 17 feet is necessary to permit the truck-transport of ICBM's.

ABOUT $700 MILLION additional funds will be required to raise from 14 feet to 17 feet the 6,000 bridges already built.

In addition to the $700-million, Congress must find an additional $330-million, above already accepted estimates, to raise 10,000 bridges yet to be built the required additional three feet.

Currently, railroads cannot transport the ICBM's to Francis C. Warren Air Force Base, Wyoming to the north; Roswell Air Force Base, New Mexico to the south; Plattsburgh Air Force Base, New York to the east; and Vandenberg Air Force Base, California, to the west.

Trucks can't push the missiles through some 6,000 bridges which are too low by three feet.

ANTIQUES

Cinderella Chinaware

By Helen Gillum

ONION pattern in Meissen is one of the oldest of chinaware designs. Developed from an earlier Chinese motif, that of the pomegranate and three of life, it was at one time considered fit only for everyday kitchen ware. But, like the virtuous kitchen maid in the fairy tale, its simple beauty eventually won higher respect. Soon after Germany opened its first porcelain factory at Meissen in 1710, the sparkling blue and white design was being used on fancy dinnerware there, and was being copied by other factories as well.

A SURPRISING feature of this charming porcelain that got its start in the kitchen and wound up as fine dinnerware is the great variety of pieces that was made. Mrs. R. S. Bartlett of 5117 Lanai St. owns more than 100 pieces of onion pattern Royal Meissen which is quite representative of the various articles found. Every piece bears the crossed swords mark of the royal factory and has the crossed swords worked into the design. Attractive displays for the chinaware have been arranged throughout her entire home by Mrs. Bartlett.

Much of her dinnerware is in an antique cabinet in the dining room. Numerous plates, four sizes of platters, a water pitcher, milk jug and graceful pair of cruets are featured here. There are also a tea caddy, chop plate and divided and covered vegetable dishes. A serving spoon with strainer bowl is interesting, while handsome candlesticks with snuffer are quaint, old-fashioned items.

table with an elegant, 17-inch square tray that has beautifully detailed edges. On the tray is a teapot, sugar bowl and creamer. A huge salad bowl, one of the largest pieces ever made, graces another antique cabinet in the living room. The bedrooms and bath, too, share the benefits of this picturesque china, in the form of bath-salt and powder jars; there is a blotter-holder and cannister on the antique desk in the bedroom.

In the kitchen, the "kitchen stuff" is in quaint, yet pleasant contrast with the modern electric range and furnishings. The utensils' fresh blue and white colors blend harmoniously with the pretty pink walls. Too outmoded for modern use, most of them serve for decorative interest only. Hanging on hooks above the stove and elsewhere are an egg whip, sugar scoop, rolling pin, cheese board, tea tile, funnels, strainers, spoons, and other kitchen relics, all of which impart warmth and old-fashioned friendliness to the room.

amazing exposure of them all because it showed me how few churches, how few clergymen have come to believe that 30 pieces of silver are more important than religious belief.

THE COMFORTING thing this assignment was having an investigator from the state attorney general's office accompany me as a "fellow salesman." It is always a comfort to know that two men can better defend themselves than one. However, aside from a few insults, we were not harmed.

But all of these assignments were the mere basic training chores of a recruit about ready to embark for the front. No sooner had I become a cleric than I was assigned to the Lonely Hearts clubs.

For more than three months, I remained on this unusual investigation. It was unusual, particularly, because it cost more money than all the other assignments. It was also unusual because one day I would be dating a very sedate woman and the next day I would be dancing and dining with an Amazon of energy. Unfortunately, I was not equipped in basic training for such strain. I had trouble even completing one Cha-Cha-Cha.

Perhaps, now, you expect me to come up with some sensational truth, some basic fact that has been overlooked in a normal life and that I alone have discovered through my life as an impostor.

Well, if there is one, it is the jovial greeting by friends in the period following the publication of each story. After the Beacon Street series, I was called "Bum." After the Russian article, it was "Hey, Ivan." After the clown business, it was, "Say, Joker." After the Lonely Hearts series, it was—oh, well, better leave such words to Mad Magazine.

HOWEVER, there are some suggestions in how to be what you really aren't:

1. Research the subject matter thoroughly! Just how do you seat two midgets on your lap and perch a giant on a wig?

2. Dress in the authentic clothing of your subject! Does a skid row character leave the bottom of his vest unbuttoned?

3. Learn something of the language or dialect of the character you are to imitate! Does "Poyne myush Paroski?" really mean, "Do you speak Russian?"

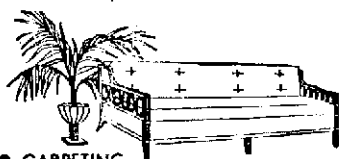

4. Be physically prepared to follow in the footsteps of your character! Do you know the footsteps to the Cha-Cha-Cha?

Frankly, though, give up the whole idea and be yourself.

You'll find it a lot more thrilling than the trembling first-grader, dressed in Chinese costume, bellowing the words: "See this big fire-cracker. On Fourth of July, it goes bang!"

Good for Toothache!

Several advantages are noted for new "dental lounge unit" demonstrated here by inventor, Dr. Joseph P. Lunn.

THE DAYS when you enter a dentist's office and cringe at the display of torture instruments may end.

Dr. Joseph P. Lunn, 3827 Long Beach Blvd., a Long Beach dentist for 12 years and before that a Poly High School and USC basketball star, has invented a "dental lounge unit" which he believes will revolutionize the practice of dentistry.

It's a good-looking contour lounge (the one currently in use in his office is dark red naughahyde), practically the only thing a patient sees when he comes through the office door.

THE PATIENT reclines comfortably, knees raised, lower back supported.

Then Dr. Lunn pulls out a cabinet telescoped under the head of the lounge. This cabinet has working space, an X-ray viewing screen, water, compressed air, gas, cautery, electricity. He takes instruments from drawers in the side of the lounge. He raises the motor and pulls it around in position for drilling.

"I invented this contour lounge partly for the patients, and partly for me," says 6-foot, 3-inch Dr. Lunn. "I got tired reaching around and over patients."

"With the lounge, patients are comfortable for two hours at a time, if necessary. And it is psychologically good for patients not to have to face instruments at once."

DR. LUNN says he began experimenting with the idea, drawing sketches, 3½ years ago. About eight months ago he and a plumber friend, Quentin Mitchell, began building the lounge.

The dental lounge will be displayed at the California Dental Assn. convention April 24-26 in Los Angeles Biltmore Hotel, and the National Dental Assn. convention Oct. 16-19 in Philadelphia. One also is at USC. The inventor hopes the lounge soon will be on the market.

Dr. Lunn says the lounge is comfortable for children, for men 6½ feet tall and all between.

Contoured lounge is comfortable to patient. Instruments are kept out of sight in drawers and cabinet.

Whaley House, an historical structure in San Diego, has been restored, refurnished and is now open to visitors.

By Caroline Coleman

ONE OF San Diego's most historic mansions, the Whaley House, symbol of the gracious life of early California, has been restored, refurnished and is open to the public. Operated by the San Diego Historical Shrine Foundation, it may be seen from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Wednesdays through Sundays.

More than a century of stirring history is recaptured in the two-story brick home built in 1857 by Thomas Whaley at what is now the corner of San Diego Ave. and Harney St. in San Diego's Old Town, the birthplace of California.

Early glittering social life—formal receptions and dinners, festive balls—centered in the impressive home when the state was young. Later it was used as a theater for a traveling company, the Tanner Troupe. In turn it has served as courthouse, Sunday school, funeral parlor and saloon.

WHALEY, a merchant, came from New York to California in the 1849 gold rush, traveling on the Sutton, a 204-day trip around Cape Horn.

He built the home for $10,000 on a 150x217 lot, part of an 8½-acre parcel he bought Sept. 25, 1855.

Bricks came from a clay bed and kiln, the first brick yard in San Diego, which Whaley established 300 yards southwest of his projected home.

The north room originally was a granary without flooring, but was remodeled when it became the county courthouse on Aug. 12, 1869.

Perhaps the most significant historical event involving the Whaley House was the surreptitious transfer of county records from it to "New Town," present site of downtown San Diego, on the night of March 31, 1871.

LEGAL BATTLES instituted to have the courthouse moved to New Town were resisted by Old Town officials.

Despite threats to prevent forcibly the transfer of the courthouse to New Town, Col. Chalmers Scott, then county clerk and recorder, and his helpers removed county records under cover of darkness and transported them to a "New Town" building at 6th and G Sts.

Old Home Recaptures History

Saved from destruction in 1956 when it was purchased with $25,000 provided by San Diego County, and restored by the county, the mansion has been largely furnished by descendants of pioneer families.

Visiting it is like sweeping back a curtain to the age of stagecoaches and crinolines when the Whaley House was a "grand mansion" in a dusty frontier town.

ARCHITECT'S Sketchbook

Potential of an unfinished attic is utilized in this resourceful bedroom design.

HOMEOWNER'S PROBLEM: I am preparing to finish off an attic bedroom for two girls. Our 1½-story house is in a development. Many of my neighbors have already finished their upstairs, but the rooms all tend to look uninteresting and pretty much alike. I would like to give the room some personality to help make our house different from the others. Can you help?

ARCHITECT George Cooper Rudolph of New York City answers:

The do-it-yourself movement has been a great boon to the American homeowner, and increased the value of thousands of houses. Often, however, a considerable amount of work goes into a home without properly increasing livability and resale value. A common reason is that the inexperienced amateur workman failed to utilize fully the possibilities of the area he sought to improve.

This failure usually can be attributed to a lack of good design: the artistic use of space and materials to create a functional and attractive setting for daily life.

THE SKETCH shows how one end of an attic room can be brought to life with an easily constructed built-in desk, window seat and vanity.

The floor plan shows one possibility for development of the entire attic space.

While it involves some extra work, the window seat and built-ins impart a character to the room impossible to achieve through the use of furniture alone.

To obtain instructions on how to construct built-ins shown, send name and address and 50 cents to Architect's Sketchbook, Independent Press-Telegram, 6th and Pine, Long Beach 12, Calif., and specify Desk Vanity Plan S-1. For all other aspects of this suggested attic development, consult a contractor or lumber dealer for advice and assistance.

Rocking Chairs Are Doing a Comeback

IT'S GOOD to learn that the rocking chair is once again becoming a popular piece of furniture. It was inevitable that our modern overstuffed chair could not replace it permanently.

Many an idea has been born in the minds of men and women who rocked in apparent idleness while concentrating deeply on some project. And many an emotional storm has been soothed by that back-and-forth rhythm. Too, rockers provided gentle exercises for the organs inside the body by the stimulating to and fro action.

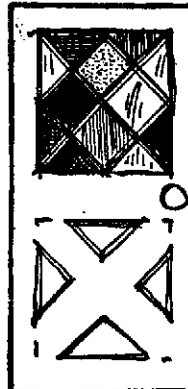

Since the rocking chair is such a rewarding piece of furniture, we decided that it should be our project for today. It's pictured herewith being used by the CBS-TV star Enid Markay of the "Bringing Up Buddy" show.

ANYONE CAN build this chair when he uses the full size pattern. Just trace the full-sized pattern on wood, saw out the parts and put them together. A list of needed materials and easy-to-read directions and illustrations are printed right on the pattern. The same pattern shows how to build a matching straight chair.

You may obtain the rocking chair pattern No. 130 by sending 75 cents in coin to Steve Ellingson, Long Beach Independent Press-Telegram Pattern Dept., 15155 Satcoy St., Van Nuys, Calif.

An Old World Art Revived

By Joe Cooper

S SMALL MAN with a big dream—sculptor Kilgore Kirby—has revived in California the ancient art of wine cask carving. With the craft and skill once known only to artisans of the Old World, Kirby is creating bas-reliefs of beauty, hewn from the stubborn oak of the wine cask.

Kirby, who stands only 5½ feet tall, is small beside the huge casks, large enough to age 6,000 gallons of fine wine over the years to rich maturity. His big dream is to convince today's builders that wood carvings lend warmth to modern architecture.

He takes casks which have been retired from their life work of aging California wines and cuts from them the cask heads, then creates great, oval bas-reliefs in oak. Fashionable restaurants in the San Francisco bay area—wine capital of the U. S.—are using them to adorn their walls.

"The large wall plaque carved in wood can add a warm, live touch to office buildings and hotel lobbies dominated by the glass, stainless steel and stone beloved of today's architects," he said. "I am convinced work such as mine can help to bring about a return to the greater use of the noblest of all the arts—sculpture."

KIRBY HAS a studio in San Mateo and is an artist and art teacher as well as a sculptor. In his current medium he finds that:

"The shallowness of the wine cask heads forces heavy dependence on drawing and lines of caught shadows to enhance the carving and obtain third dimension. Special lighting also is required."

An artist since childhood, Kirby sketched at school and began clay sculptures in 1918 and studied in the 1920s in San Francisco, New York and Paris.

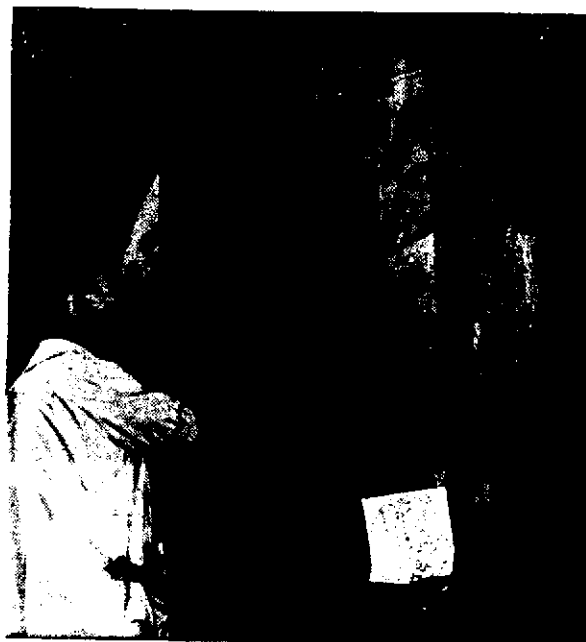

Then Kirby headed for the South Pacific.

"A friend told me of islands where there were great limestone cliffs. You chose your rock, drilled some holes at the lines of cleavage, put in wooden pegs and left it a couple of days while you went off and drank kava and danced.

"The rain would swell the pegs, break your stone loose and the native boys with flowers in their hair would haul it home for you. Being young, I believed my friend, not realizing he was talking about the Fiji Islands and I was talking about Samoa. Samoa is all lava rock, for the most part, uncarvable.

"SO IN SAMOA I carved in coral and a little lava and finally turned to wood, there being some fine native woods there, and have been carving wood as well as other sculptural media ever since."

On his return to the U.S.

Old World art, wine cask carving, occupies Kilgore Kirby of San Mateo, using sketch (lower right). The work will adorn a fashionable Sausalito restaurant.

three years later, he exhibited in Paris, New York, San Francisco, Los Angeles and other cities and had "some reviews kind enough to credit me with being largely responsible for bringing about a sudden new popularity for wood sculpture."

For the last six years he has been doing a number of murals and stained-glass effects in addition to sculpture. Since January 1959 he has concentrated on the giant bas-reliefs—each covering 35 to 40 square feet—on wine casks.

Art Helps

To satisfy the need for art is to satisfy the urge 'for all those things money can't buy! This is one of the ineradicable and unpredictable hungers of man. The individual's need for art is satisfied only by that which he creates for himself out of his own life here and now.'

Areas for this expression are found in the schools' art classes, says Miss Connor, "so the student's joy of life is heightened, his perception of human existence deepened and his zest for creative beauty widened."

The Long Beach system's art department favors no particular "school of art."

THE GRADUATES of Long Beach schools who have made their marks in the field of art vary. One of them, Robert Holdeman, now in

New York, received praise from San Francisco's Alfred Frankenstein because he "does everything equally well—watercolors of a meticulously descriptive and 'realistic' kind, watercolors of a completely abstract variety, and watercolors at every stage of stylization between..."

Carlus Dyer, another Long Beach alumnus now in the east, illustrated a book on Martha Graham and "made" Time Magazine for his metal sculpture. Other graduates, "pointed to with pride," include Don Finlayson, now working in television in Hollywood; Ed Frank, authority on foreign art objects, furniture and textiles; fashion designer Bill Gates; Lee Barton, now with the Marshall Thompson Agency in Paris; Architect Vernon Leckman; designer Stan Young, now with Frank Bros.; Thomas Ferriera, pottery instructor at Long Beach State College; Muts Yasamura, with Young & Rubicam, N. Y.; Ronnie Banco, with the architectural firm of Killingsworth, Brady & Smith, and architect Killingsworth, perhaps the best known of Long Beach architects for the many national awards he has won.

"We don't dictate, either to the teachers or the pupils as to 'school' or style," said Miss Connor. "Within bounds, the teacher has his head. And what more can be asked of the pupil than that he should reach higher in an effort to express his original thinking, that he should feel a moment of satisfaction after he has done his best, and that he should be eager for tomorrow's new opportunity."

BOOK REVIEWS

The Case of the Careless Pilot

By Vera Williams

Independent-Press-Telegram Book Editor

ANTOINE de Saint-Exupery, legend of aviation, essentially was a writer instead of a pilot sets forth his long-time friend and fellow-flier Marcel Migeo in "SAINT-EXUPERY" (McGraw-Hill, $5.75.)

The two trained at Neudorf, near Strasbourg not long after the smoke of World War I had settled, when pilots flew "by the seat of the pants," top speed was 100 miles an hour, and 300 miles was a long flight.

Saint-Exupery joined "The Line" flying mail from Toulouse to Dakar for a year. When planes were forced down in Africa pilots were likely to be captured by the Moors for ransom, and Saint-Exupery for a time was stationed in a desert refueling outpost, leading the French to compare him with T. E. Lawrence of "Seven Pillars of Wisdom" fame.

He wrote "Night Flight," "Flight to Arras," and then "Wind, Sand and Stars" which won an Academie award.

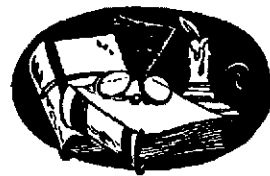

In World War II, Saint-Exupery flew reconnaissance planes over German lines. After France fell, he associated with Drieu La Rochelle, alleged collaborator, in Vichy and was accused of being a Petain sympathizer. DeGaulle refused Saint-Exupery an assignment in the North African campaign, but he joined American forces going into Africa and flew photographic reconnaissance planes over occupied country.

Suddenly the flier disappeared — apparently shot down between Nice and Corsica. Readers and a good many women who weren't readers mourned him.

Why wasn't he a good pilot? Migeo says he was absent-minded in the cockpit, with his mind apparently on his writing. He was so careless he once left the door of the plane open and it was torn off by the wind. His long flights, especially his attempts to fly from Paris to Saigon and New York to Patagonia were badly planned, according to Migeo, and thus turned out disastrously.

GEORGE BERNARD Shaw once wrote Sir Cedric Hardwicke: "You are my fifth favorite actor; the other four are the Marx brothers." Although it might not appear so this is a rare expression of sentiment and respect from the famed Irish playwright who held a militant and life-long conviction that actors were the foremost mortal enemy of the literary man.

One of the highspots of "A VICTORIAN IN ORBIT: The Irreverent Memoirs of Sir Cedric Hardwicke" (Doubleday, $4.50), is hitherto unpublished correspondence of Shaw, depicting the warm relationship between Hardwicke and Shaw and shedding new light on G. B. S.'s ideas on the theatre and acting. Hardwicke was born in the last decade of Victoria's reign. His spectacular career paralleled the history of the modern theatre, ranging from the English stage to Hollywood and into television.

THERE ARE few places left on the North American continent where men can still see the country as it was before Europeans came and know some of the challenges and freedoms of those who saw it first, but in the Canadian Northwest it can still be done . . .

So begins Sigurd F. Olson's "THE LONELY LAND" (Knopf, $4.50), a delight to armchair adventurers.

The author of "The Singing Wilderness" again is at his ineffable best, evoking the moods of storms, winds, solitude and sky. He describes a canoe expedition with five prominent Canadian friends 500 miles down the Churchill River in Northern Saskatchewan and Manitoba, the water route of explorers of 1750-1850.

Olson, the bourgeois (boss) of the trip, chose routes and picked camp sites. With him traveled a bank president, an army general, a Dutch ambassador to Canada, an official of the Associated Clubs of Canada and the chairman of the Canadian Defense Research Board.

As sidelines, he quotes from the diaries and journals of George Simpson, David Thompson, Alexander Henry and Alexander Mackenzie, explorers, who had made the journey before him.

Francis Lee Jaques illustrated "The Lonely Land" with pen and ink drawings.

PRESIDENT JOHN F. Kennedy writes a special letter to boys and girls in the Young Readers Edition of his "PROFILES IN COURAGE" (Harper, $1.95) which contains the same text as the original except for the deletion of some "non-narrative" material and a few connective passages. It also includes drawings by Emil Weiss. Writes the president-author to his young readers: "This is largely a book about politicians who were failures. Most were deprived of any hope of achieving their most cherished goals in public life. . . . What is important about these men is not their failures, but why they failed. Each of them had some principle or idea which he believed in; and when the time came, each of them chose to act according to his beliefs even though to do so meant unpopularity and criticism and often defeat in elections. . . . That is why this book is more than an exciting story of great men. It is a lesson to all of us that courage is much more than bravery on a battlefield; that it can mean acting according to your beliefs whatever the consequences. And it is also a lesson that we can all share in such courage by refusing to join with those people who make unreasoning attacks on the man who is doing or saying what he honestly believes to be right."

After Bull Run

"I felt it my duty to enlist under the flag of the Nation" wrote 17-year-old Owen Johnston Hopkins when news of the bitter Union defeat at Bull Run reached his home in Ohio.

The words were not shibboleths to Yankee private Hopkins who marched off to battle and his diaries and letters, "UNDER THE FLAG OF THE NATION," edited by Otto F. Bond (Ohio State University Press: $5), provide an articulate and comprehensive account of the harried and heroic day-to-day life of the foot-slogging "GI Joe" long before his modern counterpart was immortalized by Ernie Pyle and Bill Mauldin.

Under auspices of the Ohio Civil War Centennial Commission, Otto F. Bond, pen name for William Rainey Harper, Long Beach resident and professor emeritus at the University of Chicago, with careful editing of the Hopkins' papers provides a rifle peepsight view of the battles of the Cumberland and the siege of Vicksburg and a poignant, moving story of an idealistic boy who becomes a man in the fiery baptism of battle.

"Flag" is a factual counterpart of the Stephen Crane's fictional masterpiece, "The Red Badge of Courage" and belongs on the bookshelf of the great and meaningful literature of the War Between the States.

"MARK TWAIN—THE MAN AND HIS WORK" by Edward Wagenknecht (University of Oklahoma Press, $5.95): A quarter of a century ago Wagenknecht wrote about Mark Twain's work and the nature of Mark Twain himself. Since the publication of the original book Wagenknecht has continued his historical and critical studies of the famed humorist and these he has incorporated in his revised edition, making it essentially a new book. The new edition shows Mark Twain not as a man with imagination and humor "who just wrote" but as an author of technique garnered by wide experience and avid reading. It also shows the close connection between the things Twain wrote about and the man himself.

OWNERS OF HOMES on the rocky eastern coast, the midwestern lake country, the deep south or west coast can benefit from and enjoy the revised edition of "SUNSET PATIO BOOK," (Lane, $2). It shows by illustration and word how to arrest the sun or take advantage of its warmth at times of day or seasons. Beautiful illustrations show how paving materials and structures can be combined with lush or simple verdure to achieve luxurious living. The outdoor rooms, enclosures or detached vistas for dining, music, sport orolling which you will see in "Sunset Patio Book" might create desires which end up with you visiting nurseries, lumber yards and hardware stores next weekend.

GROWTH OF SUCH states as California, Texas and Illinois, the march of the cities into suburban areas and incorporation of many new towns and villages are presented in THE 1961 WORLD ALMANAC AND BOOK OF FACTS (New York World-Telegram, $1.35.) The volume presents not only population of states and cities, and the 1960 population of places over 2,500, compared with the figures for 1950. Also presented are the rise of new republics in Africa, events in Cuba, the Congo, Algeria. There are full reports on the World Series, the summer Olympic Games in Rome, the winter contests in Squaw Valley, records in all major sports. Listed, too, are election results, the work of Congress, accomplishments of nuclear and other sciences, astronomical phenomena. The World Almanac is in its 76th year.

THE GALAPAGOS Islands, where Charles Darwin conceived his theory of the origin and evolution of life on earth, is dealt with by an able scientist in a new book. Replete with black-and-white and color pictures of some of the strangest animals still living, "GALAPAGOS" by Irenaus Eibl-Eibesfeldt (Doubleday, $3.95) is the result of living with the fauna of the islands and studying their habits in careful objectivity.

Lamb stroganoff with pungent dill flavoring is a dish that will bring new interest to spring dinner tables.

Try Lamb Stroganoff

By Mildred K. Flanary

Independent, Press-Telegram Home Economics Editor

SPRING CALLS for a "new look" in food as well as in everything else, and lamb stroganoff, seasoned with pungent dill seed, chopped onion, mushrooms and tomato sauce, will add new zest to mealtime.

Boneless lamb shoulder, cut in cubes, is used for the stroganoff. Here is the recipe:

Lamb Stroganoff

- 2 lbs. boneless lamb shoulder, cut in 1-inch cubes
- 1/4 cup flour
- 3 tablespoons butter
- 1 can (4 oz.) mushroom stems and pieces
- 1/2 cup chopped onion
- 2 teaspoons dill weed
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1 can (8 oz.) tomato sauce
- 2 tablespoons flour
- 1 tall can evaporated milk (1 1/2 cups)
- 1 cup sliced celery
- 1 tablespoon lemon juice

Dredge meat in the 1/4 cup flour, saving any remaining flour. Meanwhile melt butter in a large frypan. Add meat cubes and brown on all sides, stirring frequently. Drain mushrooms, saving liquid. Add onion, dill weed, salt and the drained mushrooms to meat and cook until onion is yellow and transparent. Add enough water to mushroom liquid to make 1/2 cup. Stir tomato sauce and mushroom liquid and water into meat mixture. Cover and simmer until meat is tender, about 1 to 1 1/2 hours, stirring occasionally. Blend in the 2 tablespoons flour plus reserved flour. Add evaporated milk and celery, stirring until well blended. Cook uncovered over low heat until mixture is thickened, stirring occasionally, about 10 minutes. Just before serving stir in lemon juice. Serve over hot rice. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

GOING PLACES With the Sloanes

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. — Except for a handful of hotels—some of which, like the old Shepherds of Cairo, now belong to the ages—none has ever become so much of a legend in its own time as the Fontainebleau.

And except for a few stories about it, such as solid gold plumbing fixtures and having to tip a bellhop a quarter to pick up the dime you dropped in the lobby, most of the legend is true.

Few people spell its name correctly and fewer still pronounce it right. But fewer are those who can afford to stay in the world's highest priced hotel.

CHEAPEST ROOM in the house during the high winter season just past was $37 a day without meals. No hairs are split over single or double occupancy. Choice location rooms run up to $60 a day and a four-room corner suite will cost you $225 per day.

With more than 1,000 rooms, the Fontainebleau is the world's largest resort hotel and the most expensive, having cost some $33,000,000 to build. It earns almost half that amount back every year.

Like most fabled hotels, the Fontainebleau is a symbol of its time and place. And to be a 20th century symbol of Miami Beach—a city of some 400 hotels, most of which would stop traffic anywhere else—takes some doing.

The Fontainebleau, named after a famed palace outside of Paris, was built in 1954. It was the year Miami Beach's incredible hotel boom reached a peak never known before or since.

ITS UNIQUE curved main wing stirred architectural circles. So did the complete absence of the hotel's name from its facade. Its replica of the palace's gardens, its vast lobbies dripping with marble walls, silk draperies, statuary and ornate furniture ranging from Louis XIV and Renaissance to modern, started controversies about taste that are still going on.

But the Fontainebleau became the first to beat Miami Beach's annual this-year's-hotel game. Raising its rates and filling the house while others were cutting theirs and turning to bizarre promotional tricks was probably its climactic achievement.

MOST HOTEL men agree that the phenomenon of the Fontainebleau is due almost entirely to the man who conceived, built and—mostly—owns it, Ben Novak, whose personality is almost the antithesis of his creation's. Far from a starry-eyed visionary genius, he is a hard-nosed businessman whose office is the smallest and least ornate room in the hotel. Its chief distinguishing features are four telephones on a desk piled with papers.

For what he charges, Novak knows he can afford to spare no expense and overlook no detail. It is this attitude to which most observers attribute the hotel's success.

With a native shrewdness too seldom employed by American hotel men, he knows that Americans are willing to pay well, but only when they get their money's worth.

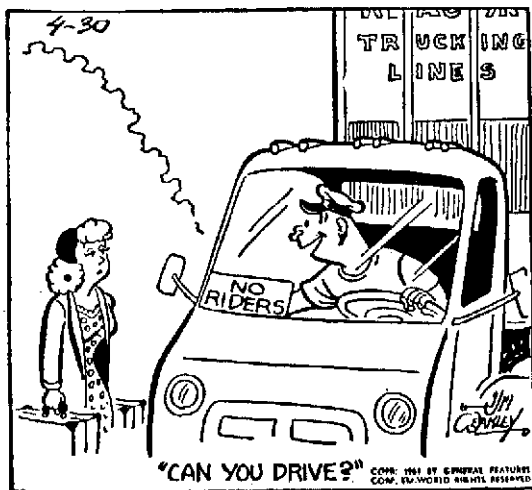

Shirley and Bob Sloane will be happy to help readers with their travel problems. Address them in care of Southland Magazine, Independent, Press-Telegram, 6th and Pine, Long Beach 12, Calif.

AROUND THE WORLD WITH

DELAPLANE

"Our friends who have been to Europe tell us so many things we MUST do. Would you say what things you think first-time tourists usually do that may be a waste of time..."

THEY TRAVEL too fast. "Two days in Paris, three in Rome" are the usual itineraries I read. Two weeks and five countries—and you see nothing but airports.

If I had two weeks, I'd spend one in England and one in Italy.

"Would you please give the best and worst sides of the European countries? We are undecided which ones to visit..."

France is overpriced. The tourist route in Paris has more gimmicks than a carnival midway. However, the food is great. So is the shopping—if you can stand the price. An exciting and beautiful city.

Spain and Portugal: Less than half the price of France.

Good at the beaches or in the mountains but hot in the interior in summer. Food, just fair.

Italy: Excellent for shopping and food. Prices fair enough. Rome is uncomfortably hot in the summer.

Switzerland: Clean, beautiful country. Well-priced. Cool enough—the Italian-Swiss lake country is wonderful in summer. Food is fine. Shopping, very good.

Germany: I rate it with Switzerland. And, I think, a little better on food.

England: The best for everything but food. Good prices, shopping, entertainment. Best of England is by car out in the country.

Scandinavia: Copenhagen is the liveliest summer town in Europe. Tops Paris. Good prices, food and entertainment.

Ireland: Bargain prices. Beautiful country. Fair food and hotels. Not much shopping. Good, cool summer country.

"Can you tell us approximate prices for a South Pacific sea cruise?"

Egypt's Climate

Egypt enjoys one of the finest climates in the world. On the coast temperatures range from 60 to 95 degrees. In Cairo the temperature falls as low as 40 degrees during winter nights and rises to 105 during the summer but, being dry, the heat is not oppressive. But everywhere in Egypt there is sunshine the year around with no more than 10 days of rain in any 12-month period.

Zealand, Australia: $1925. I imagine that is a pretty good example.

Includes sightseeing, motor coach fares, hotel ashore.

Allow about $100 per couple for various tips and taxis and $200 for shopping. (Shopping is very light in these areas.) Any travel agent has this cruise. Matson has two ships making the same run.

Pilgrims to Descend on Rome

SINCE THIS year marks the 1900th anniversary of St. Paul's arrival in Rome, the Eternal City will be humming with pilgrims—thousands of them from the United States—celebrating the event.

For instance, the Paulist Fathers will commemorate occasion with a series of three Pauline Year Pilgrimages, retracing the steps of St. Paul in the Middle East, the Island of Malta and Rome. Departures are scheduled via TWA jetliner on May 14, July 16 and Sept. 17 under the spiritual direction of prominent Paulists. Each trip will be three weeks duration, New York-New York.

In addition, the Catholic Travel League has set up a wide selection of pilgrimages, with departures from May to September. Travel agents have complete information.

Other travelers, not in groups, will, of course, visit Rome for the same purpose. Many of the faithful will follow the routes covered by the man who has been considered the greatest missionary of all time.

Called the "Apostle of the Independent Press-Telegram Travel Editor

Gentiles," St. Paul roamed the Mediterranean region from his native Tarsus to distant Malta, spreading the word of a faith that has continued to revolutionize the lives of men for 20 centuries.

"AFRICA THROUGH the Lens" is both the name and aim of a six-week tour offered adventurous camera fans this summer through the British Overseas Airways Corp. Concentrating on British East Africa—which, incidentally, is far removed from the Dark Continent's current trouble spots—tour leaders have set July 17 as departure day from Los Angeles and New York. After a short visit in London, participants will fly to "shoot" elephant and buffalo at close range, see Murchison Falls and hippo pools; face lions, rhino and giraffe with their cameras. They will visit native pygmy villages, the rugged "Valley of the Moon," Lake Victoria and Zanzibar, returning Aug. 21. "Thru The Lens," North Hollywood, has complete data.

FRANCE IS Europe's most-traveled country as far as Americans are concerned, and prospective visitors can do no better than to contact the French Government Tourist Office, 9418 Wilshire Blvd., Los Angeles (CR 1-6665) for helpful itineraries and specific information. Representative Jacques Delobel, as accommodating a fellow as you'll ever run across, is at your service. He points out that his service supplements—and in no way substitutes for—the job your travel agent does for you. And it's all free!

ON APRIL 8, the Pacific Electric red cars made their last runs between Long Beach and Los Angeles. A profusely illustrated paperback book "Pacific Electric Railway: A Pictorial Album of Electric Railroading" compiled by Donald Duke, editor of Pacific Railway Journal, and a long-playing record "Last of the Big Red Cars"—either of which may be enjoyed with deepest nostalgia of the vanished past—are available from Pacific Railway Journal, P.O. Box 91, San Marino, Calif. Price: $4.75 postpaid; or, the book sells individually at $3.75, the record, $1.25, also postpaid.

AS MANY AS 370 sleek vessels will set sail May 4 in the annual Newport to Ensenada Yacht Race. They will begin arriving at the seaside town south of the border on May 5, just as the traditional Cinco de Mayo celebration is in full swing. It will be Ensenada's biggest weekend of the year with gay parades, street dances and other activities designed to entertain visitors and celebrate Mexico's independence.

GOLDEN WEST Railfans plan an excursion via Santa Fe from Los Angeles to San Diego on April 22. Highlights will be a visit to Mission San Juan Capistrano and, in San Diego, a harbor boat tour and visit to the zoo. Departure from Los Angeles Union Station is at 8:30 a.m., return, 7:20 p.m. Ph. MA 8-1181 for further information or tickets.

APPOINTED district sales manager for Irish International Airlines (510 W. 6th St.), Los Angeles, James J. Murphy will have a territory which includes not only Southern California but also Arizona and New Mexico. He lives in Temple City.

WEEKEND GADABOUTS: A trainload of fresh fruit will go into elaborate displays at San Bernardino's National Orange Show, April 20-30. An actual citrus plant will be in operation and fresh juice will be sold at the world's longest bar. Top RCA cowboys will compete in the annual Sheriff's Championship Rodeo the last two days of the event.

Almost 200 riders on beautiful mounts, in Spanish and western garb, will participate in the Trabuco Canyon-to-Elsinore ride, April 22-23. Start is from O'Neil Park near Orange at 8 a.m. Saturday. The route will be over the Santa Ana mountains to Elsinore, returning Sunday.

"Behold: The Desert" will be the theme of the China Lake Wildflower Show, April 22-23. Wildflowers will be gathered from the China Lake (up Hwy. 395) area, at the edge of the huge Naval Ordnance Testing Station.

And don't forget the Long Beach Hobby Show — April 20-23—in Municipal Auditorium. Attendance last year: 56,000!

Tiny Gems of the Dog World

By Eleanor Avery Price

IT HAPPENS to everyone who goes to the Long Beach Hobby Show, eager to see the showcases of treasures and crafts that others enjoy. Then a booth right at the entrance catches the eye.

"Look at the little dogs!" you exclaim. "Did you ever see anything so cute?"

You are admiring the little live gems—Japanese spaniels—that belong to Leland and Vera Schenck, 35 Savonna Walk. Annually, for the past 10 years counting the upcoming event, these dogs are displayed at the hobby show to delight visitors with their beauty and their amusing antics.

This year the hobby show's theme is "Treasure Chest of Hobbies." Sponsored by the Recreation Commission and directed by Lois Delano, the show will take place from 1 to 10 p.m. daily from April 20-23 inclusive in the Long Beach Municipal Auditorium. There is no admission charge.

LOVING CARE goes into the hobby of raising the Schenck's pets. There have been times of great joy, hours of concern, and little moments of grief. But the Schencks have raised more

Stamp Club

Long Beach Stamp Collectors Club, Inc., will hear Murray Travis, postal services representative of the Long Beach Post Office, at a meeting at 7:30 p.m. Monday at Linden Hall, 208 Linden Ave. Travis also will display a new post office file called "Farewell Pony" and will answer questions.

Jewel poses with two of her puppies, Jade and Jasmin, Japanese spaniels owned by Leland and Vera Schenck.

than 400 Japanese spaniels in the past 16 years. They have won about 100 trophies at dog shows and finished several champions. Their dogs have appeared on TV many times and were used in two MGM movies. Mrs. Schenck has, upon request, written a booklet on Japanese spaniels that is available at small cost at pet shops and is helpful for all toy breeds.

Japanese spaniels, sometimes called Japanese Chin, were probably originated in China. Similar dogs appear on old Chinese embroidery, pottery, and temple decorations. Some authorities believe that China's emperors made gifts of the dogs to the Mikados. Others say the dogs were introduced into Japan from China by Buddhists in A.D. 552, or perhaps by Chinese ambassadors. Whatever their source, they were developed in Japan solely as pets of royalty.

When Commodore Perry opened Japan's trade to the world, his hosts presented him with some of these dogs as tokens of esteem, and this appears to be the first knowledge that the Occidental world had of the breed. In turn, Perry gave a pair to Queen Victoria of England who made the breed popular in her country. Later, Queen Alexandra took a brisk interest in the dogs, and during the Russo-Japanese war, she accented Britain's neutrality by appearing with a Russian wolfhound (borzoi) at her right side and a tiny Japanese spaniel tucked under her left arm.

Dognaping became rife when Americans demanded the toys, and departing ships smuggled contingents of spaniels. Fortunately for the purity of the breed, fanciers suddenly turned more to the Pekingese. The little Chin Chin is relatively rare in America.

The exhibition will make its way around the country.

Brady made no claim to personal authorship of the 8,000-or-so negatives in the "Brady collection." But he had the perception to recognize the historical value of photographic coverage of the Civil War and sacrificed all he owned to put the idea into action. He organized and trained photo teams, equipped the famous portable dark-rooms in horse-and-wagon for various battle areas and gathered and presented the results.

IN THE LIGHT of present-day equipment and procedures, the exhibition is a remarkable tribute to the combat cameramen of 100 years ago.

Glass plates had to be coated with light-sensitive solutions on the spot and the exposures made and processed before they could dry.

"WILDFLOWERS of the West," a motion picture, will be shown at a meeting of the Long Beach Camera Guild at 8 p.m. Monday at Los Altos Library. Visitors will be welcome. Guild winners in April competition, judged by Mrs. Leona Piety, included John Scheurer, Evelyn Richmond, Dr. Fred Modern, Murry Shaner and Chuck Haven, black and white; Esther Modern, Scheurer, J. R. Hults, Haven, Catherine Laursen and Elva Hayward, color; Don Hayward, scenic; Haven, portrait; Marian Paglow, creative, and Elva Hayward and Clara Watkins, stereo.

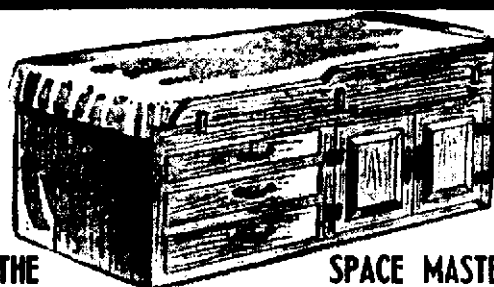

Bulky equipment, slow processing hampered Mathew Brady, Civil War cameraman, especially in photographing Navy activities. This is monitor "Onondaga" on James River.

PHOTOGRAPHY is playing an important part in the Civil War Centennial, thanks largely to Mathew Brady, the country's first photographic war historian.

The centennial observances, which will last four years, got off to a photographic start in New York City with the first showing of the Anso Civil War Centennial Exhibits, a collection of 125 photographs gathered by the

Lenten Rose: A Floral Dividend

By Joe Littlefield

GOOD INVESTMENT for a perennial that will bloom over a long period of time is lenten rose, helleborus orientalis. Although the blooming period is now under way, it normally will last into May, concluding a season that began last December. The plant may be set out now to become established for next winter as a reward to the forward-looking gardener.

We don't know of any perennial whose blossoms, when finished blooming, stiffen as if starched, natural color fades to a green shade, then continues just about as long as they did, during the flowering period. Finally, when the seed pods burst, scattering the seeds around the mother plants, the petals dry and drop off.

The seeds eventually sprout and when the plants are 18 months or so old, they will begin to bloom. The flowers rarely are the same color as the original plant.

BLOSSOMS MAY be nearly white, pink, rose to deepest plum color, variegated, or with spots at base of petals.

Plant a few helleborus orientalis and in four or five years you'll have practically a forest of them. When mother clumps are four years or so old, dig them up, divide them the same way you do peonies or day lilies and replant them.

Blossoms are good as cut flowers because they'll last four or five days indoors, if flower stalks and foliage stems are split three or four inches up so they'll draw water more easily.

Planted in full shade lenten rose is disappointing because the flower stalks are short, the plants about a foot or so tall. Therefore, plant them where they'll get filtered shade and sun throughout the day, or else where they get a couple of hours of morning or late afternoon sun. Some sun encourages the stems to reach for the light and, therefore, grow taller.

Soil should contain two parts of compost soil, leaf mold, premoistened peat moss, or planting mix mulch, mixed with three parts of garden soil. Fertilize them about four times throughout the summer. Keep them moist during hot, dry weather.

Shade and Shadow Vines

By Murtha Hurley

FOR THOSE who prefer a vine that affords a graceful composition of shade and shadow, rather than dense coverage, all through the summer months, two attractive, easy-to-grow vines are suggested.

Both are profuse bloomers, making them still more desirable.

One is the "Black-eyed Susan vine," Thunbergia alata, belonging to the botanical family known as the "Clock vines."

The other is Solanum jasminoides, known as the "White Potato Vine."

OF THE TWO, Solanum jasminoides is the taller, growing 15 to 20 feet high. It will create delicate traceries against a wall, a lacy cover above an arbor or trellis with its dainty foliage of bright green intermingled with countless ethereal looking white flowers with a soft bluish tinge.

Black-Eyed Susan vine, a native of South Africa, is an unusually pretty little climber. It may also be used as a trailing plant for ground cover, does well in hanging baskets or window boxes.

It is low-growing, reaching to 6 feet. The flowers are of yellow to orange shades, with very dark purple centers.

Shade Vines

THE TOP should be allowed to grow freely as pruning may hinder flower production.

The plants like warm, quiet locations, want plenty of room in a permanent garden bed of rich soil. They need a little shading overhead and protection from wind and require considerable moisture.

The plants are perennials and are usually started from seeds sown directly into the garden bed where they are to develop.

SOLANUM JASMINOIDES is usually purchased already started in gallon cans, it belongs to an important group of free-flowering tropical vines growing in the woods of Paraguay and Argentina.

The plants prosper in light, moist, well-drained soils.

White flowers tinged with blue grow profusely upon the "White Potato Vine."

Good drainage is imperative. The plants are tender to frost, dropping their leaves in cold weather and in wind.

New Book for Gardeners

Informative guide for neophyte and veteran gardeners, Better Homes and Gardens Garden Book (Meredith $4.95) has appeared in a completely revised edition of a publication that met with wide favor in its first release in 1951.

Indexed and loose-leaved, the 520 pages contain 1,200 illustrations in both black and white and color. Early chapters are devoted to planning and landscaping, followed in logical sequence with the how and when of planting and advice on the care of lawns, shrubs and trees. The volume is written on a national scope but with regional needs in mind. Southern Californians will find one lawn factor missing—data for dichondra. However, chapters on today's tools, methods and materials and other good features more than offset this minor lapse.

Keep Your Garden 'In the Pink'

Tools are an important factor in garden upkeep. Bulb planter makes this job quick and easy.

By Bob Gilmore

SUCCESSFUL gardening may be divided into two separate categories: planting and maintenance. The former is certainly more fun than the latter. Yet, how you treat your plants after getting them into the ground will very likely determine how long they stay there.

Adequate garden maintenance is essential now for plants are entering their most active growing season. Lacking proper support from the caretaker they will fail to attain their normal and maximum growth. Sufficient food and water must be applied at regular intervals throughout the growing season. Dumping a pound of fertilizer on an ornamental at planting time, then considering the matter finished is of little value.

HOW AND WHEN to water are local problems, the exact timing must be learned through experience. Factors involved are temperature, exposure, humidity, wind, type of plant and moisture retaining qualities of the soil. Generally speaking, light soils, such as sandy ones, should be watered moderately and at frequent intervals. Heavy soils, because they retain moisture longer, require heavier dosages but at less frequent intervals.

How to water is just as important as when. Make certain that sprinkler heads are kept clean and clear of debris. Small particles of dirt may lodge in the tiny orifices, thus interfering with proper distribution of water. This may result in dry spots developing and grass located there will die out. You should clean out these sprinkler heads every so often.

CULTIVATION IS an ancient garden practice that is of value to gardeners as well as farmers. Several benefits arise from intelligent cultivation which is nothing more or less than tilling or churning the soil. Shallow cultivation is probably best as it will not disturb surface roots. Churn the top of the soil after irrigating around flower beds but wait until the soil has settled somewhat. Do not cultivate when the soil is wet or it will pack and form clods.

Weeds can be cut down by regular cultivation. It is easier to eradicate these pests while they are young. Once established they may be difficult to root out; also in the meantime they will have robbed your ornamentals of their necessary food and drink. Aeration is improved by regular cultivation and a soil mulch may be provided in this manner.

VINE-LIKE PLANTS are now putting out a tremendous amount of growth. Leading stems that have outgrown their bounds should be supported firmly on the trellis or trimmed off. Vines that are allowed to grow may topple over, thus ruining an expensive plant.

Light pruning need not be restricted to any particular season. From time to time it may be necessary to thin out growth that is causing the plant to become too dense. Also, diseased wood should be removed as soon as it can be identified. Boxwood hedges and other comparable specimens should be trimmed at regular intervals to preserve their best appearance.

Theme of the show is "Galaxy of Stars." Arrangements are being directed by Mrs. Cecil Houdyshel of LaVerne, president of the society, and Mrs. R. C. Rathbone of Norco.

SOLUTION TO TODAY'S PUZZLE (See Page 38)

By Dorothy Jonson

In April we can expect the continued attack of aphids, and the first onslaught of such chewing insects as Fuller's rose beetle, the grayish brown beetle whose body tapers toward the head and ends in a broad snout or beak. This beetle, like many other so-called "chewers," eats irregular areas away from the margin of the leaves of your roses, camellias and other flowering shrubs. Some "chewers" eat holes right out of the center of the leaves and a few eat out the blossoms themselves.

In order to "double kill" both chewers and suckers, I recommend a combination of Malathion and Dieldrin as the best possible remedy. Malathion kills immediately and Dieldrin lingers in the form of an invisible residue and continues to kill for a long period of time. In fact, there is nothing I know of so effective in getting rid of the various destructive insects that infest your shrubbery and flower gardens at this time of year.

Married women are sharing this secret

... the new, easier, surer protection for those most intimate marriage problems

What a blessing to be able to trust in the wonderful germicidal protection Norforms can give you. Norforms have a highly perfected new formula that releases anti-septic and germicidal ingredients with long-lasting action. The exclusive new base melts at body temperature, forming a powerful protective film that guards (but will not harm) the delicate tissues.

And Norforms' deodorant protection has been tested in a hospital clinic and found to be more effective than anything it had ever used. Norforms eliminate (rather than cover up) embarrassing odors, yet have no "medicine" or "disinfectant" odor themselves.

And what convenience! These small feminine suppositories are so easy and convenient to use. Just insert—no apparatus, mixing or measuring. They're greaseless and they keep in any climate.

Now available in new packages of 6, as well as 12 and 24. Also available in Canada.

Tested by doctors... trusted by women... proved in hospital clinics

Heavenly

NOW WHAT do you suppose Chicken Grand Mere is?

Shucks, that's an easy one. The words "grand mere" are French for grandmother. And roast chicken better than grandmother ever dreamed of making will be the featured French dish today at Restaurant Alfred, 700 E. 45th St., near Atlantic Ave.

Pierre Bardet, master French chef who has been associated with owner Alfred Cornwell for 15 years, bastes his chicken carefully in its own fine juices, adding tiny onions, fresh mushrooms and heavenly herbs. The result is a mouth-watering delight which turns grandmothers, both French and American, slightly green with envy. It will be featured from 3 p.m. to midnight today for $2.85 on a fine complete dinner which will include the remarkably generous revolving hors d'oeuvres tray, soup du jour or superb salad, vegetable, fancy potato and beverage.

AMONG THE OTHER extremely fine continental entrees on that dinner (priced from $2.65 up) are poussin Alfred (boned squab chicken); grenadine filets of beef; escaloped of veal princess; filets of fresh sole trouvilleaise (the sole is prepared with small shrimps), and braised steak St. Pierre.

The fanciest desserts in town are rolled to the guests' tables on Alfred's handsome pastry cart. They are prepared by pastry chef Jean Stadelmann, recently arrived from Paris.

Restaurant Alfred, which attracts the patronage of the Southland's finest wine and food societies, is also noted for its thoughtful service. Alfred's dozen waitresses are carefully schooled in the techniques of serving continental cuisine in the leisurely but attentive European manner. All know the various ingredients which go into Chef Bardet's unusual dishes and they also know the preparation time of each entree.

CRY VENGEANCE

Sal Mineo in Tuesday TV Special

By DICK KLEINER

NEW YORK (NEA)—The Sal Mineo you'll see on the big special, "Cry Vengeance," at 10 p.m. Tuesday, channel 4, is a far cry from the Sal Mineo you used to see on TV . . . he has taken the bull by the echo chamber and completely given up singing.

"I wish I'd never made a record," 22-year-old Sal says. "People didn't take me seriously as an actor.

"The records kept leading to TV singing jobs—in one season, I did 12 variety shows. And I suddenly realized that people who just watched TV variety shows would only know me as a singer.

"THE WAY I was going was OK, if I just wanted to make a lot of money. I could have done a TV series and I could have made some more of those delinquent movies. But I wanted to act—really act.

"The only trouble is my fans. Most of them don't understand. They keep writing, asking me why don't I make some more records.

"I'd like them all to realize that this is something I have to do. I want to be recognized as an actor, not a personality.

"I THINK some of my fans understand. And those that do are proud of my decision. It used to be if they told their parents they were Sal Mineo fans, they would be kind of ashamed of admitting it. I just played juvenile delinquents and sang rock 'n' roll.

"But now they can tell their parents without being ashamed. They can point to 'Exodus' and 'Cry Vengeance' and other good things I've been doing lately."

IN THE TUESDAY TV special, Sal plays the role of Andrea, a bandit from the mountains of Sicily.

Bert's Eye View

By BERT RESNIK
TV and Radio Editor

Ernie Kovacs has watched television four times in the past two years.

Watching TV is a luxury he can't afford. It's not the price of a television set that he can't afford. He has 11 sets, including three color.

It's simply that he can't afford the time. He's too busy writing, studying scripts and playing cards. "Anything for money," he said without giving any indication whether he made more money writing, studying or playing cards.

The four programs he watched were Omnibus, one in which his wife, Edie Adams, was starred, one of his own and "Cuba, Communism and Castro," aired last week by channel 11 (KTTV).

Kovacs was in Cuba making a movie for two months after Castro came into power.

HE AND OTHER THEATRICAL notables were summoned one evening to visit the Cuban dictator.

They were taken to a small cottage adjoining a confiscated beach home where Castro was staying.

From the cottage, they could see into Castro's quarters.

"We waited and watched for two hours while he (Castro) alternately combed his hair and then his beard.

"Finally, Noel Coward and I agreed that, when Castro came in, we would ignore him.

"We never got the chance.

"After three hours, they sent us home when Castro changed his mind about seeing us."

THE OCCASION FOR KOVACS' Cuba discourse was a multi-course luncheon—lobster salad, prime rib and French pastry—which he hosted at ABC-TV's Hollywood headquarters.

The luncheon was a prelude to a press showing of a Kovacs' special which airs 10:30 p. m. Thursday on channel 7.

In luncheon person, Kovacs appears more handsome than the elephantine pixie he usually portrays on the TV screen.

The perpetual Scotch on the rocks in front of him is more often untasted than tasted. His equally perpetual cigar is more often unlit than lighted.

In discussing his special, he said:

"We worked 27 consecutive hours putting it together. That's a lot of effort expended with, as you will notice, little success."

PART OF THOSE 27 HOURS were put in because a 30-cents drummer monkey failed to beat in the expected time. There was a hole in the bulb that activated the toy.

Because of the unnoticed hole, the whole sequence had to be re-shot.

Before the preview came on, Kovacs commented:

"Good lunch. Bad show."

He was wrong.

Not about the lunch. It was excellent.

But so was the show.

Excellent with a satire style that is purely Kovacs.

For example: One scene shows a lumberjack laboriously chopping a tree. At about the time the viewer expects the tree to fall, the stump does.

Kovacs has three more specials planned.

I'm looking forward to them—even with lobster salad.

Pat Boone Makes Self 'Scarce'

By VERNON SCOTT

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Pat Boone makes his only television appearance of the season Thursday (channel 7 at 8:30 p.m.) in his current fight against overexposure.

Two years ago the teenage idol was bombarding the public with a weekly TV show, movies, recordings, personal appearances, books on teenage manners and a monthly column in a national magazine.

"I was forcing myself on people from all angles," he admitted.

"Fortunately I was lucky in all mediums. But how long could it go on?"

"I was practically dressing and undressing in public, until I began to wonder how people could take it any longer."

★ ★ ★
"I HAD to decide whether to go into a fourth year of TV or make myself scarce and concentrate on movies and records."

With the help of Col. Tom Parker (Elvis Presley's canny manager) and Bing Crosby, Pat bowed out of television.

"Tom used to call me on the phone and give me advice all the time," the 26-year-old singer explained.

"He suggested I leave TV right away, adding that I should never give away anything I'm trying to sell. I realized that my record sales had dropped off when my TV show was going well."

"He also pointed out that Elvis had done only three or four TV programs in his entire career to avoid overexposure."

★ ★ ★
"THEN I THOUGHT about Jackie Gleason, Sid Caesar and Milton Berle—some of the great ones. No performer can last on TV forever."

"I was 23 years old and, at best, maybe I could hope for 10 years of TV success. By the time I would be 33 I'd have to go into hibernation."

Pat had been warned by old groaner Crosby back in 1957 when the young singer first beamed his half-hour show.

"Bing wrote me a letter, although we'd never met," Pat said. "He told me he would never do a weekly show and quoted George M. Cohan's famous words, 'Never stay on too long. The best way to stick around in show business is to be good, be brief and be scarce.'" and over again. Bing was the closest I ever came to having an idol. Well, I finally got his message."

"I READ that letter over

PAT BOONE and guest star Dorothy Provine relax during rehearsal break for "Pat Boone Show" at 8:30 p. m. Thursday, channel 7.

Last spring Pat dropped the TV show and starred in two pictures, "Journey to the Center of the Earth" and "All Hands on Deck."

Parade's special INTELLIGENCE REPORT

Full-feature films will be shown air passengers on long flights.

SEAT BELTS AT COST. Chrysler is making safety seat belts available to its dealers at cost, has recommended that its dealers offer them to all car-owners on a non-profit basis.

TOO MUCH SCOTCH. There is more Scotch whiskey in Scotland than the Scotch know what to do with. Latest figures show 300 million gallons in storage. Largest buyers are Americans, who consume 12 million gallons a year. If supply and demand had anything to do with it, the price of Scotch in this country should be way down, which it's not.

PEACE CORPS. President Kennedy's Peace Corps may be a new wrinkle in the U.S.A., but in Great Britain it's old hat. Since 1958 a British youth organization called Voluntary Service Overseas has been sending volunteers to 25 overseas countries where they teach, help out in youth clubs, work with doctors and nurses.

NEGRO POPULATION. Since 1950 the Negro population in the U.S.A. has increased 25 per cent. There now are approximately 18,872,000 Negroes here. Largest concentration in a major city is in New York, which has a Negro population of 1,417,511. The two states to which Negroes are migrating most rapidly: New York and California.

MORE TRIALS. To show the world it intends neither to forgive nor forget the worst of the Nazi war crimes, the West German authorities are prepared, following the Eichmann trial, to try more than 500 ex-Gestapo officials, also 28 of the most sadistic offenders from Eichmann's camp at Auschwitz.

WHAT MAKES JFK RUN? President Kennedy's electric energy has transformed the White House into a dynamo. He works at a pace that wears out his aides, keeps his fingers on problems that second-run subordinates used to handle. He has a voracious appetite for facts, digests reports at 1,200 words a minute. He dislikes government gobbledegook, sends meaningless memos back for rewriting, scribbles criticisms in an almost illegible hand. Example: "This cable is not consistent with another I just read. What's the story?" The President also pursues facts by phone around the world or down to the lowest bureaucrat. The story is told of a woman researcher who received a phone call ordering changes in a memo she had written. Not recognizing the voice, she asked who was calling. "This is the President," the voice said. She laughed at the joke, hung up the phone in disbelief. A moment later it rang again. "This IS the President," the voice insisted, "and I want these changes made." What keeps JFK going? Mostly it is Kennedy's zest and zeal. But doctors say his restless energy is also a symptom of adrenal insufficiency, which he suffers in a mild form.

MOVIES ABOVE THE CLOUDS. Before the year is out Trans World Airlines will show feature movies on its coast-to-coast and international runs. Other airlines will undoubtedly follow suit. The French started this innovation.

INDIAN DRINKING. The culture of our Southwestern Indians--Apache, Navajo and Pueblo--is facing disintegration. The disrupting factor is drunkenness. Government officials now insist upon teaching young Indians the dangers of alcohol, plan an extensive program of prevention and rehabilitation.

A lot of HOPES

at a long-deferred family reunion

SAYS BOB HOPE: "Above you see the six Hope brothers, all gallant Knights of the Round Table. To be absolutely truthful this is one of the very few times I've seen all of them together myself. The reason why I don't see them too often is they're just as happy getting it by mail. There were six of us brothers and five diapers—Mother was a quick-change artist. Jack is the producer of my TV show—he's worth a minus 10 points in my rating any time. Fred is a butcher—he's sold his thumbs ten thousand times. George is the youngest and the family pet. My mother wanted him to go to Yale. My father wanted him to go to grammar school. I came to America at the age of 1 because I didn't feel I was getting anywhere."

THE QUESTIONS OF ADOLESCENCE

Will long hair make me look older...
How should I dress...
What about dates... ?

Trivial questions—and big, important ones. Such is the state of mind of the half-girl, half-woman. And of course she turns to the one person who's always known all the answers to her questions; she turns to her mother.

What mothers can tell their daughters about internal sanitary protection

Tampax is made of soft, pure surgical cotton, highly compressed. Insertion by means of a satin-smooth applicator is easy, and because Tampax absorbs internally, there is no odor, no chafing. In fact, Tampax® can't even be felt, when inserted properly.

Tampax never hampers freedom of action. It is possible to swim or bathe wearing Tampax; it does not absorb water from the outside. Millions of girls have used billions of Tampax since it was first invented by a doctor over twenty-five years ago for the benefit of all women—married or single.

Users say Tampax is a better way—nicer, cleaner, cooler, more convenient. The high reputation of the product is unquestioned. It sells and is used in over 75 countries throughout the world.

PERSONALITY PARADE

Q. Two questions, please, about Jackie Kennedy, the President's wife: 1) Is she a Roman Catholic? 2) How much was her starting salary as inquiring photographer for the Washington Times-Herald? —B.P., Newark, N.J.

A. Mrs. Kennedy is a member of the Roman Catholic Church. Her starting salary at the newspaper was $42.50 a week.

Q. Is it true that when Eliot Ness died in 1957 his estate was valued at less than $500? —V.K., New York, N.Y.

A. True.

Q. How old is actress Lucille Ball? —Denise Richards, Chicago, Ill.

A. Lucille Ball is 50.

Q. Can you tell me if the Krupp steel consortium of West Germany does business with the Russians? —T. Roberts, Washington, D.C.

A. Yes. Krupp does business wherever it can, is currently building a synthetic fibre plant for the Russians, and negotiating another $50 million in additional business in the U.S.S.R.

Q. President Kennedy's choice for U.S. Ambassador to Japan was Professor Edwin Reischauer of Harvard. Doesn't Reischauer have a Japanese wife? —T.R., Cambridge, Mass.

A. Yes. Mrs. Reischauer is the former Haru Matsukata. She is the granddaughter of the late elder Japanese statesman, Prince Matsukata.

Q. Brigitte Bardot tried suicide. Marilyn Monroe had an emotional upset. Elizabeth Taylor came down with double pneumonia. Is this what screen success does to women? —George Blye, Miami, Fla.

A. Screen success does not assure good physical and mental health.

Q. Who said of women: "The most beautiful are the Chinese... the dullest are the British... the worst are the Italian and the French... the most demanding are the Americans"? —George Segouris, Los Angeles, Calif.

A. Cornelius Vanderbilt, Jr.

Q. Laurence Harvey was married to Margaret Leighton. How old is each? —Pamela H., Buffalo, N.Y.

A. Harvey is 31; his former wife, 39.

Q. Is it correct that Great Britain's wartime King George VI objected to General Montgomery's wearing of a beret during the North African campaign? —David Gershon, San Diego, Calif.

A. He did, but Montgomery explained he wore the beret not for self-advertisement but so that his troops might recognize their leader.

Q. Who is the author of the quotation: "No one grows old by living—only by losing interest in living"? —Doris Frank, Newark, N.J.

A. Authoress Marie Ray.

Jacqueline Kennedy

Edwin Reischauer

Liz Taylor

Eliot Ness

Lucille Ball

Laurence Harvey

Q. Dr. Janet Travell—is she or is she not the first woman physician to attend a President in the White House? —Helen Patterson, Denver, Colo.

A. She is not. First such female physician was Dr. Susan Ann Edson who attended President James A. Garfield after he was shot by Charles J. Guiteau on July 2, 1881. Dr. Edson looked after President Garfield until he died on September 19, 1881. In the records, however, she is listed as chief nurse, although she was graduated from the Cleveland, Ohio, Homeopathic Medical College in 1854.

Q. How many times has Henry R. Luce of Time-Life been married? —H.L., Boston, Mass.

A. Twice.

Q. Recently I saw a picture of Burt Lancaster. He was as bald as a billiard ball. Is this observation correct? —Mrs. Patrick Armstrong, Richmond Hill, N.Y.

A. Lancaster had his head shaved for the filming of Birdman of Alcatraz.

Q. When Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt was First Lady, is it true she refused to have a Secret Service agent follow her? —Olive Truesdale, Washington, D.C.

A. She wanted no Secret Service agent at any time.

Caramel Pecan Pie

with NEW CARAMEL Jell-O Instant Pudding

CARAMEL PECAN PIE

Pastry dough for 8-inch pie shell

1 cup corn syrup • 1 package Jell-O Caramel Instant Pudding

$\frac{3}{4}$  cup Borden's Silver Cow Evaporated Milk

1 egg, slightly beaten • 1 cup chopped pecans

Roll pastry dough about  $\frac{1}{8}$ -inch thick and fit into an 8-inch pie pan. Blend syrup with pudding mix in bowl. Gradually add evaporated milk and egg, stirring to blend. Add pecans and pour into the unbaked pie shell. Bake in moderate oven (375°F.) until pie is set, about 45 minutes. Serves 6 to 8 . . . and tastes like a party. The laurels will be yours! Try it and see.

WHO ARE WASHINGTON'S 'BIG SHOTS'?

by JACK ANDERSON Parade Washington correspondent

A man's importance is measured in part by the acreage of his office. The vast opulent-looking office shown above belongs to a Cabinet member—Luther Hodges, Secretary of Commerce.

WASHINGTON, D.C.

PERIODICALLY, SOME NEW DEVICE is tried out here to shoo starlings from the eaves of Government buildings. The startled birds rise fluttering and twittering, then settle back after the alarm is past. Much the same effect was produced on the bureaucrats, bigwigs and brass hats by President Kennedy's announcement that he would judge them by their accomplishments, not their accouterments. But, like the starlings, they have now returned to roost among their status symbols.

Such symbols are held sacred by stuffed shirts who, as evidence, perhaps, that hot air rises, often ascend to high office. Their VIP standing is determined in exacting detail by office acreage, plushness, furniture array and limousine service. It is disclosed, too, by their dining, parking, washroom and elevator privileges. Whether they sip water from a silver decanter, brown plastic jug or water fountain in the corridor is another sign of status.

This protocol extends even to dog tags, the lower numbers going to the pooches of the prominent. During the Eisenhower years, Vice President Nixon was able to claim Tag No. 2 for his dog, Checkers. FBI chief J. Edgar Hoover still holds Tags 3 and 4 for his pets. The No. 1 tag in Washington dogdom is reserved for a miniature French poodle belonging to District Commissioner Fred Clarke. (He issues the tags.)

A bureaucrat's office provides the real clue to his importance. Is it large enough, say, for a game of touch football? Is there a trim of woodwork around the walls? What color is the rug, and how thick is it? Does the office contain a king-size desk? a flag stand? a sofa big enough for taking naps? These are the things to watch for.

For sheer size and splendor, few grand ballrooms can compare with a Cabinet member's office. Secretary of State Dean Rusk's sumptuous suite, for instance, not only could accommodate a United Nations conference, it also has a television, an electric cooking range and washroom-shower facilities.

Secretary Rusk and his two Undersecretaries, Chester Bowles and George Ball, pace on beige carpets of luxurious thickness. Deputy Undersecretaries walk on brown and black rugs. Assistant Secretaries have green rugs, their deputies common gray. It takes at least an Assistant Secretary to rate foam rubber padding underneath.

The Pentagon Yardstick

In the Pentagon, status works outward from the interior "A" ring of the five-sided building. Advancement is measured by progress towards the outer "E" ring, which the top brass inhabit. The civilian chiefs (Assistant Secretaries and above) are entitled to a fresh paint job and new, wall-to-wall carpeting when they move in. But the real yardstick is a three-foot trim of woodwork around the walls. Enter a Pentagon office with this executive paneling, and you are dealing with a man of consequence.

On Capitol Hill, seniority governs all status. This starts a great game of "musical offices" after each election takes its toll of senior solons. Those who gain in seniority move to better offices, causing a chain reaction all the way down the line.

Congressional seniority is worked out to the last decimal point. Take the case of Sen. Clinton Anderson (D., N.M.), a heart patient, who coveted a ground-floor office. He sought one vacated this year by outgoing Sen. James Murray (D., Mont.), who ranked

brass hats, bureaucrats

fourth in seniority. But Anderson was far down the list. He asked Senate Rules Chairman Carl Hayden (D., Ariz.) for special consideration, and Hayden urged all Senators outranking Anderson to waive their privilege.

All agreed except Sen. Margaret Chase Smith, the lady from Maine, who was sworn into the Senate the same day as Anderson. But Maine was admitted to the Union before New Mexico, which gave Mrs. Smith a slight seniority edge.

When Sen. Olin Johnston (D., S.C.) heard about the situation, he snorted that he couldn't let a Republican displace a Democrat—lady or not. So he withdrew his waiver and pulled his higher seniority on Mrs. Smith.

Senators, old or new, are Olympian. They can command any Senate elevator by ringing three times. Every operator knows this summons. Doors are slammed, and the elevator swoops up or down—with complete disregard for all other passengers—to answer the call. One hapless tourist was trapped for 26 minutes as an elevator dashed up and down during a Senate roll call.

Senators Ride the Subway

When the new Senate Office Building was opened last year, there was a crisis because the builder had installed elevator buttons that lit up. One ring would light the button; the other two didn't register. Thus the unhappy operators could never tell whether the call was from a Senator—or some lesser human, like a taxpayer. The problem was solved by reserving extra elevators for the exclusive use of Senators.

Subway cars, which run between the Senate Office Building and the Capitol, are also subject to peremptory summons. By ringing a special bell, a Senator can bring the car to a screeching halt. Once the Senator is seated, he is whisked off to his destination—no matter how many people may be left behind. Representatives have a subway corridor between the House offices and the Capitol. But since their status is lower, they are obliged to walk.

Most Cabinet officers have private elevators, running in some cases from limousine to office. Secretary of State Dean Rusk keeps his elevator locked, distributes keys to a few favored aides. Possession of a key to the Secretary's elevator is top status. At the Pentagon, only the highest ranks ride the elevators; all others use escalators.

Cabinet officers are permitted to use their limousines for private as well as business purposes. Their wives often are taken to the supermarket in sumptuous style. This is a sore point with Senators and Supreme Court justices, who have no standing at the Government motor pool.

Only the Chief Justice, House Speaker and Senate and House leaders are entitled to limousine service. Others, though they outrank chauffeur-driven Assistant Secretaries, pilot their own cars and console themselves with low-number license plates.

Next to a limousine, a parking sticker is the most prized badge of distinction. The State Department provides one parking space for every eight employees. The situation is worse outside other Government buildings. The Commerce Department, for example, has 140 parking spaces for more than 3,000 applicants.

The worst sticklers for protocol are the brass hats. Gen. Lyman Lemnitzer, Chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, recently gave explicit orders to the Army, Navy and Air Force chiefs that where group photographs are signed, his signature must appear first. He also specified that their signatures should follow the same slant.

Among lesser brass, there is a great stir over who should be allowed to embellish his hat with "scrambled-egg" designs. Time was when no one below Navy captain or Army or Air Force colonel could wear this golden scroll. Then the Navy opened the privilege to commanders. The Army responded by authorizing scrambled-egg hats for majors. Now status seekers in the Air Force are demanding equal hat privileges.

Army vs. Navy

The advent of a Navy man in the White House has given naval officers extra cachet. The effect is most notable at the Naval Medical Center, which has redecorated the 17th floor tower suite in anticipation that the President will prefer naval facilities. Former President Eisenhower, an Army man, always used the Army's Walter Reed Hospital.

Now some of Walter Reed's civilian customers, seeking more status, are moving over to the Naval Medical Center.

Civilian social climbers are flocking to Georgetown with its restored colonial homes and lumpy brick sidewalks. Always a prestige address, it became more prestigious than ever after John F. Kennedy became President. A red-brick row house across from Kennedy's sold for $70,000, despite its need for extensive repair. The extra $20,000 above its real value was paid for the view of the former Kennedy house.

One Georgetown house owner, a Democrat, kicked out Republican Sen. Kenneth Keating of New York after the election. She explained it was to make good a campaign promise. Grumbled Keating: "The Democrats certainly have the courage of their evictions."

Women are blossoming out in Jackie Kennedy dress styles and hair-do's; a few are even having their noses bobbed to resemble Jackie's. In Ike's day, big businessmen were all the rage. Now college professors are on the rise. And any Navy man who ever set foot on a PT boat with Lieutenant Kennedy, or a week-end guest who once played touch football with the Kennedy boys has a claim to distinction.

Yet the President himself cares little for protocol. His own office is smaller than those of his Assistant Secretaries. He has allotted White House space without regard for who is important. The finest office next to his own (formerly occupied by Sherman Adams) went to Special Presidential Assistant Ralph Dungan. Yet at least half a dozen aides outrank Dungan in salary and authority. The President also asked his aides to submit memos on their transportation problems, assigned limousines to those who needed them most.

But Washington is a city devoted to status and form. Some 93 ambassadors and ministers suffer ordeal-by-cocktail because protocol requires them to call on each other and to attend the parties they must give on national holidays. The status seekers and protocol pedants no doubt will cling to their symbols. ■

Silver decanter and flags behind desk are status symbols of political upper crust. Lesser lights drink water out of brown plastic jugs or hallway fountains. Sofas and wall paneling also symbolize VIP status. At left is office of Wilbur Cohen, Assistant Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare.

Sen. Alexander Wiley (L.) pushes button to summon subway car, which will come promptly, while non-Senators wait. Limousine (above) is for exclusive use of Secretary of State Dean Rusk. Chauffeur James R. Warren has driven for 11 Secretaries of State.

good tricks with tricky toddlers

bringing up baby hints

Collected by Mrs. Dan Gerber,
Mother of 3

It's the rare and unusual toddler who doesn't have a temper tantrum from time to time. (And if he finds it's effective, he'll be tricky enough to use it when he wants his way.) A few ways to sidetrack tantrums:

- ♥ Plenty of rest. Do not let baby get over-tired or over-stimulated before bedtime.
- ♥ A sense of freedom. Outdoors or indoors, a toddler should have a chance to play under watchful but not nagging supervision.
- ♥ Try to avoid situations that are likely to produce tantrums. Use distraction when storm signals do appear.
- ♥ When the tempest is over, let your child know you love him.

Toddlers, creepers or babes-in-arms all benefit from fruits and vegetables for the vitamins and minerals they supply. Gerber Strained and Junior Fruits and Vegetables are specially made to make your tykes like to eat these important foods. What's more, they're cooked in the absence of air to preserve the utmost in nutritive goodness.

If your baby or toddler is going through an anti-milk stage, you can get extra milk into a reluctant drinker by serving Gerber Custard Puddings, Cottage Cheese with Pineapple and putting extra milk on Gerber Cereals.

Cover story for cherubs. Gerber Baby Pants are made of soft, soft, polyvinyl film that won't stiffen for the life of the pants. Ample cut to allow for wiggle room and growth. Machine washable; medium, large, extra-large.

If you were a movie producer would you...

- TRY HER OUT IN A MUSICAL?
- MAKE HER SWEET OR NAUGHTY?
- GIVE HER A LEAD OR A BIT?

HOLLYWOOD. HARRY COHN, the late benevolent despot who ran Columbia Pictures, had a favorite exaggeration: "I can take any girl and make her a movie star."

Cohn's most frequent example of "any girl" was Kim Novak.

"First time I watched her," he rasped to me in Honolulu, "she showed as much acting talent as a fly. She was so broad in the beam, you could've used her for a handball court. But we thinned her down, bleached her hair, gave her the buildup, and you know the rest."

If Hollywood can do that to "any girl," what can it do to a young, beautiful Swedish-American brunette who can sing and dance, who exudes wholesome sex appeal, who looks as if she spent every night of her life on a bed of mint, who generates a bright and warm personality, who is probably the most photogenic young lovely the film colony has come across since Ingrid Bergman arrived here more than 20 years ago?

The possessor of all these attributes—5 feet 4¾, 115 lbs., green eyes, dark brown hair with reddish highlights, a choice figure which measures 35, 21, 34—is Ann Margret of Wilmette, Illinois.

A few weeks ago, Ann, who will be 20 on April 28, was signed to a screen contract by 20th Century-Fox. Her starting salary: $300 a week.

Not that Fox had anything particular in mind for Ann. In fact, that studio had just disbanded its training school for young players. But in the words of one studio executive: "This kid was just too good to let out on the open market. Her screen test revealed so much potential that we just had to sign her. Now, of course, we have the problem of what to do with her."

In motion pictures this can be a problem indeed.

Costly Goofs

Every studio at one time or another has miscast a young actress or overlooked her or dropped her at the wrong time, much to its later regret.

Marilyn Monroe is a classic example. Twentieth Century had her under original contract, assigned her a bit in a movie entitled Scudda Hoo, Scudda Hay, then cut the part out and fired her. Years later she was hired back at a much higher salary.

Clark Gable was turned down at Warner Brothers. His ears stuck out.

So much depends on the correctness of the first casting. If a producer does it with care and forethought, if he gambles and the gamble pays off, then he's got it made. He has a star on his hands. A case in point is Audrey Hepburn. Eight years ago Willie Wyler assigned this ex-chorus girl the lead in Roman Holiday. Paramount has had a star ever since.

Before you decide, study her photos and consider her background.

Ann Margret's full name is Ann Margret Olson. She was born in Stockholm of Swedish parents, spent her first five years in a small Swedish town, Valsjöbyn.

When she was six, she and her mother emigrated to Fox Lake, Illinois, a community 40 miles northwest of Chicago. Her father, Gustav, an electrician, had previously gone there from Stockholm.

Year at College

Ann Margret attended grade schools in Fox Lake and Wilmette, later transferred to New Trier High School in Winnetka, and put in one year at Northwestern University.

Last year she left college temporarily to devote all her time to show business, "a career I've always wanted."

Ann has been dancing since she was 7, has taken vocal lessons since she was 13, has sung with orchestras and combos, has appeared on TV, has worked Newport, Reno and Las Vegas, has played Europe for the USO.

She sings so well that RCA-Victor has put her under contract, and her records are currently being played by disc jockeys throughout the country.

Her voice is trained, breathy, gimmicky and pleasant. She has had no dramatic training to speak of. But this has never been a prerequisite of screen success. What counts most is personality. Ann is loaded with it.

She is the type of winning girl for whom men go all-out. She has yet to meet a man who doesn't want to help her. Ann, a complete unknown, auditioned for George Burns a few months ago. He signed her immediately for his Las Vegas act at the Sahara. Bob Goldstein, production chief at 20th Century-Fox, spoke to her for a few moments, then said, "How would you like a screen test?" Jack Benny caught her act, put her on his TV show.

Dick Peirce, West Coast artist and repertoire representative for RCA-Victor, met Ann, decided that he would personally supervise her recording sessions. She has boy friends scattered throughout the country who have hitch-hiked thousands of miles to see her perform.

According to Perry Lieber, veteran studio publicist, "Ann Margret arouses both protective and predatory instincts in a man. Young men look at her and think of her as a potential wife. Old men regard her as a daughter. Women like her because she hides her ceaseless, driving ambition under a cloak of humble non-competitiveness.

"There are no unkind words in her vocabulary and seemingly no unkind thoughts in her mind. She seems mild and soft until she starts to sing. And then, brother! Watch out. She smoulders. She comes alive."

Lead or Bit Part

With Ann Margret's photos and the above report to go by, what suggestions do you have for her screen career? Should she be given the lead in her very first picture? Should she be brought along slowly with bit parts? Should she play a tramp? Should she play a sweet young thing? Should she do a musical or a straight dramatic role?

The studio is thinking of casting her in its third re-make of State Fair. This story was originally made in 1933 with Will Rogers and Janet Gaynor. It was again made in 1945 with Dana Andrews and Jeanne Crain. It's coming up again with Pat Boone and Arthur Godfrey—and perhaps Ann Margret. What do you think?

Whatever your suggestion, 20th Century is interested. If you care to, drop a line to Harry Brand, 20th Century-Fox Films, Beverly Hills, Calif.

BIKINIS for BABIES

A BIKINI BATHING SUIT is two pieces of fabric that can look sensationally immodest when draped around a grown-up girl. But on the little girls who'll wear bikinis this summer, these tiny two-piece suits will look modest. In fact, a bikini is a prudish garment when worn by a 2-year-old.

The toddler set is the latest to adopt bikinis—and on them it looks cute. In a way, it's also a practical idea. The bikinis for little girls are made with adjustable bows, or elastic, so that they can last through a couple of seasons' growth.

Boys' beachwear, meanwhile, is off in the opposite direction. Little boys will be wearing longer pants, more jackets and full-cut briefs.

"...An Unquiet Evil Full of Deadly Poison"

Man tames the beasts and birds and serpents of the earth.

He puts a bit into the mouth of the horse and the powerful beast obeys his every command. He turns the mightiest ships into the strongest winds by means of a small helm. He fires rockets into the vast outer space, seeking ways to control elements whose nature he can only guess at. Day by day, he expands his dominion over the things that govern and affect his way of life.

Yet, a little thing defies him. For, as St. James the Apostle has said, "...the tongue no man can tame."

Truly, as the Apostle said, the human tongue is "a thing of fire" ... "a world of iniquity" ... "an unquiet evil, full of deadly poison." It may in one moment shape the words of a reverent prayer, and in the next give voice to an ugly profanity, an evil vulgarity, a wanton blasphemy. "Out of the same mouth," St. James declared, "proceedeth blessing and cursing ... these things ought not so to be."

Right-thinking people of every faith are disturbed at today's widespread prevalence of profanity ... at the astonishing disrespect for the Holy Name of God ... at the easier toleration of the suggestive story and smutty humor. They are especially concerned because the offenders include many people who believe in God but seem unaware of the true meaning of His Second Commandment.

Millions of Catholic men all over the world ... many of them

Knights of Columbus ... are united in a vast organization called the Holy Name Society. Its chief purpose is to foster reverence for the sacred Name of Jesus Christ ... to promote chastity of speech ... to unite men in a pledge against perjury, blasphemy, profanity and obscene speech.

You don't have to be a Catholic, of course, or a member of the Holy Name Society, to love Jesus Christ and to respect His Name. But it may help you to fight these evils more effectively if you will take the time to read a little pamphlet that we will send you free upon your request.

It deals not only with the "unquiet evil" of the human tongue, but with God's clear-cut laws on sex, honesty, falsehoods, lust, greed and other problems that human flesh is heir to. Just fill in the coupon below and drop it into the mail today. The pamphlet will be sent promptly ... in a plain wrapper ... and nobody will call on you. Ask for Pamphlet No. PR-12.

A noted expert studies the handwriting of the world's leaders THEIR SCRAWL TELLS ALL

by MURIEL STAFFORD
Famous handwriting analyst

THE WORLD'S LEADERS, the men in whose hands rests our destiny, often are unlike the way they seem in public. But there is one sure-fire way to tell what they are really like—through their handwriting. For as we write, the motion of our pen reveals our emotional nature, inner complexes, personality traits, talents and abilities. And our signatures disclose more about us than any other part of our writing. Just what kind of men are our leaders? PARADE asked me to analyze the signatures of the 10 you see on these pages. Below you will find a character description of each, as his handwriting reveals it. Do these analyses surprise you? Or would you have guessed?

DAG HAMMARSKJÖLD

THE U.N. SECRETARY-GENERAL'S fascinating signature demonstrates the ultimate in tight-lipped diplomacy.
Only the low capitals are definable. A strong-pressed, wavy line with a leftward trend represents most of his name. This signature reveals an extraordinary mind that sifts facts, analyzes meticulously and controls every action. The writer is non-committal and ultra-cautious. The odd "H" in his last name is termed the "strategic H." Intuition and logic are blended. He may often seem to have the uncanny ability to read the minds of others and also to find the right word at the right time.

ruled by his concentrated mind.

FIDEL CASTRO

IN THE SIGNATURE of the Cuban Premier we find elaboration of the first initial. Letters are raggedly written with muddy strokes and an ink-flooded
"d." This is the writing of a deeply troubled man with a secret sense of guilt and suicidal impulses. Note the manner in which the letter "C" of Castro is evaded by using a stroke that returns deep into the word Fidel. This writer believes himself to be persecuted because, subconsciously, he wants to be punished. This is indeed a "danger flag signature."

CHARLES DE GAULLE

THE SIGNATURE of France's President discloses that his austere appearance covers a brilliant mind, a tender heart, a religious nature and impeccable character. He writes with tiny, quick, rightslanted letters. His pen pressure is not emphatic and he simplifies his capitals with a graceful motion. He is unpretentious and desirous of doing what is best and at the same time of pleasing.

JOHN F. KENNEDY

THE PRESIDENT'S official signature indicates that he is much more aware of the value of money than some of his opponents think. He begins his name with a "J" that resembles "8" and his middle initial could be mistaken for the numeral "0." Besides this significant symbolism the large closed loop of "y" denotes awareness of material needs with a tendency to conserve rather than to squander.

The capitals of President Kennedy's name vary from one signature to another but they are always gracefully simplified. Speed and fluency are increased by the manner in which he originates letters. This volatility stresses his talent for adjusting himself quickly to changing situations and difficult personalities. He is versatile, quietly assured. The succeeding letters are small, clear and steadily written with u-shaped letter "n's." Sincerity, poise and tact are combined. He prefers to persuade rather than to argue. The pen moves swiftly, easily, without hesitation. Our new President's solutions may often be startling in their simplicity and effectiveness. His signature indicates that he has the necessary eloquence to put across his ideas and the organizing ability to see them through.

Khrushchev is suspicious, undiplomatic

NIKITA KHRUSHCHEV

THE SOVIET PREMIER'S SIGNATURE reveals that instead of the confident showman he often pretends to be, he is irascible, jumpy and anxious. He has no illusions about himself and feels he must go to extremes to impress associates. This may explain his threats and noisy actions. He writes his name with small, trimmed letters and inconspicuous capitals. He stillly retraces the lines of his first initial. The upstroke in his second initial is a bit shaky. A keen, shrewd mind is evident but diplomacy is lacking. He is handicapped by suspicions of those who treat him tactfully and resentment of those who don't.

Jawaharlal Nehru

JAWAHARLAL NEHRU

THE PRIME MINISTER OF INDIA slants only his signature leftward. Otherwise he writes with crisp, decisive, right-slanted letters. The contradiction between the body of his writing and his signature indicates that he restrains himself tightly. His discretion is emphasized by the retouched letter "a." This non-committal role must be difficult for the Prime Minister, as he is by nature a forthright man with a fertile mind and decided views. His handwriting also proves that he has no personal vanity. A gift for organizing and executing with quiet efficiency is quite evident.

Harold Macmillan

HAROLD MACMILLAN

ENGLAND'S PRIME MINISTER shows a warm, zestful personality in his hearty, energetic strokes. His pen proceeds swiftly from the tall, unornamented "M," with last letters dwindling to a wavy line. Extraordinary powers of leadership and high-powered diplomacy are evident. The Prime Minister can impress his ideas with literary perfection and dramatic force. He is intuitively aware of the unspoken thoughts of his associates. Besides being eloquent, he's a genius at handling "tight" situations.

Gamal Abdel Nasser

GAMAL ABDEL NASSER

THE PRESIDENT OF THE UNITED ARAB REPUBLIC reveals in his signature an extremely disturbed state of mind. Some letters slant far to the left, others far to the right. The baseline is uneven and unsteady. Letters "s" and "e" are flooded with ink, denoting preoccupation with secret thoughts that make the writer uneasy. The elimination of beginning strokes and the dark pen pressure indicate a man who would like to take a decided and strong stand, but he is torn with doubts and indecision.

Konrad Adenauer

KONRAD ADENAUER

THE WEST GERMAN CHANCELLOR writes with an easy, curved motion that causes most of his name to resemble a succession of generous-sized letters "U." He has a cordial, gracious, obliging nature with a gift for smoothing troubled waters. His old-style capital "A," barely higher than the succeeding letters, indicates a modest, conservative approach.

Kwame Nkrumah

KWAME NKUMAH

THE SIGNATURE of the President of Ghana indicates that he is a difficult man with whom to deal. He is astute and wily with an egotistical air of assurance that covers a deep sense of rejection. He trusts no one. His capital letters tower self-importantly over the cramped slanted small letters. His signature reveals he is hard to reach, introverted, unpredictable.

New beautiful Chromaveil Cookware in Five "Bring to the Table" Porcelainized Colors on "Steel". Try this new idea in your home.

This marvelous new-type cookware will give you the "Best-Lookin'" Cooking, Ever! Chromaveil cookware is made of heavy gauge steel, it heats faster, more evenly. The modern square shape means you get 20% more cooking area... 20% more of full-flavor cooking, bakes, too! You store cooked foods in the refrigerator—re-heat when you're ready to serve. Or cook and serve.

Here's the most beautiful cookware you've ever seen—attractively modern styling with rich marbleized colors. It's porcelain outside... porcelain white inside... over steel. The colors won't fade—won't stain—and there's nothing to change the taste of food. Easy to keep clean, too! Try the "flame test". When you hold a match to Chromaveil you'll see it's so easy to care for, with a simple wipe of a cloth.

But act today! Phone and order your set of Chromaveil. You save $10.00 off the regular price. Cook... serve... and store with Chromaveil—the newest in cookware!

How to read to your child

TODAY MARKS THE BEGINNING of National Library Week. What better time to inventory your habits and attitudes as they apply to reading to your children? Here Mrs. Frances Lander Spain, president of the American Library Association and director of children's services, New York Public Library, offers guidelines on how you can read to your youngsters most enjoyably and effectively—for yourself as well as the child.

1. When is a child old enough to be read to?

Children less than 1 year old often enjoy the sound and rhythm of nursery rhymes without understanding them. By age 2, a child is ready for picture-story books. By age 3, he's usually ready for group reading.

2. Do boys and girls need separate stories?

Until age 9 or 10 this is a relatively minor problem, although studies show that girls tend to have more interest in boys' books than the other way around. Later, differences in interests are more sharply defined, although usually it is not necessary to conduct separate reading sessions.

3. What about reading to children of different ages?

It's best to keep the age-spread within a group of young children to three or four years. Thus, youngsters from age 3 to 6 can be handled as a group and read the same story, while a 3-year-old and an 8-year-old will want and need different stories. When reading to a group, it often works out best to use material at the age level of the oldest child.

4. When is the best time to read?

Almost any time the child wants a story and the parent can oblige. In many families, the story hour comes in the evening when dinner is over and pajamas are on. Reading on rainy afternoons is fun, and so is reading before naps. Beware of hard and fast schedules. If the child doesn't want a story, don't make him listen to one. If you don't want to read him a story, don't feel you have to.

5. What's the best place for storytelling?

The best place is where there are the least noise, fewest distractions and most comfort. It could be the living room couch, the playroom floor, on top of the bed, the back seat of a car on a long trip, beside a campfire or under a tree.

6. How long should you read?

If the child is under 6, usually 15 to 30 minutes are enough. With older children, 45 minutes are a maximum. A chapter a night or a single short story will often suffice. When a child becomes restless or tired, it's time to stop.

7. Can you read too often?

Yes. Reading can be too much of a good thing if it cuts into other activities important to the child.

8. What if the child wants the same story over and over?

There's nothing wrong with it. After the story begins to wear itself out, try to wean him away by exposing him to a second story, along with his favorite.

9. Should stories have happy endings?

Children must learn to cope with disappointment and unhappiness. The picture of life they get from books should be realistic. A few stories without happy endings are desirable. The Steadfast Tin Soldier and The Little Match Girl from Andersen's Fairy Tales, and The Dead Bird by Margaret Wise Brown are in this category.

10. How should you handle interrupting questions?

If you sense the child is asking because he really wants to know, by all means answer the question. If he's asking questions just to get attention, put off answering until the end of the story. Since reading aloud should be regarded more as entertainment than education, avoid defining words children might not understand unless a specific question is raised.

11. Is it a good idea to dramatize a story?

The reader is nothing more than the medium for bringing a story to life. Efforts to dramatize story characters, no matter how tempting to the "ham" in you, may be unnecessary and distracting. A good rule to follow is this: Read simply and expressively in a voice that is neither too loud nor too low-keyed, pausing at appropriate places for dramatic emphasis.

12. How do you show that you are not bored with the whole thing?

By not being bored. Read only what interests you and what you feel will interest your child. Stories that bore you should be left for someone else to read to the child. On the other hand, perhaps the greatest fun will come in exploring with your own youngster stories you knew yourself as a child, rediscovering episodes that pleased you most, anticipating his reactions and measuring them against your own. Obviously, this does not mean you should read him only your childhood favorites, making him feel guilty if he fails to enjoy them as you once did.

13. When does a child outgrow the story hour?

Some parents stop reading to their children once the youngsters have learned to read for themselves. This is unfortunate. For one thing, as the child grows older, his reading material becomes more interesting and varied. In addition, as his reading skills improve, he will be able to read to the younger children and eventually to the entire family, which is a gratifying experience for everyone concerned. Going one step further, in some families with children of high-school age, plays are read with each family member taking a part. In a sense, then, the answer is that a child reared in storytelling may never outgrow the story hour, until, of course, adulthood. Then, it is likely that he will embark upon a new adventure, reading aloud to his own children.

—ALVIN SCHWARTZ

A selected list of children's books

What kinds of books are best for youngsters?

In selecting books, first read or at least skim the story and ask yourself: What age group is it for? Does it make sense? Is there a strong story line? Is it lively, well-expressed, well-illustrated?

For pre-school children, choose books that are realistic and close to their own experience.

For youngsters of 8 or 9 and older the Grimm and Andersen fairy tales, plus other fantasies, adventure stories and books with an historical basis are appropriate. And don't overlook the imagery and rhythm of poetry.

Here are 20 books that Mrs. Spain believes will please you and your children. They are representative of thousands that are fun to read aloud.

Cheese sauce specials for spring

by BETH MERRIMAN

Parade food editor

IF YOU CAN MAKE a smooth, velvety, flavorful cheese sauce, you have at your command the basis of many a wonderful dish. This easy recipe has all those qualities and it's failure-proof and quick to make. Use it in any of the ways suggested here, or others of your own invention, and you'll really have a "special" dish. Tender, emerald green stalks of fresh asparagus, dressed with a ribbon of pimiento-flecked cheese sauce, are a thing of beauty. Crisp toast, topped with grilled tomatoes and bacon strips, laced with mushroom cheese sauce, is another fine dish; so is olive cheese sauce on deviled eggs.

Basic Cheese Sauce

 ½ teaspoon salt
 1 tablespoon prepared mustard
 2 cups (8 oz.) grated process American cheese

Heat evaporated milk in saucepan over low heat. Add salt, mustard and grated cheese; heat, stirring until cheese is melted. Makes two cups.

Spring Special

Add 1 can (4 oz.) pimiento, diced, to Basic Cheese Sauce. Serve with cooked asparagus spears.

Olive Spectacular

Add ½ cup chopped stuffed olives to Basic Cheese Sauce. Serve with deviled eggs.

All-American Special

Add 1 can (3 or 4 oz.) sliced mushrooms, drained, to Basic Cheese Sauce. Serve with grilled tomatoes and bacon on toast.

KITCHEN HINTS

- Add a few seedless raisins to a meat loaf mixture.
- Stir crumbled gingersnaps into chilled applesauce. Top with a swirl of dairy sour cream.
- Try using ¼ cup maple syrup in place of ¼ cup of the milk called for in making instant butterscotch pudding.
- Scatter crushed potato chips on hot consommé or bouillon.

FILM 'KILLS'

The shutter was opened when their eyes were closed

EVERY MOTION PICTURE and television company keeps a closely-guarded file of photos marked "kills." These are embarrassing or unflattering photographs of leading personalities that are never to be released.

Most numerous in the "kills" category are photographs of stars with their eyes closed or half-closed. An actor caught in such a candid condition almost immediately loses his heroic caste, and an actress, even Marilyn Monroe, loses her allure.

These photos—from one movie and five TV shows—prove why the shots when developed and printed were immediately marked "kill."

LETTERS from CAMP

DEAR MOMMY, My counselor sleeps all day like Daddy.
Love, CHOU

Now is the time that Mom and Dad begin to anticipate the peace and quiet that will be theirs when Junior goes to summer camp. But camp also means an avalanche of mail for the nation's postmen. Some of the kids' letters are joyful, pained, homesick, but many hilarious. A collection of the funniest will soon appear in a new book, Letters from Camp, by Bill Adler, with cartoons by Syd Hoff. Here is a choice sampling:

DEAR FOLKS, Yesterday our counselor told us all about where babies come from. You lied to me.

Love and XXXXXX, MARGARET

DEAR FOLKS, I like my counselor. Last night for dinner he let me have a peanut butter and cucumber sandwich instead of a lamb chop.

Love and XXXXX, DANNY

DEAR SIS, I showed your picture to my counselor. He thinks you're pretty. If you send me $1.00 I won't tell him that you wear braces on your teeth. PETE

DEAR FOLKS, Last night we had a spelling bee and I won. I am the best speller in the camp. Aren't you proud of me? We will have another spelling bee next Wededay.

Love, YOUR SUN PETER

DEAR AUNT MARTHA, Thank you for the cake you baked and sent me. Next time could you send me a cake from the store?

Love, ANITA

DEAR DAD, This camp isn't like the pictures in the book that man showed us. Your daughter, RITA

DEAR DAD, What size belt do you wear? I need to know because I am making you something in Arts and Crafts. It is a surprise.

Love, JUDY

DEAR MOM AND DAD: Yesterday we played catch-the-fly. I got eight flies. Here they are. Please save them for me. It is my new hobby.

Love, EILEEN

DEAR MOM, I miss your yelling at me.

Love, DIANE

DEAR MOM AND DAD, I love you very much. Please send your picture with a box of candy. Love, JOAN

DEAR MOTHER, We learned a new camp song. Here, I will sing it for you now. Do you like it?

Love, JANE.

DEAR FOLKS, Please read this letter tomorrow so I won't have to write again. Your son, MARTIN

DEAR MOM AND DAD, I am in the infirmary because I got bit by a snake. His name is Peter.

Love, CHRIS

DEAR MOM AND DAD, I am bringing a surprise home from camp. Please have ten pounds of horsemeat ready.

Love, JUDY

DEAR MISS BRÉNNER, I hope you have a nice summer and meet some man so you will be in a good mood when we come back to school.

Your pupil, JANET BUTTER

DEAR MOM, All the girls in my bunk wear lipstick. Can't I? Please send my written permission airmail special delivery. I have to show it to my counselor right away because I started last Saturday. Love, JEAN

DEAR MOM AND DAD, Please don't worry. I am learning to eat and write with my other hand.

Love, FRANK

DEAR FOLKS, Here is a picture of me with my best friend Stanley. He looks funny because he has the measles.

Your son, DONALD

DEAR MOM, I wrote to Aunt Elsie, Uncle Max, Grandma Bea, Uncle Joel, Mrs. Gross, Cousin Larry, Mrs. Valente and Grandma May like you told me to.

Now can I play some baseball?

Love and XXXXX, ALEXANDER

DEAR DAD, Everybody in camp was given an Indian name. I am Chief Bald Eagle so guess what I did with my hair?

Love, MARTY

DEAR DAD, I told the girls in my bunk that you have more money than their fathers do. They don't believe me. Please send your bankbook so I can show them.

Love, SUSAN

DEAR MOM, I forgot to turn off the TV set in my room.

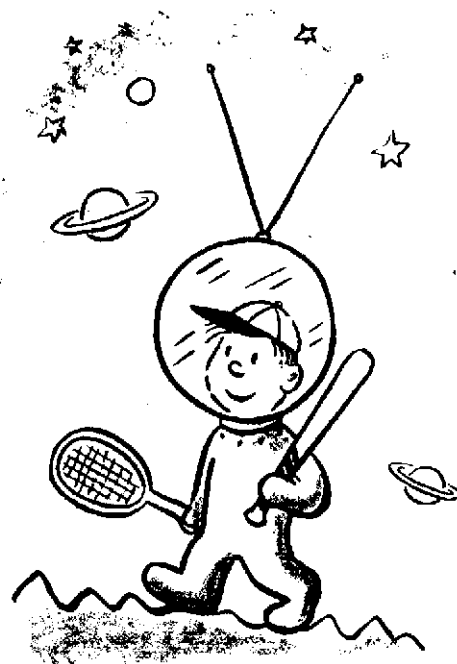

Love, LOREN

DEAR FOLKS, I'm in a hurry. More tomorrow.

Your son, DAVID

DEAR MOTHER, Betty is not my best friend at camp any more. She hasn't gotten a package from home in two weeks.

Love, JUDY

DEAR MOM AND DAD, I don't like camp any more. Next summer I want to go to the moon instead.

Love, ARNOLD

by PETER DRYDEN

Fire escape

Fever thermometer

Wall scale

Concealed fire escape: Here's added safety for your family (left) — a fire escape that looks like a drainpipe until you pull a handle. Immediately, it opens into a full-scale aluminum ladder — easy to step onto from the window because access is from the side instead of backwards as with usual ladders. A child can be down it in 10 seconds. It attaches to any exterior surface, needs no painting or maintenance. For details: Win-Chek Industries, Dept. PP, Moonachie, N. J.

Practical fever thermometer: This new one for your medicine chest (left) offers a useful "plus" — a red glass top shaped like a triangle. It gives you a firm grip and avoids slips when you handle or shake down the thermometer — and prevents rolling when you put it down. Oral, rectal, and baby types: $1. Gem, Dept. PP, 1559 Minford Place, New York, N. Y.

Kitchen wall scale: Fitting flat on the wall like a clock, this new scale (left) is always at hand for use. Flip down the balance pan cover and you can weigh up to 11 pounds and read exact weight easily through a built-in magnifying glass. Scale is 9½" in diameter, with white casing. Removable pan comes in red, white, green, yellow, blue. $11.95. Danine's, Dept. PP, 420 Union Ave., Irvington, N. J.

For the end of your rope: Add a boon for boatmen — a compound that chemically caps rope ends, eliminating the need for whipping and back splicing. Just cut your rope to length, dip the end in the jar of compound and the job is done. Curing overnight, the material forms an attractive seal that prevents raveling and is said to last the life of the line. 69¢. Electro Marine Products, Dept. PP, 4527 Delemere, Royal Oak, Mich.

Blanket kit for your car: Here's a good item to carry in your car trunk — a compact emergency blanket kit. It includes a 6'-x-8' disposable paper blanket that forms a cocoon-like enclosure to protect an accident victim from exposure and help combat shock. The treated paper is sturdy, wind- and rainproof, 75 per cent as warm as an Army blanket. Other items in the kit: a head shawl, ready-tie splint, head bandage or sling and first aid instructions. $2.98. Sterner Co., Dept. PP, P.O. Box 88, Forest Hills 75, N. Y.

Slide control: Now comes the first slide projector you can operate by wireless remote control. A palm-size control unit works from distances up to 40' and has two tiny transmitters that send out silent sound waves — at one frequency to change slides, another to focus them. For details: Bell & Howell, Dept. PP, 7100 McCormick Rd., Chicago 45, Ill.

the gimmick...
a smaller can?

No. But you've probably heard this question, or even asked it yourself, when you were told MJB is brimful and other coffees aren't. MJB is the same size as other coffee cans. MJB also weighs a pound. Yet unlike the others, it gives you more measures of coffee. Here's how it happens.

The more you expand premium quality beans in roasting, the more flavor you get. So at MJB we take the very best coffee beans money can buy and then we roast them in our own special way...to make the beans larger and more flavorful. When we grind these plump, rich beans and put them in the can, they fill it right to the brim. That's why you get more measures in every pound (anywhere from 2 to 8 more measures depending on which brands of coffee you compare with MJB).

When you're buying coffee this week, remember the fuller the coffee can, the finer the coffee flavor. Shake the can and see—then take home the MJB!

MY 7 HOURS OUT OF THIS WORLD

The man in the Martian mask above is PARADE's Sid Ross. He is in a seven-and-a-half-foot round underground "sensory deprivation chamber" at Veterans Administration Hospital, Oklahoma City—suspended in eight feet of water, cut off from the world and from sight, sound, smell, touch and taste.

Bizarre as it appears, the psychological experiment in which Ross is participating has important implications. Most obvious is its relationship to the U.S. man-in-space program. For instance, the astronauts, too, will hang weightless and isolated for long hours.

More broadly, the reactions of Ross, the astronauts and others all teach something fundamental about the sick and the well, according to the project director, psychiatrist Dr. Jay T. Shurley. Some people thrive on isolation, but many go to pieces. The experiment may foreshadow new ways to treat mental illness.

Ross' lonely ordeal began with three days of examinations. Then, fitted with head mask, breathing gear and a strip of buoyant plastic, he entered the tank. He remained a record-breaking six hours and 55 minutes, dictating into a microphone his total reactions and feelings. Ross has reconstructed, below, his first-person story of a mind in disintegration.

Parade's Sid Ross describes his record-breaking

Getting ready, reporter Sid Ross is fitted with flexible rubber mask before being isolated. On Ross' first run, mask slipped, leaked water, received emergency repairs.

OKLAHOMA CITY, OKLA.

THE FOOTSTEPS of the research team receded across the room. The heavy door of the isolation chamber clanged shut. The eerie slivers of light leaking through my mask winked out. "It is now 8:55 a.m.," said the intercom. It was, I reflected, my last word from the outside world.

So long, everyone, I thought with a flippancy I did not feel. It's been good to know you. Who knows what will happen before I see you again?

Submerged and masked, I must look ridiculous, I thought—like a frog with his nose out of water.

As soon as the thought flashed across my mind, a giant frog popped up in front of me. He hung motionless, blinking at me curiously through bulging eyes. "What are you doing here, son?" he seemed to ask.

A good question, I thought. Half a minute in the tank and I'm having hallucinations. Crisply I dictated a description of the frog. It disappeared, to be succeeded by an ocean liner. I described that, watching until it faded.

I waited for more visions, but nothing happened. I was beginning to feel warm, relaxed and cozy. "I could stay here for days—hours, anyway," I reported.

The whoosh-whoosh of my breathing was like a lullaby. How pleasant, I thought—no rent, no bills, no worries, no deadlines.

This must be what the human embryo feels like before birth, I thought . . .

With a jolt, I realized that someone was watching me. He was an elderly man, larger than life-size, with rimless glasses and snow-white hair. His lips were moving. His face took on a stern expression and he seemed to be saying something disapproving. Strain as I might, I could not catch his words.

Is this my subconscious coming out? Is my mind becoming disoriented? Will I go off my rocker and begin blabbing intimately personal things? I tried to steel myself against the possibility, but I was overcome by not caring, by being unable to do anything but drift along. Who knows if it's real? Who cares?

WHY WERE SPOTLIGHTS being played on me? They seemed to be beams of light coming from a balcony. There was a gum-chewing movie electrician manipulating them. Now the electrician was gone and there was a deathbed scene, something from a Grade-B movie. Now that was gone, too. Here marched a white picket fence. Before my eyes it changed into a porcupine.

Aloud, I recited an old joke: "How do porcupines make love? Answer: Very carefully."

The joke convulsed me with laughter. Now I tried a song, too, improvising a homemade ditty called "Dr. Shurley, his hair ain't curly."

Next, I heard snores—loud, rowdy, beautiful snores. Why, that can't be me, I thought. It's someone else—that person I see over there. Who is he? Why is he hanging up in that cocoon?

Startled, I realized it was I—I was in two places at once. My body was in some sort of a husk and above it hung a balloon with a string attached to it. I ought to bring them together again, I thought. But it was too much effort even to report it.

role in an important experiment

Action, that was what I needed. I tried to bring my outstretched hands together. It took a lot of concentration.

I began to hear noises. An airplane revved its engines. A train chugged. Was this a test? Were they piping these sounds in from the outside? Then the noises died away and I felt a puff of air. Someone had come into the isolation chamber. No, a storm was coming up. I could hear the wind howl and the windows rattle. Boy, I thought, I'm glad I'm not out in that!

NOW I WAS BEGINNING TO HAVE hallucinations in every dimension. Get hold of yourself, Ross, I told myself. Get back to reality. You're here on a magazine assignment. You're 46 years old, you're married, you have a son—what is your son's name? What does he look like? For the life of me I could not remember my family. It was terribly disappointing . . .

Why did I come to with such a start? I felt my heart pounding and a chill come over me. Above my head I saw a carved stone face with the blank eyes of statuary. Suddenly the mask's blank eyes lighted, and the eyes focused pencil-thin beams of light on me. The mask threw me such a malevolent look of hatred that I was petrified. I struggled to keep calm. The look intensified. I tried to shut out the horrible vision but I could not. I was powerless, trapped. In agitation I cried out. The hateful face dimmed and went away and I was filled with relief.

I dozed, only to be awakened by a very powerful smell of flapjacks. I could smell them and see them—almost, it seemed, touch them. Then there was a new smell—it was chlorine gas, a powerful whiff. It was choking me, burning my nostrils.

And that darned mask, it was pressing into my face. The horse-collar around my neck was digging into my chin. I felt waves of dizziness and nausea.

A PIPING VOICE TOUCHED MY EARS. Was that Daniel, my 4-year-old? I tried to focus on it but the voice died away. Then I saw an airplane, crashed into the ground before me. "That's not me," I said, "I didn't crash. Nobody else ever does. I mean nobody else, ever. Well, you know what I mean. Everybody else, I mean nobody ever else . . ." My voice thickened and I could not seem to talk sense.

And that terrible pain on my cheeks and chin. How long had I been here? An hour? Two hours? "Well," I said aloud, "if I've been here three hours and you have enough material, I'd like to come out now."

Lights blinked on and footsteps rang again in the chamber. Dr. Shurley came to the side of the tank.

"How long do you think you were in?" he asked. I figured for a moment. "Two and a half hours," I guessed. He told me I had been in nearly seven hours, total. It was a record. I felt pleased. I lit a cigarette and drew on it hungrily.

Dr. Shurley tells me that I recovered from my disorientation rapidly—more rapidly than he had expected. But for days afterward I smelled chlorine gas and nursed a mysteriously tender but unmarked chin. And even today I cannot throw off the terrified feeling of the stone face and its glare of hatred.

A promising breakthrough in knowledge of the mind

BESIDES SID ROSS, 23 men and eight women have gone through the sensory deprivation experiment. Each, in the view of project director Shurley, has contributed to basic knowledge of the human mind. Each has taught something about fantasy and hallucination—knowledge which may have practical application to such phenomena as "highway hypnosis," a driving hazard.

Dr. Shurley's and similar experiments have suggested changes in treatment of violent mental patients. Once hospitals isolated patients until they calmed down. Now hospitals station a nurse in the room, keep lights on, pipe in music and otherwise bombard patients with stimuli.

Dr. Shurley's project is descended from one conducted at McGill University, Montreal, in 1954, which probed why Allied soldiers gave in to brainwashing in Korea. McGill scientists theorized that loneliness was to blame. Experiments were inconclusive but cast light on the need to keep occupied.

Researchers at Boston City Hospital applied the McGill findings to mental upsets of polio patients. An experiment with volunteers in iron lungs showed immobilization, not the disease, often responsible for patient depression.

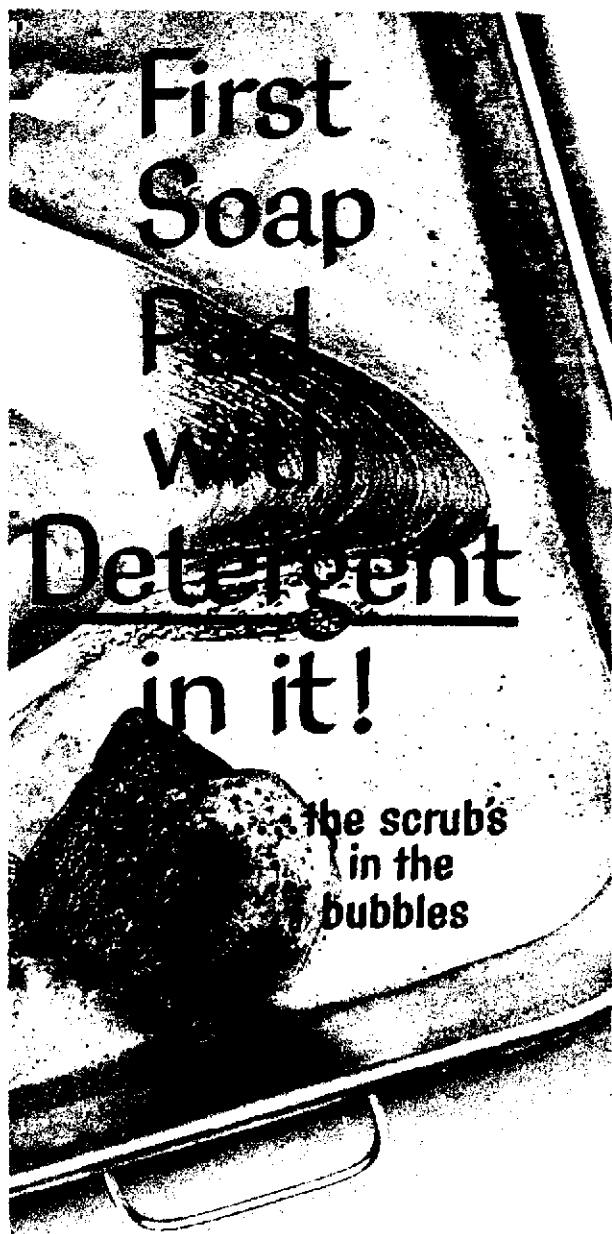

NEXT VOLUNTEERS WERE SUSPENDED in water at the National Institutes of Health, Bethesda, Md., to investigate what happened when they were deprived of their senses. Among volunteers was Dr. Shurley. When Dr. Shurley came here as professor of psychiatry, he continued the experiments.

Dr. Shurley's basic finding is that fantasy is not merely the product of a disordered mind. The most well-adjusted "see," "hear" and "smell" in the underground tank. With their minds deprived of normal stimuli, they dip into the subconscious and concoct them. What they imagine offers clues to what is going on in the inner mind.

This is the most exciting implication, for science long has sought a window into the subconscious, where the root of mental illness lies. "What often takes a psychotherapist six months to learn could possibly be found here in a few hours," Dr. Shurley says. When science can effectively look beneath the surface of the mind, more successful therapy cannot be far behind.

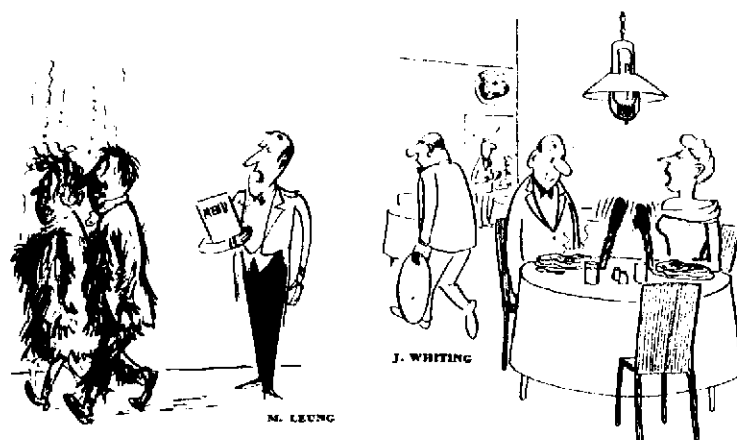

Listening in, project director Dr. Jay T. Shurley and assistant Mrs. Cathryn Walters monitor Ross' reactions.

LET'S EAT OUT

"We're eating out tonight, dear."

Going out for dinner can be lots of fun for any couple—it's a pleasant change for the husband and a welcome vacation for the wife. But eating out has its hazards, too, as PARADE's comic artists demonstrate in these drawings.

"Dance? . . . and let two dollars' worth of soup get cold?"

by PHYLLIS INEZ

Phyllis Inez, from Pasadena, is a songstress turned comedian. "I was a singer 10 years ago," she explains, "but now I'm a comedian. I was a dime a dozen, but now I'm a comedian, especially in the comedy clubs." Phyllis got an act together in which she played such leading supper clubs and hotels as the Adolphus in Dallas, the Park Lane in Denver, the Royal Nevada in Las Vegas, the Hacienda in Fresno. Here are some of the gags customers find appealing:

LAS VEGAS CHORUS GIRL talking to a gentleman she had just met: "Tell me about yourself—your background, your school, your hobbies... your Dun & Bradstreet rating."

THE DOCTORS OUT HERE in California sure are expensive. One doctor in Beverly Hills said to me, "Everything is going to be all right, dear. Just open your mouth and stick out your checkbook."

ONE DAY MY BOSS walked into the office and found me down on my knees, praying for a raise. "Aha," he said. "Going over my head, eh?"

THIS SPACE SHIP LANDED on the French Riviera. A space man jumped out, walked up to a native and said, "Take me to Brigitte Bardot. To heck with your leader."

THIS GIRL WAS 28 years old, and most anxious to get married. But each time she brought a boyfriend home, her father didn't approve of the guy. Finally she went to her doctor for advice.

"Simple," he said. "Date men who look and behave just like your father. Then he'll surely approve."

So the girl picked out a man who was very much like her father and began seeing him steadily.

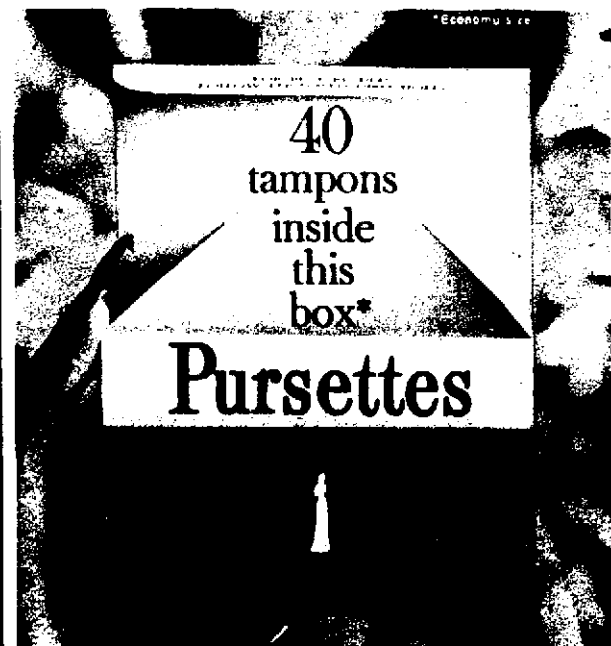

A month later she returned to her doctor. "Your suggestion didn't work," she explained. "I dated a man exactly like my father, but when I brought him home and introduced him, my mother shuddered. 'I can't stand a man like that,' she said."

A MAN WAS DRINKING at a bar, bothering no one. Suddenly a monkey scooted across the bar and upset his martini. The customer complained to the bartender.

"It's not my fault," the bartender answered. "The monkey belongs to the piano player over there."

So the customer walked over to the pianist and said, "Listen, do you know your monkey upset my martini?"

The pianist looked up and without batting an eyelash said, "I don't know it, Jack. But if you'll just hum a few bars, I'll try and fake it."
